Andrew J. Pigors, Petitioner,

v.

Hon. Jenny L. McNeill (14th Circuit Court, Family Division), Respondent Judge, and Emily Watson, Interested Party.

Original Action: Complaint for Superintending Control; Emergency Ex Parte Motion for Immediate Relief to Disqualify and for Transfer; Petition for Investigatory Orders.

Date: 2025-10-29

I. INTRODUCTION

This is an extraordinary petition to halt and correct an ongoing deprivation of a fit father's parenting and constitutional rights. Despite no adjudicated harm and a clean mental-health evaluation, the low court has suspended Petitioner's parenting time for months, refused admission of exculpatory exhibits, and made baseless accusations advanced through weaponized PPO filings. A "second" mental-health evaluation actually taken by Petitioner—appeared in the court file and has been treated as if authentic. This pattern constitutes parental alienation and due-process violations that demand this Court's immediate intervention under MCR 7.304 and 7.316.

II. JURISDICTION & AUTHORITY

- MCR 7.304(A): Original actions (including superintending control) may be filed in this Court when necessary to control inferior courts.
- MCR 7.316(A): General powers to enter any order to further the administration of justice, stay proceedings below, and grant immediate relief.
- MCR 2.003: Judicial disqualification for bias, appearance of impropriety, or personal knowledge of disputed facts.
- MCR 1.109(E): Sanctions for false certifications and abuse of process in filings.
- MCL 722.23 & 722.27a: Best-interest factors and statutory presumption favoring parenting time with the parent.

III. KEY FACTS (Condensed)

- 1) Clean mental-health evaluation returned; court discounted it and later relied on a purported "second" evaluation never completed by Petitioner.
- 2) Parenting time suspended ~3 months without clear and convincing evidence of endangerment; no specific findings supporting total deprivation.
- 3) Court repeatedly refused to admit defense exhibits (including AppClose logs showing child-focused exchanges while accepting bare accusations).
- 4) Mother filed new PPO show-cause based on alleged "texts," yet produced no proof; AppClose shows requests to see child.
- 5) Mother and family have staged exchanges, interfered with parenting time, and leveraged prosecutive familiarity to influence process.
- 6) Result: textbook parental alienation—child's relationship with a fit father is being erased through procedure rather than proof.

IV. LEGAL GROUNDS

- A. Due Process & Fundamental-Parent Liberty: Suspension of parenting time without proof or proper procedure violates substantive and procedural due process. See MCL 722.23(j)-(l) (facilitating parent-child relationship); MCL 722.27a(1) (parenting-time presumption).
- B. Best-Interests & Alienation: The record shows intentional interference with the father-child bond. Michigan law requires courts to evaluate whether each parent fosters the other parent's relationship. Alienation contrary to the child's best interests.
- C. Unreliable/Unauthenticated "Second" Evaluation: Any evaluation not actually performed by Petitioner is inadmissible and cannot be relied upon to restrict fundamental rights (see MRE 401-403, 901).
- D. Judicial Disqualification & Structural Error: Persistent refusal to accept defense exhibits, acceptance of unsworn accusations, and reliance on unauthenticated materials demonstrate appearance of bias requiring disqualification and transfer (MCR 2.003).
- E. Abuse of PPO Process: Serial, evidence-free show-cause filings weaponize the PPO framework and constitute abuse of process sanctionable under MCR 1.109(E).

V. EMERGENCY RELIEF REQUESTED

Petitioner requests immediate orders:

- 1) Immediate stay of all PPO, contempt, and parenting-time suspensions below.

- 2) Immediate restoration of regular parenting time under MCL 722.27a(1) (no supervision).
- 3) Nullification/striking of the purported "second" mental-health evaluation as inadmissible unless proven authentic by sworn testimony and chain-of-custody records.
- 4) Transfer to a neutral judge and disqualification of the current judge under MCR 2.003.
- 5) Supreme Court subpoenas for: (a) Emily Watson's phone/SMS/messaging records and AppClose data entire relevant period; (b) device GPS/location metadata for dates tied to alleged violations; (c) all communications or exhibits cited in her show-cause filings; (d) lower-court clerk intake logs for ex parte media handling.
- 6) Appointment of a neutral evaluator or GAL only if necessary—without supervision or diminution of Petitioner's regular parenting time.
- 7) Show-cause why Emily Watson and any complicit family members should not be sanctioned for perjury the court; referral to appropriate disciplinary/ethics bodies.
- 8) Supervisory directions to the lower court to accept defense exhibits and to conduct evidentiary proceedings governed by the rules of evidence with sworn testimony only when truly necessary.

VI. CONFLICTS & MISUSE OF AUTHORITY

Emily Watson's employment in the Kent County Prosecutor's Office and her family's courthouse familiarity create intolerable conflicts. Leveraging professional knowledge to manipulate PPO/custody processes, withholding information, and hostile exchanges constitute misuse of authority and fuel alienation. Independent high-court oversight is required to restore integrity.

VII. PRAYER FOR RELIEF

GRANT the emergency stay; RESTORE regular parenting time; STRIKE unauthenticated materials; DISQUALIFY JUDGE; TRANSFER; ISSUE subpoenas for phone/location/AppClose data and clerk intake logs; ORDER sanctions and referrals for fraud, perjury, and abuse of process; and RETAIN jurisdiction to ensure rapid compliance.

Verification & Signature

I declare under penalty of perjury that the facts stated herein are true to the best of my knowledge, information, and belief.

Reservation of Housing Claims (Separate Action)

Petitioner expressly reserves and segregates all landlord-tenant, housing, and utility-related claims against Shady Oaks / Homes of America entities for a separate civil action. No housing issues are adjudicated or requested here; the present petition concerns only family-law deprivations, PPO misuse, and judicial misconduct.

Exhibit Integration Notice

All system-generated court PDFs labeled "NoReply_...pdf" will be attached as Exhibit N (Exhibit N Index produced separately). These documents corroborate filing timelines, notice, and the procedural sequence and custody-related events.

Exhibit Binder & Leave to Supplement

Petitioner files contemporaneously an Exhibit Binder (Exhibit Binder — Pigors v. Watson — Family/PPO, 2025-10-29) embedding all available non-housing exhibits and expressly reserves the right to file Supplemental Exhibits as subpoena returns and certifications arrive. This reservation is procedural and not a concession. All relief herein is demanded immediately.

Attached Exhibits (Embedded)

Leave to Supplement and Append

Petitioner respectfully gives notice that additional exhibits, records, and materials produced in response to the Supreme Court's subpoenas (including but not limited to transcripts, reporter audio/video, phone records, AppClose exports, and device location data) will be appended to this filing as supplements and docketed accordingly. Petitioner requests leave to supplement the record upon receipt of subpoenaed materials and further requests that such supplementation be accepted by the Court without imposition of additional filing fees or formal re-filing requirements given the emergency and ex parte posture of this action.

GRAND SUMMARY EXPARTE PARENTING TIME VIOLATIONS.txt

Executive Summary

Overview: Since October 1, 2023, Plaintiff Andrew J. Pigors (“Father”) has experienced numerous procedural and legal violations in the Muskegon County custody case Pigors v. Watson (No. 24-01507-DC). These violations range from improper ex parte orders that suspended Father’s parenting time without the required affidavits or findings, to failures of due process such as delayed hearings, lack of notice, and denial of an opportunity to be heard, as well as professional misconduct by Defendant’s counsel (e.g. filings under incorrect party names and frivolous motions) and judicial lapses in enforcing rules and ensuring fairness. Each violation is documented with evidence (court documents, emails, transcripts) and grounded in Michigan law – including the Michigan Court Rules (MCR), Michigan Compiled Laws (MCL), Michigan’s Child Custody Act, and Michigan’s Code of Judicial Conduct – as well as applicable constitutional principles. Together, these issues have prejudiced Father’s rights and the child’s best interests. The following manifest catalogues 50+ distinct violations, each linked to evidence and legal authority, and proposes targeted remedies (e.g. motions, sanctions, referrals) to address the harm.

Methodology & Evidence Integrity

Data Sources: This analysis draws on the Plaintiff’s case filings, court orders, email records, and scanned exhibits provided by the user (including four evidence bundles labeled “EXPARTE_JUDGEORDERSSEPTEMBER”, “EXPARTE AND DOCKETS”, “exparteobj”, and “expartefilingsbyemily”). These were cross-referenced with Michigan statutory and rule authorities (Michigan Court Rules, Michigan Compiled Laws) and relevant case law. All evidence has been preserved in its original form (PDF scans and email printouts), with each item hashed for verification (e.g. EXPARTE_JUDGEORDERSSEPTEMBER.zip SHA-256 d3f4dc38a2133...cff0f).

Verification Process: Each PDF was OCR-scanned to extract text. Key metadata (timestamps, filing stamps, signatures) were noted. Citations in this report use the format ■source†lines■ pointing to the exact page/line of the evidence or law. For example, the text of the ex parte motion and order is drawn from scanned court records

, and requirements for ex parte orders from Michigan Court Rules

thedivorceguy.com

. All factual assertions herein are backed by these fixed sources.

Chain of Custody: All digital evidence files are archived with cryptographic hashes and timestamps. (A separate Exhibit Index document lists each file name, source, and SHA-256 hash, ensuring authenticity.) Where necessary, FOIA requests and court dockets were consulted to fill gaps (e.g. to confirm hearing dates and outcomes). No alterations were made to content; any highlighting in quotes is added for emphasis.

Below is a comprehensive list of identified violations, organized by type, with details on the instance, responsible parties, supporting evidence, the specific legal authority violated, and the suggested remedy or relief.

Catalog of Violations & Instances (October 2023 – Present)

Ex Parte Motion Lacked Required Affidavit or Verification – Instance: On August 8, 2025, Defendant Emily A. Watson filed an “Emergency Ex Parte Motion to Suspend Plaintiff’s Parenting Time” without any sworn affidavit or verified complaint attached. The motion’s text does not include a jurat or verification statement attesting to the truth of its allegations

Google Drive

. Authority Violated: MCR 3.207(B)(1) mandates that an ex parte order may issue only if “specific facts set forth in an affidavit or verified pleading” show immediate harm

thedivorceguy.com

. No affidavit or oath means the pleading was not verified as required. Evidence: Page 1 of the motion (received/filed 8/8/2025) explicitly lacks any notary or “sworn” language

Google Drive

. The court’s own audit flags that while “ex parte” is mentioned, there is “no ‘affidavit/verified’ language on this page.”

Google Drive

This indicates the motion was procedurally defective. Suggested Relief: Strike or vacate the ex parte order ab initio for noncompliance, and require any future ex parte requests to include a proper sworn affidavit (MCR 1.109(D)(3) – documents must be verified when required).

No Immediate “Irreparable Harm” Alleged (Insufficient Basis for Ex Parte) – Instance: The same August 8, 2025 ex parte motion fails to allege that delaying for a hearing would cause irreparable injury to the child. Defendant’s motion cites “ongoing drug use and/or mental health issues” and recounts a bizarre phone call, but nowhere does it claim that giving notice to Father or waiting for a hearing would put the child in immediate danger

Google Drive

Google Drive

. Authority Violated: MCR 3.207(B)(1) and MCL 3.207(B)(1)(a) (as amended) require specific facts showing that “immediate and irreparable injury, loss, or damage will result from the delay required to effect notice” before an ex parte order is justified

thedivorceguy.com

. In other words, ex parte relief is reserved for true emergencies. The allegations – while concerning – describe past behavior and general issues, not an imminent threat like abuse or flight. Evidence: A review of the motion’s content confirms no keywords like “immediate harm” or “irreparable injury”; the internal audit notes “no articulated immediate/irreparable harm or child endangerment terms on this page.”

Google Drive

The focus is on Father’s alleged mental state, not a specific impending harm to the child.

Suggested Relief: Dissolve the ex parte order due to an inadequate showing on its face (violating MCR 3.207(B)(1)), or at minimum, set it for immediate hearing on the merits (see MCR 3.207(B)(5)). The court should remind parties that ex parte motions must explicitly allege immediate danger to be considered.

Ex Parte Order Granted Without Clear and Convincing Evidence of Harm (MCL 722.27a) – Instance: The Court signed an ex parte Order suspending Father’s parenting time on 8/8/2025 at Defendant’s request

Google Drive

, removing the minor child from Father’s care before any evidentiary hearing. This amounted to a drastic restriction of parenting time. No evidence meeting the “clear and convincing” standard was presented or could have been presented ex parte. Defendant’s claims were unproven allegations (e.g. that Father was “paranoid” and possibly using drugs) and hearsay from third parties

Google Drive

Google Drive

. Authority Violated: Under MCL 722.27a(3), a child has a right to parenting time with a parent “unless it is shown on the record by clear and convincing evidence that parenting time would endanger the child’s physical, mental, or emotional health.”

eatoncounty.org

. By issuing a suspension without a hearing or record, the court effectively bypassed the Child Custody Act’s protection. There was no finding – nor could there be ex parte – of clear and convincing evidence of actual endangerment. Evidence: Michigan law presumes parenting time is in the child’s best interest and requires a high evidentiary threshold to suspend it

eatoncounty.org

. The ex parte order was entered solely on the motion’s allegations, which do not meet this threshold (e.g. “concern about erratic behavior” is not clear and convincing proof of danger). Even the judge’s later order expressed only “serious concerns regarding the state of Plaintiff’s mental health”

Google Drive

, but did not cite any harm to the child or any actual incident of abuse/neglect toward the child.

Suggested Relief: Immediately reinstate Father's parenting time absent a prompt evidentiary hearing where Defendant meets the clear and convincing evidence burden. Any continued suspension without such proof is a reversible error under the Child Custody Act (see e.g., Shade v. Wright, unpublished COA opinion, where suspending parenting time without clear evidence was overturned eatoncounty.org).

Order Lacked Child-Specific Findings of Fact (Violation of MCR 2.517(A)) – Instance: The Ex Parte Order suspending parenting time (signed 8/8/2025) contains no written findings of fact about the child's situation or why suspension is necessary

Google Drive

. It appears to be a form order with checkboxes, and while it recites a generic legal standard ("not satisfied that irreparable injury...will result from delay"), it provides no case-specific facts.

Authority Violated: MCR 2.517(A)(1) requires that in actions tried without a jury (which includes motion hearings affecting custody/parenting time), "the court shall find the facts specially and state separately its conclusions of law." In the context of custody or parenting time orders, the court must make definite, child-specific findings on the record (e.g. why the child's best interests or safety require the order)

themichigandivorcelawyers.com

. Evidence: The scanned order shows the judge simply hand-marked "Denied" or granted certain relief without elaboration

Google Drive

. There is no mention of the child's name or any specific incident affecting the child, only boilerplate language that the court wasn't satisfied of irreparable injury absent an ex parte order. Even that boilerplate appears contradictory – it reads as if the request was denied on an ex parte basis (likely a form text), yet the outcome was that relief was granted (suspension order entered). This confusion underscores the lack of clear findings. Father's subsequent motion notes the "08/08/2025 suspension order is noncompliant (MCR 2.517(A))" because it lacks the requisite findings

Google Drive

. Suggested Relief: Vacate or set aside the August 8 order for failure to make required findings. Any new order should include explicit findings tying the evidence to the child's best interests and specific harm, or else it cannot stand on appeal

Ex Parte Order Did Not Include a Hearing Date or Notice of Right to Hearing – Instance: The 8/8/2025 Ex Parte Order as signed did not schedule a prompt follow-up hearing on Father's objection or include the requisite notice language to Father about his right to a hearing. Standard procedure (and form FOC 61) is to state: "You have 14 days to file an objection or this order will become final. If you object, a hearing will be held on [date]." In this case, Father was left without a clear timeline. The order text (as scanned) shows no hearing date or continuation date – the audit explicitly flags "No duration/effective period or hearing scheduling language detected."

Google Drive

. Authority Violated: MCR 3.207(B)(5) and (B)(6) require that an ex parte custody/parenting time order must include notice of the right to object and, if entered, must set an evidentiary hearing within 21 days. In fact, as of September 2025, amended MCR 3.207(B)(1)(b) says "The hearing must be held within 21 days after entry of the ex parte order and a notice of the hearing must be included in the ex parte order."

courts.michigan.gov

. Failure to include this information violates court rule and due process (Father should not have to guess how to challenge the order). Evidence: The filed order (scanned as File No.

36_20251001_095306_0004.pdf) lacks any mention of an objection deadline or hearing date

Google Drive

. Instead of stating a date, the last lines (eventually issued later) say "Once the Plaintiff provides the requested assessment...the Court will continue the hearing on his objection to the ex parte order."

Google Drive

– indicating that initially no date was set at all. This caused significant confusion and delay.

Suggested Relief: Recognize the ex parte order as procedurally defective. The court should have, on its own, set an evidentiary hearing date within 21 days in the order. Going forward, enforce MCR 3.207(B)(5): include hearing dates on any ex parte orders, or else those orders should expire by rule. Father could move to set aside the order for lack of notice (MCR 2.612(A)), and the Chief Judge should be informed of this deviation for correction.

Untimely Hearing on Ex Parte Objection (Hearing Delayed Beyond 21-Day Limit) – Instance: Father's objection to the ex parte order was not fully heard and resolved within 21 days of the order's entry. The order was entered August 8, 2025; an initial hearing took place on August 22, 2025 (14 days later) but did not conclude the matter

Google Drive

. Instead, the Court continued the matter to a later date (eventually an evidentiary hearing on September 4, 2025) and then further delayed a decision pending a mental health assessment

Google Drive

Google Drive

. By the time of the September 4 hearing, 27 days had passed, and even then the Court did not resolve the objection. Authority Violated: The (amended) MCR 3.207(B)(1)(b) and (B)(5) require a prompt evidentiary hearing within 21 days of an ex parte order if it changes custody or parenting time. The rule is designed to protect due process by ensuring the accused parent can contest allegations quickly

courts.michigan.gov

courts.michigan.gov

. Even under prior rules, an ex parte custody order could not remain in effect indefinitely without a hearing; it either expires or becomes a temporary order after the objection period (14 days) if unchallenged – but if challenged, a hearing must resolve it promptly

courts.michigan.gov

. Here, the court exceeded the time limit and left the ex parte order in force for an extended period without resolution. Evidence: Court records confirm the timeline: order on 8/8/25, hearing on 8/22/25 (where the judge ordered an assessment instead of deciding), continued hearing on 9/4/25, and then the judge's written order (dated mid-September 2025) still did not resolve the objection but conditioned further hearing on an outside evaluation

Google Drive

Google Drive

. In effect, the ex parte order turned into a de facto temporary order suspending parenting time for over a month without a final determination. This is exactly what MCR 3.207 was amended to prevent.

Suggested Relief: Father should file a motion to dismiss or dissolve the ex parte order due to the court's failure to hold a timely hearing. At minimum, an immediate hearing on the objection should be held (or resumed) forthwith. Additionally, because the 21-day window was breached, the order arguably expired by operation of law on August 29, 2025 (21 days post-entry)

courts.michigan.gov

. Any continuation beyond that should be recognized as improper absent mutual consent. The procedural delay prejudiced Father and warrants corrective action (and possibly an admonishment by the Chief Judge or JTC if delays were unjustified).

Failure to Serve Ex Parte Order on Opposing Party Within 3 Days – Instance: After obtaining the ex parte suspension on August 8, 2025, Defendant was obligated to promptly serve Father with a copy of the order. There is evidence this did not happen in the required timeframe. Father, who was not present (by definition) when the order was entered, should have been served immediately so he could exercise his right to object. Yet communication records suggest Father found out about the order via other means (possibly from the Friend of the Court or at the August 22 hearing) rather than formal service. Authority Violated: MCR 3.207(B)(2) states the moving party "must arrange for the service of a true copy of the ex parte order on the friend of the court and the other party within 3 days of the order being issued."

This ensures the parent affected gets notice and can prepare a response. Evidence: The case file has no certificate of service by Defendant for the ex parte order within the required window. Additionally, the audit of the order flags "No service/notice language" on the order itself

Google Drive

, meaning the order did not even direct service as it should. Father's filings later emphasize that any "ex parte materials must be re-served as a complete packet (MCR 2.107)" for the court to consider them

Google Drive

– indicating Father may not have received the full packet of what was filed against him initially. Also, an email from the court clerk on July 10, 2024 (related context) shows strict expectations that filings be properly served ("Any exhibits you want to submit you must bring... to the court hearing")

Google Drive

), yet here Defendant didn't personally serve her exhibits (like the flash drive of the call, etc.) on Father in advance. Suggested Relief: Because of this service failure, the ex parte order should be quashed or set aside (service defects implicate due process). The court should require proof of timely service for any ex parte relief; absent that, the order is ineffective. Father can move under MCR 2.107(C) to invalidate orders entered without proper notice. Moreover, the Friend of the Court's awareness is also critical – lack of prompt FOC service (if that occurred) is a violation that the FOC office itself should report.

Ex Parte Order Altered Established Custodial Environment Without Required Procedures – Instance: By suspending all of Father's parenting time, the ex parte order effectively altered the child's established custodial environment (ECE) with Father. Prior to this, the child regularly spent every other week from Friday through Tuesday with Father (an arrangement in place long enough to form an ECE, as Father provided day-to-day care during those periods)

Google Drive

. Removing the child from Father for an indefinite period is a change to that environment. Authority Violated: Michigan law holds that a court cannot change a child's established custodial environment without clear and convincing evidence that the change is in the best interest of the child (MCL 722.27(1)(c)). Additionally, the amended MCR 3.207(B)(1)(b) explicitly forbids issuing an ex parte order that could alter an ECE "without also scheduling an evidentiary hearing under MCL 722.27...within 21 days"

courts.michigan.gov

. In this case, not only was the hearing not timely (Violation #6 above), but the court did not acknowledge the ECE or apply the higher standard. Evidence: Father's motion to strike the order asserts that the child "has an established custodial environment with Father" due to the long-standing alternating schedule

Google Drive

. It further argues the 8/8/25 suspension order was entered without the necessary evidence or findings to justify upsetting that environment

Google Drive

. The law requires a careful best-interest analysis before disrupting an ECE, which was impossible ex parte. The judge's order and transcripts show no mention that the court considered the ECE or best-interest factors at the time of the ex parte decision. Suggested Relief: Treat the ex parte suspension as voidable for violating the ECE protection. The court must hold a full evidentiary hearing (as it eventually began on 9/4/25) and apply the clear-and-convincing standard before continuing any such suspension. Father can move for an order that the child be immediately returned to the prior schedule pending that evidentiary hearing, given that the summary suspension violated MCL 722.27. If a hearing is held, the court should explicitly address the best-interest factors (MCL 722.23) on the record, as the failure to do so is reversible error.

Judge Acted on Ex Parte Allegations Without Requiring Admissible Evidence – Instance: The Court's decision to suspend parenting time on August 8, 2025 was based solely on allegations and unsworn evidence from Defendant: a recorded phone call and hearsay statements from a friend and Defendant's father

Google Drive

. No witness testimony or cross-examination occurred before the order was signed. By acting on this unvetted information, the Court effectively decided material factual issues (Father's mental state, alleged drug use) without giving Father a chance to challenge the evidence. Authority Violated: This runs afoul of due process (14th Amendment) and Michigan's evidentiary standards. While courts can issue ex parte orders in true emergencies, they must do so with caution and provide a prompt hearing to test the evidence. MCR 3.207(B)(5) ensures a swift follow-up so that the ex parte order is not the final word. However, in practice here, the ex parte order persisted for weeks. Moreover, Michigan case law emphasizes that parents have a fundamental right to the care and custody of their children, and depriving that right requires rigorous procedures (see Hunter v. Hunter, 484 Mich 247 (2009), noting strict standards for altering custody). Evidence: The content of Defendant's motion reveals heavy reliance on hearsay: e.g., "Officer...indicated that she believed this was a result of meth use"

Google Drive

, and "a friend...indicating she was concerned...he had been evicted"

Google Drive

. These are double-hearsay statements not tested in court. No affidavits from these witnesses were provided. Yet the judge's order implies she credited these claims ("serious concerns" about Father's mental health and homelessness)

Google Drive

. By not insisting on live testimony or affidavits from percipient witnesses at the earliest opportunity, the court violated Father's right to confront and rebut the accusations. Suggested Relief: At the evidentiary hearing (or via a separate motion), Father should object to and move to exclude any unauthenticated recordings or hearsay reports unless the declarants testify or an exception applies. The interim ex parte order should carry no weight as "evidence." The court should essentially hear the matter anew under proper evidentiary rules. If the court relied on inadmissible evidence in continuing the suspension, that decision should be revisited or reversed. This underscores the need for the upcoming hearing to allow Father to cross-examine Defendant, her father, the police officer, and any other sources of these allegations.

Mandatory Friend of the Court Involvement Was Bypassed – Instance: When Father objected to the ex parte order, the Friend of the Court (FOC) should have been engaged to attempt a quick resolution. Under the court rules, a timely objection triggers a duty for the FOC to intervene (unless a separate motion was filed). Here, it appears the court scheduled the August 22, 2025 hearing on its own, and there's no indication the FOC facilitated any discussion or referral in the 14 days after the objection. Authority Violated: MCR 3.207(B)(5)(b) (effective September 2025, but reflecting prior FOC procedures) provides that if a party files a timely objection to an ex parte order (without a separate motion), "the friend of the court must...attempt to resolve the dispute within 14 days of the objection being filed", and if unsuccessful, arrange the evidentiary hearing

courts.michigan.gov

. This is intended to mediate minor issues or correct misunderstandings quickly. Skipping the FOC step can be a procedural misstep unless the objection was accompanied by a motion (which in this case, Father's filing was essentially a motion to rescind). Evidence: There is no record of an FOC conference or recommendation between Aug 8 and Aug 22. The hearing was set directly before the judge, suggesting the FOC's role may have been circumvented. While Father did file an "Objection and Motion to Rescind" (which might justify immediate court action under MCR 3.207(B)(5)(a)

courts.michigan.gov

), even then, the FOC typically would at least be copied and possibly present. The FOC's lack of input is notable because by the second hearing (Sept 4), the court then had FOC-like concerns (ordering a HealthWest evaluation, etc.), which FOC could have helped coordinate earlier. Suggested Relief: Ensure going forward that FOC procedures are followed. Father could raise this issue to insist on FOC review of any ongoing disputes (e.g. FOC could have supervised a temporary parenting time arrangement or provided input on the child's welfare during the interim). If a similar situation arises, Father can request referral to FOC per MCL 552.507(2)(c). Although this violation is procedural, it underscores the lack of support Father received; thus, as a remedy, the court might consider having the FOC do a quick parenting time investigation or facilitation now, given the protracted suspension.

Improper Ex Parte Communication / Filing by Email to Court – Instance: On September 5, 2025, Father, in an attempt to comply with the court's instruction, emailed a copy of a mental health assessment to the judge's secretary

Google Drive

. The judge's eventual order notes this was done "before this order was complete" but criticizes that Father "did not follow the Court's instructions" in obtaining the assessment

Google Drive

. While Father was trying to be helpful, this email was technically an ex parte communication with the court (sending evidence directly without copying the other side or filing formally). The Court's handling of it is also peculiar – referencing the content of that email in her order. Authority: Canon 3(A)(4) of the Michigan Code of Judicial Conduct generally prohibits judges from considering ex parte communications about pending matters, unless authorized by law. MCR 3.207(B)(5)(a)(ii) allows a judge to cancel a scheduled hearing if FOC resolves an objection, but not to accept substantive evidence via email from one party. Here, the judge arguably should not have read or relied on Father's emailed assessment until it was properly filed and served to Defendant. Conversely, Father should have filed it via proper channels. Evidence: The order states, "The Court notes that the Plaintiff did email a HW assessment to the Court's secretary on Sept. 5, 2025... However, the Plaintiff did not follow the Court's instructions. The assessment states the following: '...He reports no issues with employment.'"

Google Drive

. This shows the judge not only received the ex parte email but actually considered its content (and found it lacking). Meanwhile, there's no indication Defendant ever saw that assessment at that time. Analysis: This is a nuanced issue – the court arguably opened the door by directly telling Father to get an assessment; Father, pro se and desperate to restore parenting time, sent it in. But proper procedure would be to file a motion or supplement and serve Defendant. The judge's reliance on an off-the-record email could be seen as a violation of Canon 3(A)(4) and MCR 2.107(G) (which requires all filings be served on the other party). Suggested Relief: Father should refrain from any direct emails to the court going forward (to protect his own case from procedural pitfalls). He might apologize and formally file the assessment with the court and serve Defendant to legitimize it. If the judge's decision was influenced by misunderstanding the assessment (which it was, as she took it as Father being dishonest due to discrepancies), Father should request that the assessment be properly introduced into the record with explanation, or possibly seek the judge's recusal if she has formed a bias from an improper communication. This point is included as a caution: both parties must keep communications on the record to ensure fairness.

Refusal to Accept Electronic Filing of Exhibits (Access to Courts Issue) – Instance: In July 2024, well before the ex parte issue, Father emailed the court clerk (Pamela Rusco) about how to play audio evidence in court and attempted to submit exhibit files via email

Google Drive

Google Drive

. The clerk responded, "I do not accept filings via e-mail. Any exhibits you want to submit you must bring them with you to the court hearing."

Google Drive

. Father had also asked about technical accommodations for audio. This rigid stance potentially hindered Father, who at times was homeless and had limited means to print or bring physical copies, from submitting evidence or motions in advance. Authority Implicated: There is no absolute right to file by email in Michigan courts (especially in a county without a full e-filing system at that time), so the clerk's response follows local rules. However, given Father's pro se status and hardship, one could argue this policy effectively denied him equal access. Michigan courts have discretion to allow email filing or make accommodations (and many courts did during the pandemic). The Michigan Trial Court Benchbook for Self-Represented Litigants encourages flexibility to ensure pro se parties can be heard. Canon 3(A)(3) requires judges (and by extension staff) to accord every person their full right to be heard. Evidence: The email exchange on July 10, 2024 shows Father trying to engage properly and the clerk shutting down email filings

Google Drive

. Father even asked for guidance: "If I need to play audio in court, what is the proper way?"

Google Drive

, showing he was trying to follow procedure. The clerk forwarded that request to IT, but the refusal to accept any advance exhibits electronically meant Father had to bring everything hardcopy, perhaps an undue burden as he lacked stable housing. Suggested Remedy: This issue should be noted to the Chief Judge – perhaps the court can implement a more accommodating policy (like allowing digital exhibit pre-submission under certain circumstances). While not a rule violation per se, the practical effect was that Father may have been unable to fully present evidence (for example, if a hearing was on short notice and he couldn't print photos or audio transcripts in time). In terms of relief, Father could request a brief recess or adjournment in future hearings if needed to procure important evidence, citing this prior difficulty. This also ties into a broader pattern of procedural obstacles that disproportionately affected the pro se Father, contributing to an overall due process concern.

Counsel's Filing Under Incorrect Entity Name (Misrepresentation of Parties) – Instance: Defendant's attorney has filed pleadings using a name that does not match the actual party in the case, introducing a fictitious or irrelevant entity. Specifically, there were filings referring to an entity (possibly "Shady Oaks MHP LLC" or "Homes of America") as if it were a party, even though the case is strictly between Pigors and Watson. This may have been done in captions or in the text of motions, misleading the record. Authority Violated: Michigan Rule of Professional Conduct (MRPC) 3.3(a)(1) forbids making false statements of fact to the tribunal, and MRPC 8.4(b)&(c) categorize conduct prejudicial to justice or involving misrepresentation as professional misconduct
Google Drive

. Introducing a wrong party name could confuse jurisdiction and is essentially a false statement in a court document if done knowingly. It also violates MCR 2.113(C)(1) (captions must list the actual parties). Evidence: The Canon Violation Summary drafted by Plaintiff notes: "Counsel has introduced filings premised on knowingly incorrect legal identities (i.e., using an entity not party to the action)... This misrepresentation was not corrected and continues to infect the docket."

Google Drive

. This indicates counsel might have, for example, styled a motion on behalf of "Shady Oaks Park" or similar, even though that entity isn't a plaintiff or defendant in this custody case. As a result, the official record is muddled about who is involved. Father likely raised this to show counsel's lack of candor. Suggested Relief: Father should file a motion to strike or correct any pleadings with the wrong caption or party name, citing MCR 2.115(B) (motion to strike scandalous or improper matter). Additionally, he can ask the Court to admonish counsel and require that all future filings use the exact case caption as it appears in the original complaint (Pigors v. Watson). Given that this may be a deliberate tactic to confuse issues (perhaps related to Father's litigation against the trailer park owners), the court could consider sanctions under MCR 1.109(E)(6) for filings not well-grounded in fact. At minimum, the record needs cleaning – an order could declare that any references to non-parties in pleadings have no legal effect in this case. The pattern can also be reported to the Attorney Grievance Commission (AGC) as it implicates honesty in proceedings.

Frivolous Motion for Security for Costs & Filing Restrictions – Instance: On or about early 2025, Defendant's counsel filed a motion seeking to require Father to post a security bond for costs and to restrict his filings (essentially labeling him a vexatious litigant). This was done despite Father having no history of filing frivolous actions or being sanctioned by the court. There had been no prior warning from any judge, and no evidence that Father's claims were baseless – in fact, Father's filings raised legitimate grievances. Authority Violated: MCR 2.109(B) allows requiring a security bond only if the party is outside Michigan or there is another statute or rule (or good cause) – it is unusual to impose on a resident litigant unless they've violated court rules. Furthermore, MCR 1.109(E)(7) permits filing restrictions only after a party is found to be engaging in frivolous or harassing litigation. Filing such a motion without basis violates MRPC 3.1 (bringing frivolous motions) and is an abuse of process aimed to intimidate. It also offends Canon 2(A) of the Judicial Conduct code if entertained, as it creates an appearance of punishing a litigant for accessing the courts

. Evidence: The Canon Violation Summary explicitly notes: "Defendant's counsel has filed a motion for Security for Costs and Filing Restrictions despite: – No prior judicial warning – No sanctions ever issued – No basis under MCR 2.109 or 1.109(E). This appears designed to intimidate, burden, and chill further filings from Plaintiff."

Google Drive

. This is a clear documentation of the motion's frivolous nature. Indeed, absent any record of vexatious behavior (and none is indicated), the motion had no legal merit and served only to harass. Suggested Relief: Father should respond (or should have responded) by highlighting the lack of basis and seeking denial with sanctions. Under MCR 1.109(E)(6), a pleading signed in violation of that rule's certifications (e.g. that it's not for an improper purpose) can result in costs and fees. The Court should deny the motion in a written order, explicitly finding it unwarranted – this protects Father from future such attempts and creates a record if he needs to seek attorney grievance action. If not already addressed, Father can file a motion to strike that "Security for Costs" motion as frivolous and ask for fees for the effort spent responding. Additionally, this conduct should be noted in any report to the AGC as an example of bad-faith litigation tactics by counsel.

Pattern of Procedural Harassment by Defendant's Counsel – Instance: Beyond the costs bond motion, Defendant's counsel has engaged in a pattern of aggressive procedural maneuvers apparently aimed at overwhelming or tripping up the self-represented Father. This includes: filing excessive or last-minute motions, obfuscating issues by dragging in unrelated matters (like the eviction case or PPO matters) to the custody case, and possibly misusing police reports or CPS referrals to paint Father in a bad light during court proceedings with minimal evidence. Authority: While zealous advocacy is allowed, Michigan's amended Court Rule 1.109(E) requires that every filing be warranted by good faith arguments. Canon 3(A)(3) of Judicial Conduct expects judges to ensure fairness to self-represented litigants. If counsel's strategy is to confuse and intimidate, the court should intervene. Moreover, MRPC 8.4(a) says a lawyer shall not "violate or attempt to violate" the Rules or knowingly assist another to do so – using procedural tricks to impede the opposing party's right to be heard edges into that territory. Evidence: In the introduction of Plaintiff's Canon report, he describes "a pattern of professional misconduct, procedural suppression, and factual misrepresentation" by Defendant's counsel, "potentially condoned or enabled by judicial passivity." Google Drive

. Specifics include entity confusion (Violation #13) and the baseless bond motion (Violation #14). Additionally, counsel's filings in the record (not fully excerpted here) contain overreaching requests like asking for injunctions against Father's filings and painting him as "crazy" – beyond the scope of the custody issue. The totality suggests an effort to wear Father down rather than resolve matters on the merits. Suggested Relief: The Court should take control of the proceedings to prevent abuse. This might involve consolidating issues to avoid multiplicative motions, setting clear deadlines, and if necessary, using its contempt powers if counsel continues to pursue frivolous tactics. Father can move for a protective order or ask the Chief Judge for administrative intervention if he feels he's being procedurally ambushed. Also, documenting this pattern is important for any appellate review or grievance – it shows Father has been up against not just legal arguments but deliberate obstruction, which has justice implications.

Misuse of Personal Protection Order (PPO) Proceedings Against Father – Instance: There is an indication that Defendant (or her family) sought a Personal Protection Order against Father around October 2024, possibly to further restrict his access or paint him as dangerous. A PPO transcript from 10/30/2024 is referenced in Father's filings, suggesting that matter involved "service intimidation and refusal to consider new evidence" Google Drive

. It's possible the PPO was used as a sword in the custody battle – e.g., alleging harassment to get a PPO, then using the PPO as evidence in the custody case to suspend parenting time. Authority Violated: If the PPO was sought on false pretenses or minor grounds, that's an abuse of the PPO statute (MCL 600.2950). Furthermore, the judge in the PPO hearing apparently refused to consider new evidence from Father, which could violate due process in that separate proceeding. Using a PPO to affect custody without clear evidence of harm to the child runs contrary to the principle that custody and parenting time should be determined based on best interests, not as a punitive measure. Evidence: Father's Exhibit G is noted as "PPO transcript excerpts (10/30/2024) preserve issues of service intimidation and refusal to consider new evidence" Google Drive

. This implies: (a) Perhaps Father had trouble serving someone (or was accused of improper service, intimidation?), and (b) the court in that hearing did not let him present certain evidence. Additionally, Father's motion requests a "PPO accommodation" in the custody context: allowing communication for child exchanges despite any PPO Google Drive

, which suggests a PPO might have been in effect limiting contact. If the PPO was obtained by Defendant and used to justify cutting off communication about the child, that is a violation of the spirit of PPO laws (which are meant to prevent harassment/stalking, not block necessary co-parenting communication). Suggested Relief: If a PPO is still active, Father should seek to modify it to include an exception for “communications strictly regarding the child and parenting time logistics,” as allowed by MCR 3.706(C)

Google Drive

Google Drive

. The custody court can also supersede parts of a PPO for exchanges. Moreover, the fact that evidence was not heard in the PPO case could be grounds to seek appellate review or rehearing of that PPO if it's adversely impacting Father's rights. In the custody case, the judge should not heavily weigh the mere existence of a PPO without examining the underlying facts – to do so would be prejudicial. Father can argue that the PPO was misused and should not dictate custody outcomes. Any indication of false statements in PPO petitions could also be referred to the prosecutor or be cause for the court to doubt Defendant's credibility in the custody matter.

Selective Enforcement / Contempt Issues Favoring One Side – Instance: Throughout this case, enforcement of orders appears one-sided. For example, when Father's parenting time was suspended ex parte, the court enforced that immediately (Father complied and lost time with his child). However, when Mother (Defendant) has allegedly denied Father's parenting time in the past or failed to follow orders, there's no record of similar swift enforcement. Father's documents highlight withholding periods and instances of the child returned with bruising or other issues, none of which resulted in consequences for Defendant

. Also, Father's mention of “Show-Cause Index” and “multiple police contacts with no wrongdoing”

Google Drive

Google Drive

suggests he tried to get enforcement or at least logged violations by Defendant that were ignored.

Authority Violated: Under MCL 552.644 and MCL 552.645 (Michigan Parenting Time Enforcement Act), if a parent violates parenting time provisions without good cause, the court shall provide makeup parenting time and may hold the parent in contempt. Not enforcing rules equally can violate MCR 3.208(B) (the friend of court's duty to enforce parenting time) and raises issues under Canon 2(A) (appearance of impropriety or bias) if one parent is effectively allowed to flout orders. Evidence: Father's filings incorporate an Exhibit D: Show-Cause Index and references to times he complained (e.g. presumably to FOC or police about denial of parenting time, or issues like alleged abuse). He also notes an “allegation index” where claims such as an “arsenic jar” or “baby monitor” incident lacked proof

Google Drive

, implying Mother made allegations against Father that went nowhere (no charges, etc.), yet Father's own allegations (like bruises on the child) were possibly not investigated thoroughly. The disparity in response can be seen as a violation of equal protection and fair play. Suggested Relief: Father should compile all instances where Defendant violated court orders (e.g., denied scheduled visits, failed to communicate, etc.) and file a Motion for Order to Show Cause (SCAO Form FOC 19) to hold Defendant accountable. He is entitled to make-up parenting time for any missed days (MCL 552.642 requires make-up time for wrongful retention of a child). The court should treat Mother's violations with the same seriousness as it treated Father's perceived issues. If bias is suspected, Father might consider a motion to disqualify the judge under MCR 2.003(C) for an appearance of favoritism (though that is a high bar – but a pattern of non-enforcement on one side could support it). At minimum, raising these points may prompt the court to correct any bias and enforce orders fairly going forward.

Lack of Make-Up Parenting Time Plan – Instance: As of now, Father has missed extensive parenting time due to the suspension order (from August 8, 2025 through present, amounting to at least 15 missed overnights by his count ). The court has made no provision for make-up time if Father is reinstated, nor did it grant any interim supervised visits that could mitigate harm to the father-child relationship. Authority: MCL 722.27a(7) provides that if parenting time is wrongfully denied, the court shall order make-up parenting time. Even though the denial here was under color of a court order, if that order is found to be unjustified or is later set aside, the spirit of the law would favor make-up contact to restore the bond. Additionally, Michigan's FOC guidelines encourage make-up time to remedy any gaps. Evidence: Father's motion explicitly requests a make-up remedy of 15 overnights to be made up within 45 days

Google Drive

, indicating that is the amount lost so far. This shows no such relief was automatically offered by the court – Father has to beg for it. Meanwhile, the harm to the child (suddenly not seeing Father for months) is not addressed by any court order. Suggested Relief: The court should grant Father's request for make-up parenting time on an expedited basis if/when unsupervised time is restored. This could be in the form of extended weekends or a block of time, as long as it's in the child's best interests to reestablish the routine. The FOC can help schedule these make-up days. This relief is important to undo some of the damage from the improper suspension. If the court hesitates, Father can point to the statutory right of a child to parenting time and fairness principles – he should not lose those days permanently due to a contested and potentially improper order.

Failure to Consider Less Restrictive Alternatives – Instance: When faced with concerns about Father's mental health, the Court immediately resorted to total suspension of parenting time in the ex parte order. The order itself notes the Court "considered supervised parenting time" but that Father "insisted that he would not exercise supervised parenting time."

Google Drive

. However, this statement was made by Father under duress – he was objecting to losing unsupervised time because he believed it was unwarranted. The Court took that as a refusal and thus gave him nothing. This is an extreme measure when other options existed (e.g., supervised visits at a center, interim measures with a family member supervising, therapy). Authority: Michigan public policy favors parenting time in the child's best interests, and if restrictions are needed, they should be tailored to the actual risk (MCL 722.27a(3) allows "conditions" on parenting time as an alternative to denial). The Michigan Parenting Time Guideline (SCAO) emphasizes maintaining the parent-child relationship even if challenges exist

eatoncounty.org

(e.g., using supervised parenting time or therapeutic parenting time rather than none at all).

Evidence: The judge's order from September 2025 clearly indicates no attempt was made to allow any contact: it says Father "insisted that he would not exercise supervised parenting time"

Google Drive

. Father's stance was likely principled (he didn't want to be labeled a danger unjustifiably), but the court interpreted it in the worst light. However, even after that hearing, as time went on, the court did not, for example, impose a temporary supervised schedule pending the assessment – it simply continued the complete suspension. Father's filings urge "immediate reinstatement" and alternatives like communications safe-harbor and PPO accommodations

Google Drive

, showing he is open to solutions that allow contact. Suggested Relief: The court should have pursued a middle ground: if unsupervised was thought to be risky (albeit without evidence of harm to child), supervised parenting time should have been ordered rather than zero contact. Father can still request (in the alternative) professional supervised parenting time in the interim, rather than remaining completely cut off. This protects the child's right to see both parents and could alleviate the court's concerns while evidence is gathered. Not considering this earlier was a disservice to the child. Going forward, any time the court has concerns, it should opt for the least restrictive means (supervised or conditional parenting time rather than outright denial), consistent with Michigan law's preference to foster parent-child relationships

eatoncounty.org

. Failure to do so could be raised on appeal as an abuse of discretion.

Judge's Demonstrated Bias or Prejudgment of Father's Mental Health – Instance: In her September 2025 order, Judge McNeill made several comments suggesting she has formed a negative opinion of Father's mental state: e.g., stating "The Court has serious concerns regarding the state of the Plaintiff's mental health" and linking it to "the job loss, homelessness and family loss he has endured"

Google Drive

. She also appeared to dismiss Father's claims of being followed or harassed as delusional. While the judge might have been genuinely concerned, the language comes off as if she has already concluded Father is “crazy” and by implication unfit – before a full evidentiary determination and without mental health expert testimony. This raises a question of bias. Authority: Judges must remain impartial and avoid even the appearance of bias (Michigan Code of Judicial Conduct, Canon 2 and 3). A judge who effectively labels a party as mentally unstable without proper evidence might violate Canon 3(A)(10) (which requires judges to abstain from public comment about pending proceedings – here, the judge’s written order itself becomes a comment on an unresolved issue, Father’s mental fitness). Also, MCR 2.003(C)(1)(a) provides that bias or prejudice for or against a party can be grounds for disqualification. Evidence: The order’s language is telling: “everyone he tells his story to thinks he is crazy” (quoting Father’s own testimony)

Google Drive

and the judge pointing to coincidences Father believes in (like the license plate letters) as evidence of paranoia

Google Drive

. The judge explicitly ties Father’s mental state to various misfortunes and concludes it’s a “culmination” of factors

Google Drive

. This reads more like a psychological assessment than a legal finding, and it’s before any independent evaluation was reviewed. The judge essentially pre-judged that Father has serious psychological issues impacting his parenting. Suggested Relief: Father could file a motion for recusal under MCR 2.003(D) if he believes the judge cannot fairly consider evidence due to these preconceived notions. If recusal is too drastic or unlikely to succeed, at least Father should ensure that going forward, the focus is on concrete behaviors and facts (has he harmed or neglected the child? No evidence of that; in fact, nothing suggests he’s anything but loving to the child). He might bring a mental health expert or request a second opinion if the first assessment was dismissed, to show he is not a danger. Documenting that the judge’s remarks were made without full evidence could also preserve an issue for appeal (arguing the judge abused discretion by basing decisions on personal conjecture rather than record evidence). In short, while judges can note concerns, here the tone suggests bias; the remedy is either a new judge or a clear record via evidentiary hearing that dispels the judge’s concerns. The Chief Judge might also be apprised if bias is extreme, for possible re-assignment.

Lack of Record-Only Rule Enforcement (Considering Unfiled Materials) – Instance: There is concern that the Court (and possibly FOC) considered materials that were not formally filed or served “on the record.” For example, Defendant’s counsel might have shown police reports or texts to the judge in camera, or the judge might have gleaned information from outside sources (like the mention of Father’s eviction and homelessness, which might have come from court staff gossip or other cases). Father’s motion requests the court adhere to a “record-only rule” – i.e., consider only materials properly filed and served

. This suggests he fears or knows that off-record info influenced decisions. Authority: MCR 2.107(G) mandates that copies of any document submitted to the court must be served on all parties. Canon 3(A)(4) again prohibits judges from investigating or considering ex parte info. Each party has a right to confront and respond to evidence – anything else violates due process. Evidence: Father wrote: “the Court should consider only materials filed and properly served; any ex parte materials must be re-served as a complete packet (MCR 2.107).”

Google Drive

. This implies there were ex parte materials floating around. One example is the flash drive of the recorded call that Defendant provided. Was Father given a copy of that recording promptly? Not clear. The motion text references an attached flash drive labeled “Andrew’s Call to My Dad” which presumably was submitted to the court on 8/8/25. If Father only got to hear that at the evidentiary hearing (or not at all beforehand), that’s problematic. Similarly, references to CPS reports or police reports (#NS2505044 is cited in the motion

Google Drive

Google Drive

) – if those were handed to the judge but not to Father, that’s a violation. Suggested Relief: A court order affirming the record-only principle would be helpful – i.e., the judge should state that she will not consider any material not duly filed and served. Father can specifically move to exclude or disregard any such items. For instance, ensure that if Defendant’s counsel sent letters or emails to the judge (or FOC) outside of filings, those are disclosed or stricken. In future proceedings, Father should politely object on the record to any reference to information he hasn't seen. The goal is to make sure the case is decided only on evidence properly introduced. If needed, Father can subpoena records from FOC or others to see if there were communications about him that he wasn't privy to. This transparency is crucial to restore trust in the process.

Violation of Michigan Parenting Time Guidelines (Child's Right to Both Parents) – Instance: The cumulative effect of the above violations is that the child's own rights have been infringed. Michigan explicitly recognizes that "A child has a right to parenting time with a parent" (MCL 722.27a(1)) and presumes strong parent-child relationships are in the best interest

. By suspending contact without a solid basis and by delaying resolution, the system has effectively deprived the child of Father's involvement for a significant time. This can be seen as a violation of the child's rights under the law. Authority: MCL 722.27a(1) and (3) affirm the child's right to parenting time and only allow denial if clear and convincing evidence shows it's necessary
eatoncounty.org

. Additionally, the Michigan Supreme Court has stated that parenting time orders should foster the strongest relationship possible with both parents (Shade v. Wright, 291 Mich App 17 (2010)). The Michigan Parenting Time Guideline (published by SCAO) emphasizes that courts should accommodate parenting time in nearly all cases, even if supervised or structured
eatoncounty.org

. By deviating from these principles, the court's actions here have not honored the policy. Evidence: It is undisputed that from early August 2025 to the present, the child's time with Father dropped to zero. There is no indication the child was afforded any voice or consideration in this matter (e.g., for an older child, the court might talk to them – here the child is young, but his need for his father is presumed). The Eaton County FOC summary states: "It is presumed the best interest of the child is to have a strong relationship with both parents. A child has a right to parenting time with a parent unless shown by clear and convincing evidence that it would endanger the child's health."
eatoncounty.org

. That presumption was essentially flipped on its head without evidence in this case. Suggested Relief: Frame the restoration of parenting time not just as Father's right, but the child's right. The court should be reminded of the statutory duty to facilitate the parent-child relationship. An order resuming frequent parenting time with Father will realign the case with Michigan's public policy. If the court remains reluctant, Father might consider an emergency appeal or an original action in the Court of Appeals seeking superintending control, arguing that the lower court's actions are harming the child contrary to law. This is a drastic step, but invoking the child's rights could spur quicker action. Furthermore, going forward the court should ensure any restrictions are truly necessary; otherwise it risks violating the child's rights as well as Father's.

Procedural Violations in Eviction/Housing Case Used in Custody Case – Instance: Father's loss of housing at Shady Oaks MHP (his trailer home) in mid-2025 became a factor in the custody case (the judge mentioned his homelessness). Father alleges that eviction was wrongful and orchestrated by parties connected to Defendant. Specifically, an incident on August 7, 2025 involved someone drilling out the lock on his trailer door – effectively a self-help eviction attempt

. Father has pursued legal action to restore possession (he references federal injunctive relief against Shady Oaks Park MHP LLC and related entities
Google Drive

). The procedural tie-in: if the eviction was illegal or retaliatory, and then Defendant leveraged Father's resultant homelessness in court, this is a form of extrinsic fraud or "unclean hands." Authority: While the eviction case is separate, Michigan law prohibits self-help evictions – a landlord must go through court (MCL 600.2918(2) makes self-help lockouts illegal). If Defendant's family violated those laws to make Father homeless, that's not only a legal violation but a possible contempt (if done to influence the custody matter). Moreover, Canon 2(B) of Judicial Conduct says a judge should not allow others to use the judicial process for an improper end – here, allowing the results of a possibly illegal eviction to prejudice custody would be such an end. Evidence: Father's filings state he is pursuing federal relief to restore his home, naming Shady Oaks, Homes of America, etc.

Google Drive

. He also notes in the ex parte motion snippet that the Defendant told him he was not evicted and still residing at the trailer, contradicting the friend's report that he was evicted

Google Drive

– suggesting some deceit or confusion. The license plate anecdote (Defendant's father's plate having letters matching the park's name)

Google Drive

implies the paternal grandfather might be involved in the park management or at least it's a remarkable coincidence. All this hints that the eviction/housing issues were entangled with the family dispute. Suggested Relief: Father can request the custody court not hold his homelessness against him since it was potentially caused by unlawful means. He should submit evidence from the housing case (e.g., if a court later rules the eviction was improper or if there was no legal eviction order). If he secures a federal injunction or other relief, that bolsters his position. In the meantime, Father has mitigated by renting rooms (as he stated, $500/month for two rooms)

Google Drive

– the court should acknowledge that and not penalize him for circumstances beyond his control. If there's proof Defendant or her agents were involved in the lockout, Father could even seek sanctions or an injunction in the family court against further interference with his housing (because stable housing is directly relevant to custody). At the very least, the court must treat Father's housing status with nuance – being temporarily homeless due to a dispute is not equivalent to being unable to care for the child, especially if he's found alternative accommodations.

Failure to Disclose or Turn Over Evidence (Discovery Violations) – Instance: It appears that certain evidence was not exchanged properly. For example, the audio recording of Father's call with Defendant's father was a key piece of evidence for Defendant. If Father was not given a copy or opportunity to review it before the September 4 hearing, that's a discovery violation. Similarly, any texts from the concerned friend or the police report NS2505044 should have been shared. Since this was a motion (not a full trial), formal discovery might not have been done, but basic fairness requires sharing such evidence. Authority: MCR 2.302 et seq. provide for discovery, and while an ex parte motion can be heard without prior exchange, once an objection is filed and a hearing is set, the parties should exchange any exhibits. Withholding evidence until the hearing can violate due process (trial by ambush). Also, if a FOIA was needed to get police reports that the other side already had, that's an unnecessary burden on Father. The Michigan Court Rules on subpoenas (MCR 2.506) could have been used by Father if he knew about the evidence. Evidence: The record hints that Father may not have had all materials: he emphasizes that opposing filings relied on "unauthenticated communications"

Google Drive

. The friend's message, for instance, is hearsay from someone not in court; did Father ever see the actual message? Unknown. The police report's conclusion (officer suspecting meth use) is cited

Google Drive

, but the underlying report likely wasn't provided to Father prior. If counsel failed to disclose it, that's problematic. Suggested Relief: If the case proceeds to a full evidentiary hearing, the court should enforce open discovery – require each side to exchange any evidence (audio, documents, etc.) they intend to use, well before the hearing. Father might specifically move to compel production of the recordings, texts, and reports that Defendant's motion referenced. If he still hasn't gotten them, that's a due process issue that can justify a continuance of any hearing until he is able to review and prepare a defense. This point can also be used to ask the court to exclude any evidence not properly disclosed – for instance, if at the hearing Defendant tries to introduce a new incident or document that Father hasn't seen, he can object and cite fairness. Given that Father is pro se, the court should be more proactive in ensuring he isn't sandbagged by undisclosed evidence.

Improper Delegation of Judicial Authority to a Therapist – Instance: The judge's order in September 2025 effectively delegated the decision of when the hearing will continue to the mental health assessor's input: "Once the Plaintiff provides the requested assessment as stated above, the Court will continue the hearing on his objection..."

Google Drive

. This puts a non-judicial third party (the evaluator) in a gatekeeping position. Additionally, the judge not only required an assessment but expected Father to recount all his experiences of being followed, etc., to that assessor

Google Drive

. By focusing on an external evaluation and pausing the court process until it's done to the judge's satisfaction, the court ceded some control to that process. Authority: While courts can order psychological evaluations in custody cases (MCL 722.27(1)(d) permits court-ordered evaluations, and MCR 3.210(C) covers investigative referrals), the court still must make the ultimate findings and cannot unreasonably delay proceedings waiting on them. It also should not give the impression that the evaluator's report will decide the case. The Michigan Benchbook on Custody warns judges not to abdicate decision-making to FOC investigators or evaluators – their role is advisory. Here, by saying the hearing will only continue after an assessment, the judge made the assessment a de facto prerequisite for Father to get his day in court on the objection. Evidence: The order's wording is clear: the hearing was suspended pending the assessment

Google Drive

. Furthermore, when Father did submit an assessment (from HealthWest on 9/5/25), the judge disregarded it for not including the details she wanted

Google Drive

. This suggests the judge will not restore parenting time unless some evaluator essentially declares Father is mentally fit, which is an outsourcing of the judicial function. Suggested Relief: Father should comply with reasonable evaluation requests, but he can argue that the court must hold a full hearing regardless of the assessment's outcome. The assessment should be just one piece of evidence. If the assessment Father provided was deemed inadequate, the solution was to have him get a more comprehensive one or to have the evaluator testify – not to put everything on indefinite hold. Father might file a motion requesting the court to immediately resume the evidentiary hearing on the objection, presenting the HealthWest evaluation he obtained. If the court still wants more, it could order a second independent evaluation, but meanwhile perhaps allow supervised parenting time. The key relief is to break the logjam: the evaluator's role is to inform, not dictate. By resuming the hearing, the judge can hear Father's testimony, consider the evaluation (with Father explaining any discrepancies), and make findings. This ensures the court fulfills its duty to decide the case itself. Continuing to delay until some perfect assessment arrives is not acceptable and Father should assert his right to a timely resolution.

Cumulative Due Process Violations (Fundamental Fairness) – Instance: Taken together, the irregularities in this case – lack of notice, lack of timely hearing, reliance on ex parte information, unequal treatment, and extended deprivation of parental rights – amount to a broader denial of due process and a fair hearing for Father. He has essentially been punished (loss of parenting time and reputation damage) without a proper adversarial proceeding. Authority: The Fourteenth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution and Article I, §17 of the Michigan Constitution guarantee that no person shall be deprived of liberty or property without due process of law. Parental rights are a fundamental liberty interest. Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319 (1976) provides the test for due process: consider the private interest at stake (here, extremely high – parent-child relationship), the risk of erroneous deprivation through current procedures (here, high, given ex parte and delay), and the government's interest (protecting children, but also efficient, which could have been served with a prompt hearing). The balance in Father's case suggests due process was lacking. Michigan courts (e.g., Hunter v. Hunter, 484 Mich 247) recognize the fundamental nature of parent rights and require robust procedures to curtail them. Evidence: Virtually every violation listed above feeds into this – for example, the ex parte order was entered without Father present or heard, and then the hearing on it was delayed, and the judge showed bias in writings, etc. The cumulative effect is Father feels (justifiably) that he has not had a fair chance to defend himself. His plea for relief is basically a plea for due process: an unbiased judge, an evidentiary hearing where evidence is properly presented, and a chance to regain his rights. Suggested Relief: If the court corrects each specific violation, due process will be restored. In sum, Father should ask the court to reset and provide a fair hearing on all pending issues. That means: ensure proper notice of any claims against him, allow him to present witnesses and evidence in his favor (e.g., character witnesses, alternative explanations for events), apply the correct legal standards (immediate harm, clear and convincing evidence), and make an impartial determination. If the current court cannot or will not do this, the remedy could be to seek superintending control from the higher court or file a motion for a change of venue or judge. Additionally, Father might consider a 42 U.S.C. §1983 civil rights action for deprivation of rights under color of state law, if the situation isn't rectified – sometimes just mentioning that possibility encourages courts to be more careful. The goal, however, is not litigation for its own sake but to get a fair process and reunite Father and child in a safe, just manner.

Oct 28, 2025 (Present) Father's parenting time still not reinstated. A hearing on the objection has yet to be scheduled/continued. Father files the instant comprehensive manifest of violations and prepares to take action (motions, complaints, appeals) to rectify the situation. (This report)some edits. The judge specifically instructed me to send the mental health assessment to her secretary via email, specifically not to file it with the clerk. the judge also had her staff listen to the USB video recording of audio of half of a phone call between me and her father Albert, it was taken out of context. the FBI and AG was referring to the SHADY OAKS case, and they were contacted, because they told me they are already aware and once my case has concluded, which it has, to reach back out with my evidence, and the evidence I have shows a slew of cross-state money laundering/fraud, through shell corporations, constructive eviction, fraud upon the court, and numerous other claims. BUT, i was wrong about it being SHADY OAKS who was sending people to harass me, and stalk me. Because it happened again the last 2 weeks, and i have yet to file my case against shady oaks, which i plan on doing, to refine my filing, once this has concluded. I was never homeless, i had to wait for camping spots to open up and for my college friend to clean out 2 rooms for Lincoln and I, which never was needed, Lincoln never came there, just Me. I then secured housing at an undisclosed home, not an apartment. 2 bedroom 1 bath house, near downtown. emily served me the ORDER only, via APPCLOSE, by taking a picture of the order, poorly. It was never actually sent to me in the mail, nor was the motion, nor was anything sent to the friend of the court, as they have no responded to anything, other than objections to tax offset. i went from 365 days a year with my son, down to 187.5 with my son, down to 79 with my son, and emily has taken 35 of those 79 days away this year. PARENTAL ALIENATION. We had a 2nd hearing, "evidentiary" but the judge refused to allow me to enter exhibits, again, photos of my son the 2 week prior to the accusations, showing him having the time of his life. i objected not only to "the entry of" of exparte, but then i objected to the exparte after entry, and then i went to file motions to dismiss, and was blocked by the 250$ non refundable fee. I dont have issues with employment. I am employed by SafeGuard Securities, I do programming on the side and other 1099 work that emily can't touch, because the child support is fucked up and needs recalculation. she lied about income, insurance payments, and rental income from her brother, heck she isnt even living at 2160 anymore, according to my best friend who delivers for USPS, that he has dropping off packages for other people at the address and the house appeared empty while he was there earlier in September. The judge Jenny L mcneill has deemed some of my filings in the past frivolous, despite not even reading on them, or issuing anything about them, they accused me of using AI to try and make the documents the best possible, and the prosecutor in the PPO case, caused an overlap where the judge issued the 250$ fee barrier, in the custody case. she stated " DO NOT FILE ANYMORE, I WILL NO LOOK AT IT". And the defense didnt file for it, the judge just did it on her own via order. she also labeled the APPCLOSE coparenting app, me asking about my son, "Harrassment" which is crazy. and the judge twisted my words, just lke emily does. I said that I didnt agree to "supervised parenting time" because it wasnt neccessary, and growing up I was forced to go through that with my father, and I forever hated my mother for it, so i didnt not think it was in my sons best interests, I AM HIS FATHER AND I AM COMPETENT AND ABLE TO MAKE DECISIONS issues i have in life ARE EMILY and THE COURT ruining my life.

Detailing Emily's Misuse of Professional Authority

Emily's role as a caseworker for the Kent County Prosecutor's Office grants her specialized knowledge of the legal system and family court procedures. While this position places her in a unique position to act as an exemplary co-parent, she has instead used her professional knowledge and access to manipulate custody proceedings, create unnecessary conflict, and alienate LDW from me. Below are detailed examples of her misuse of professional authority:

1. Fabrication of Evidence

October 15, 2023: Emily alleged that she discovered a straw with suspected cocaine residue in her home and insinuated that I was responsible. Despite a lack of any evidence or history of substance abuse on my part, she has repeatedly referenced this fabricated claim to portray me as an unfit parent.

Misuse: As a caseworker, Emily is aware of how unsubstantiated allegations can create doubt in custody disputes. By leveraging her professional knowledge, she sought to influence the court with fabricated concerns, violating ethical standards.

Impact on LDW: These actions directly harm LDW by fostering unnecessary conflict and attempting to alienate him from his father.

2. Filing Unfounded PPOs

2024 (Multiple Instances): Emily has filed multiple Personal Protection Orders (PPOs) against me, citing baseless claims of harassment. For example: I was accused of harassment for sending polite, child-focused messages regarding parenting time and LDW's well-being.

These PPOs were strategically filed around key custody proceedings, highlighting their use as a tool to limit my ability to co-parent.

Misuse: Emily's role as a caseworker provides her with detailed knowledge of how to initiate and leverage PPOs effectively. Filing frivolous PPOs is a misuse of court processes to create obstacles in our co-parenting relationship.

Impact on LDW: The misuse of PPOs disrupts LDW's access to his father, causing emotional harm and further alienation.

3. Withholding Medical and Developmental Information

October 4, 2024: Emily delayed notifying me that LDW had hand, foot, and mouth disease until hours before a scheduled exchange. She refused to provide details about prior medical consultations, leaving me unprepared to care for him appropriately.

May 15, 2024: Without consulting me, Emily made unilateral decisions regarding LDW's vaccinations, only informing me afterward.

Misuse: As a caseworker, Emily is fully aware of the importance of shared parental decision-making under Michigan law (MCL 722.23(c)). Her actions reflect a deliberate effort to sideline me from LDW's medical care and decision-making processes.

Impact on LDW: Failing to involve me in health-related decisions undermines LDW's well-being by excluding a parent who actively prioritizes his health and safety.

4. Manipulation of Court Perception

Throughout 2024: Emily has used her professional knowledge to manipulate the court's perception of me:

She consistently delays or refuses to provide necessary information during court proceedings, such as failing to disclose full financial records for accurate child support calculations.

She has framed my legitimate parenting inquiries as harassment, using legal jargon and procedural tactics to portray me in a negative light.

Misuse: Emily's understanding of family court procedures allows her to craft a misleading narrative, positioning herself as the cooperative parent while simultaneously alienating LDW from me.

Impact on LDW: Her manipulative behavior introduces unnecessary tension into the custody dispute, detracting from a child-centered resolution.

5. Leveraging Her Position to Access My Private Information

2024 (Multiple Instances): Emily allegedly accessed or attempted to access my private health, financial, and personal records, possibly through informal professional channels. For example: She has made references in court filings to details about my medical history, employment, and finances that I did not provide directly.

Misuse: This conduct violates ethical boundaries, as her position as a caseworker does not grant her permission to use professional knowledge for personal disputes. It also raises concerns about breaches of confidentiality and misuse of privileged information.

Impact on LDW: Such actions escalate conflict between parents, directly contradicting LDW's need for a stable and cooperative co-parenting relationship.

6. Ignoring Ethical Standards of Neutrality

Throughout Custody Proceedings: Emily's role as a caseworker includes responsibilities to act in the best interests of children and uphold neutrality. Instead:

She has staged confrontational parenting exchanges by involving her father, Albert Watson, who has a history of aggressive behavior.

She has used her professional knowledge to manipulate the Friend of the Court's perception of me, rather than fostering an environment of collaboration.

Misuse: Her actions violate the ethical standards expected of professionals in child welfare. Rather than acting as a role model for co-parenting, Emily has exacerbated conflict and alienation.

Impact on LDW: Her failure to uphold neutrality undermines LDW's emotional stability and perpetuates an adversarial dynamic between parents.

7. Obstruction of Co-Parenting Communication

June 2024: Emily refused my reasonable requests for video calls and updates about LDW's routine and well-being during her parenting time, even though such communication fosters emotional ties and supports LDW's security.

Misuse: Emily's knowledge of co-parenting standards enables her to understand the importance of facilitating communication, yet she intentionally obstructs it. This behavior undermines LDW's right to maintain a relationship with both parents.

Impact on LDW: Preventing communication creates emotional distance between LDW and me, negatively affecting his development.

Strategic Counterarguments and Recommendations

Highlight Ethical Breaches:

Emphasize how Emily's misuse of professional authority contradicts her ethical obligations as a caseworker. Reference Michigan guidelines for professional conduct in child welfare to show that her actions fall short of these standards.

Request Independent Oversight:

Propose the appointment of a Guardian ad Litem (GAL) to evaluate Emily's behavior and its impact on LDW. This would provide an impartial perspective and mitigate her ability to manipulate court proceedings.

Document Patterns of Misconduct:

Compile a comprehensive timeline of Emily's actions that demonstrate her misuse of authority, including withholding medical records, filing frivolous PPOs, and leveraging her position for personal gain.

Cite Relevant Case Law:

Reference Ireland v. Smith, 451 Mich. 457 (1996) and Rapple v. Rapple, 183 Mich. App. 396 (1990) to underscore the importance of co-parenting cooperation and the detrimental impact of alienation.

Propose Transparency Measures:

Request court-mandated communication protocols, such as regular updates via AppClose, to ensure both parents are equally informed about LDW's well-being.

1. Withholding LDW During Parenting Time

Misbehavior:

March 26–May 2, 2024: Emily withheld LDW for over 37 days without a court order, depriving me of parenting time during a critical bonding period, including Easter and Spring Break.

October 20–November 12, 2024: Emily again withheld LDW for 23 days, including Halloween and LDW's birthday, despite my court-ordered parenting time.

Counter to Harassment Claims:

My attempts to communicate during these periods were strictly focused on LDW's whereabouts, health, and safety. These actions were responsible parenting, not harassment. Michigan law, including MCL 722.23(j), emphasizes fostering a positive co-parenting relationship and ensuring both parents can participate in the child's life.

Court records and documented communications show that I consistently sought information about LDW's well-being without resorting to aggressive or inappropriate behavior.

2. False PPO Filings

Misbehavior:

Emily filed multiple unfounded PPOs against me, including claims that I contacted her excessively, despite my communications being limited to discussions about LDW.

October 2024: Emily alleged harassment when I inquired about LDW's health during her withholding of parenting time. This was a clear misuse of the PPO process to limit my ability to co-parent.

Counter to Harassment Claims:

All communications related to LDW were documented and appropriate. For example, my messages via AppClose were polite and focused on coordinating exchanges or discussing LDW's needs. These are lawful and expected actions under MCL 722.23(a), which emphasizes the importance of maintaining love, affection, and emotional ties with the child.

Filing frivolous PPOs demonstrates Emily's intent to alienate LDW from me rather than resolve co-parenting issues constructively, which violates Vodvarka v. Grasmeyer, 259 Mich. App. 499 (2003), as it constitutes a substantial change in circumstances affecting the child's well-being.

3. Refusal to Share Health and Developmental Information

Misbehavior:

Emily failed to provide medical records for LDW despite a court order, offering only partial information such as vaccination records.

On October 4, 2024, LDW arrived at my care with hand, foot, and mouth disease, and Emily delayed informing me, providing no details about prior medical consultations.

Counter to Harassment Claims:

My inquiries about LDW's health, such as requests for detailed medical records or follow-ups on his illnesses, are not harassment but responsible parenting. MCL 722.23(c) requires both parents to share responsibility for medical care and ensure the child's well-being.

Emily's withholding of critical health information has directly impacted LDW's care, demonstrating her unwillingness to co-parent constructively.

4. Involvement of Her Father in Parenting Exchanges

Misbehavior:

On October 20, 2024, during a parenting exchange, Emily's father, Albert Watson, forcibly removed LDW from my arms and acted aggressively, creating a hostile environment.

Albert's ongoing involvement in exchanges has been confrontational and unnecessary, escalating tensions and undermining LDW's sense of security.

Counter to Harassment Claims:

My efforts to address these confrontations, including requesting neutral exchange locations (e.g., police stations), were aimed at ensuring LDW's safety and emotional well-being. These actions are supported by MCL 722.23(k), which prioritizes protecting the child from exposure to domestic violence or hostility.

Emily's failure to remove her father from exchanges, despite his history of aggressive behavior, reflects poor judgment and a lack of moral fitness under MCL 722.23(f).

5. Blocking Communication with LDW

Misbehavior:

Emily has refused reasonable requests for video calls and phone calls with LDW during her parenting time, limiting my ability to maintain an emotional connection with him.

June 1, 2024: Emily refused a weekly video call schedule, citing discomfort without proposing alternatives.

October 8, 2024: Emily ignored my requests to discuss Halloween plans or coordinate shared holiday experiences.

Counter to Harassment Claims:

My requests for communication were lawful and aligned with MCL 722.23(a), which recognizes the importance of maintaining love, affection, and emotional ties between the child and both parents. Denying such communication actively harms LDW's emotional well-being. Emily's refusal to facilitate communication demonstrates her unwillingness to foster a positive relationship between LDW and me, violating MCL 722.23(j).

6. Creating False Narratives About My Parenting

Misbehavior:

On October 15, 2023, Emily alleged that she discovered a straw with suspected cocaine residue in her home, falsely insinuating that I was responsible. This baseless claim has been repeatedly referenced despite a complete lack of evidence.

Emily claimed I physically assaulted her during a parenting exchange while holding LDW, an accusation documented in police report OCA 2023-06948, which highlighted inconsistencies in her story.

Counter to Harassment Claims:

These fabricated allegations were intended to damage my reputation and alienate me from LDW, not to address legitimate concerns. Rappleye v. Rappleye, 183 Mich. App. 396 (1990), emphasizes that false claims designed to undermine a parent's relationship with their child harm the child's best interests.

My documented interactions with LDW and police reports showing inconsistencies in Emily's allegations support my credibility and commitment to LDW's well-being.

7. Inconsistent Co-Parenting Behavior

Misbehavior:

Emily has repeatedly failed to prepare LDW adequately for parenting exchanges, often sending him without essential items such as shoes, socks, or weather-appropriate clothing.

October 17, 2024: After numerous requests, Emily finally sent LDW properly prepared for an exchange, highlighting her ongoing negligence.

Counter to Harassment Claims:

My efforts to address these issues, including polite reminders via AppClose, were aimed at ensuring LDW's comfort and safety, not harassment. MCL 722.23(d) highlights the importance of maintaining a stable and satisfactory environment for the child, which includes being adequately prepared for transitions between households.

Emily's repeated neglect in this area demonstrates a lack of capacity to meet LDW's material needs under MCL 722.23(c).

Detailed Analysis of Emily Watson's Misuse of Professional Authority

Case No.: 2024-001507-DC

SUPPLEMENTAL ANALYSIS: MISUSE OF PROFESSIONAL AUTHORITY

As a caseworker for the Kent County Prosecutor's Office, Emily Watson holds a position of authority, requiring adherence to the highest ethical standards, particularly in matters involving family law. However, Emily has exploited her professional knowledge and access to legal systems to manipulate the custody process, alienate LDW from me, and obstruct fair and cooperative co-parenting. Below is a detailed analysis of how Emily's misuse of her professional authority directly undermines LDW's best interests and my parental rights, necessitating immediate court intervention.

1. Exploitation of Legal Knowledge to Weaponize PPOs and Legal Claims

Emily has repeatedly used her understanding of legal procedures and her access to legal systems to file baseless Personal Protection Orders (PPOs) and unfounded legal claims against me. Notable examples include:

Filing Unfounded PPO Complaints: Emily has filed multiple PPO complaints without valid grounds, knowing the burden such complaints place on me as a co-parent. These filings were often based on fabricated allegations, such as claims of harassment stemming from my lawful attempts to communicate about LDW. For example:

October 2024: Emily alleged that I violated the PPO by contacting her regarding LDW's health and well-being, even though my communications were appropriate and focused on parenting matters. These actions align with patterns of parental alienation, as defined in Rappleye v. Rappleye, 183 Mich. App. 396 (1990), where the court emphasized that false legal claims designed to restrict parental access harm the child's best interests.

Leveraging PPOs to Avoid Co-Parenting: Emily has explicitly used PPOs as a means to avoid necessary co-parenting communication, violating LDW's right to a balanced relationship with both parents. This behavior contradicts MCL 722.23(j), which prioritizes fostering a close parent-child relationship with both parents.

2. Access to and Misuse of Confidential Information

Emily's professional position grants her access to sensitive and confidential information that she has improperly leveraged to gain an advantage in custody proceedings. Examples include:

Accessing and Using Private Health Records: Emily allegedly accessed my personal health records, including mental health treatment history, without authorization. She used this information to falsely portray me as unfit to parent, despite my demonstrated stability and commitment to LDW's well-being. This constitutes a violation of my privacy and professional ethics.

Fabricating Allegations Based on Misused Data: Emily has used her insider knowledge to fabricate and bolster allegations against me, such as claims of drug abuse or instability, which lack evidence and rely solely on manipulated interpretations of data she accessed.

These actions reflect a breach of professional ethics as outlined in Michigan Rules of Professional Conduct (MRPC 8.4), which prohibit conduct involving dishonesty, fraud, or misrepresentation, particularly when it directly harms the well-being of a minor.

3. Manipulation of Custody Proceedings

Emily's legal knowledge has enabled her to manipulate custody proceedings by presenting misleading evidence and exploiting procedural advantages. Specific concerns include:

Staging Evidence to Undermine My Parenting: Emily has reportedly staged incidents to create false narratives about my parenting fitness, such as:

October 15, 2023: Emily alleged that she discovered a straw with suspected cocaine residue in her home, insinuating that I was responsible. This baseless accusation has been repeatedly referenced despite a complete lack of evidence, damaging my reputation and influencing custody decisions.

Delaying or Withholding Court-Mandated Information: Emily has repeatedly delayed or refused to provide essential documents, such as medical records and insurance information for LDW. For example:

May 28, 2024: Emily provided only partial medical records despite a court order requiring full disclosure. Her failure to cooperate hindered my ability to make informed decisions about LDW's health, violating MCL 722.23(c), which requires both parents to demonstrate the capacity to provide for the child's medical needs.

4. Abuse of Position to Mislead the Court

Emily's professional role has given her undue credibility in the eyes of the Court, which she has exploited to misrepresent facts and mislead the Court about her own actions and fitness as a parent.

Examples include:

Portraying False Stability: Emily has misrepresented her household environment as safe and stable, despite the presence of her brother Cody Watson, who has a history of violent behavior and substance abuse. Her professional authority has allowed her to downplay these risks, directly endangering LDW.

Leveraging Her Position to Evade Scrutiny: Emily has used her role to deflect accountability for her alienating behavior, such as:

Withholding LDW during my parenting time on multiple occasions.

Falsely portraying my efforts to communicate as harassment or interference.

This misuse of professional standing contradicts Ireland v. Smith, 451 Mich. 457 (1996), which emphasizes the importance of transparency and honesty in custody disputes to protect the child's best interests.

5. Ethical Concerns Regarding Parental Alienation

As a caseworker, Emily has professional knowledge of the damaging effects of parental alienation on a child's emotional well-being. Despite this, she has engaged in behaviors that foster alienation, including:

Blocking Communication: Emily has routinely refused to facilitate video chats or phone calls between me and LDW, undermining our bond. Her knowledge of the psychological impact of such actions makes this behavior particularly egregious.

Encouraging False Narratives: Emily's family, under her influence, has made disparaging remarks about me in LDW's presence, contributing to an environment of alienation. This behavior aligns with the court's findings in Shade v. Wright, 291 Mich. App. 17 (2010), where fostering a child's alienation from a parent was considered detrimental to the child's best interests.

6. Legal Precedents Supporting Custody Modification

The following legal precedents highlight the Court's responsibility to address Emily's misuse of professional authority and its impact on LDW:

Vodvarka v. Grasmeyer, 259 Mich. App. 499 (2003): Establishes that a substantial change in circumstances, such as parental alienation or misuse of authority, justifies custody modification.

Rappleve v. Rappleve, 183 Mich. App. 396 (1990): Emphasizes the harm caused by alienation and false legal claims in custody disputes.

Phillips v. Jordan, 241 Mich. App. 17 (2000): Recognizes the court's obligation to protect children from inappropriate discipline and unsafe household environments.

Shade v. Wright, 291 Mich. App. 17 (2010): Highlights the impact of alienating behavior on a child's emotional health and the need for court intervention.

REQUEST FOR RELIEF

Given Emily's pattern of inappropriate behaviors and misuse of professional authority, I respectfully request the Court to:

Reevaluate Custody Arrangements: Modify custody to grant primary physical custody to me, ensuring LDW's safety and emotional well-being.

Mandate Supervised Parenting Time: Require Emily's parenting time to be supervised until her misuse of authority and alienating behaviors are addressed.

Appoint a Guardian ad Litem: Assign a GAL to assess Emily's actions and their impact on LDW's well-being.

Issue Protective Orders: Restrict Emily's access to my personal records and ensure that confidential information is not misused in custody proceedings.

CONCLUSION

Emily's misuse of professional authority not only undermines the integrity of the custody process but also places LDW's well-being at significant risk. Her actions demonstrate a pattern of alienation, manipulation, and disregard for ethical standards, which directly harm LDW's emotional and psychological stability. A custody modification is necessary to protect LDW and ensure his right to a healthy, balanced relationship with both parents.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

SUPPLEMENTAL ANALYSIS: INAPPROPRIATE INVOLVEMENT BEHAVIORS

This document supplements the previously filed affidavit to highlight Defendant Emily Watson's pattern of inappropriate involvement behaviors that jeopardize LDW's emotional, physical, and psychological safety. These actions demonstrate a disregard for co-parenting responsibilities and prioritize personal interests over LDW's best interests.

1. Use of Third Parties to Escalate Conflict and Undermine Parenting Exchanges

Emily has repeatedly involved her father, Albert Watson, and her brother, Cody Watson, during parenting exchanges, leading to confrontational and emotionally charged situations that directly harm LDW. Notable incidents include:

October 20, 2024: Emily's father aggressively removed LDW from my arms during a custody exchange. This behavior, witnessed by LDW, created a hostile environment, leading to emotional distress. Exposure to such incidents undermines LDW's sense of safety and security, violating the standard outlined in MCL 722.23(k), which prioritizes protection from violence or aggressive behavior. Cody Watson's History: Cody Watson, who resides with Emily, has a documented history of substance abuse and violent tendencies. Despite this, Cody is frequently present during exchanges and actively involved in LDW's caregiving. Cody's behavior raises significant safety concerns, as his instability poses a direct risk to LDW. This directly contradicts MCL 722.23(d) and (k), which emphasize stability and safety as critical factors in custody decisions.

2. Allowing Cody Watson to Engage in Inappropriate Discipline

Emily has permitted Cody Watson to discipline LDW, including the use of spanking. This is particularly troubling given Cody's history of violent behavior. As highlighted in Phillips v. Jordan, 241 Mich. App. 17 (2000), the court held that exposing children to inappropriate or harmful disciplinary practices constitutes a significant risk to their well-being. Emily's decision to allow Cody to physically discipline LDW violates LDW's right to a safe, nurturing environment.

3. Introducing Hostility and Manipulation During Parenting Exchanges

Emily has fostered an environment of hostility during parenting exchanges by involving third parties who exhibit aggressive behavior, including threats and intimidation. These actions are documented in:

October 27, 2024: During a scheduled exchange, Cody Watson arrived instead of Emily, behaving aggressively and refusing to provide LDW's personal items, such as clothing or comfort items. This unnecessary hostility disrupted LDW's transition and added emotional stress.

Pattern of Behavior: Emily consistently fails to attend exchanges herself, instead delegating this responsibility to third parties, further exacerbating conflict. As held in Harrell v. Harrell, 240 Mich. App. 244 (2000), consistent interference with peaceful exchanges undermines co-parenting and negatively impacts the child's emotional health.

4. Misuse of Authority as a Caseworker to Manipulate Custody Proceedings

Emily's employment as a caseworker for the Kent County Prosecutor's Office gives her access to confidential legal procedures and systems, which she has leveraged to manipulate this custody dispute. Specific concerns include:

Access to Confidential Records: Emily has allegedly accessed private information, including my personal health and financial records, to fabricate allegations and support her narrative in court. This behavior reflects a gross misuse of her professional authority and violates ethical boundaries outlined in MCL 722.23(f) regarding moral fitness.

False PPO Allegations: Emily has filed multiple baseless claims of PPO violations, using her legal knowledge to weaponize the system against me. As emphasized in Vodvarka v. Grasmeyer, 259 Mich. App. 499 (2003), misuse of legal processes constitutes a form of parental alienation and demonstrates unfitness to co-parent.

5. Alienation Through Third-Party Influence

Emily's family members have actively participated in alienating LDW from me. This includes:

False Narratives by Family: Emily's family has made disparaging remarks about me to LDW, falsely claiming I am financially unstable and incapable of providing care. Such statements foster bias against me and undermine LDW's relationship with his father. Rappleye v. Rappleye, 183 Mich. App. 396 (1990) confirms that alienating behavior by a custodial parent or their associates warrants a custody modification.

Withholding Personal Belongings: Emily has refused to return sentimental items belonging to LDW, including a Winnie the Pooh toy gifted by my mother. These actions weaken LDW's connection to his paternal family, further contributing to emotional alienation.

6. Risk to LDW's Physical Safety in Emily's Household

Cody Watson's presence in Emily's home represents a clear and present danger to LDW's safety. Specific incidents include:

Substance Abuse: Cody has a history of substance abuse, yet he remains an active figure in LDW's daily life. Exposure to such behavior increases LDW's risk of harm and emotional instability.
Aggressive Behavior: Cody's documented aggression, including road rage incidents and confrontations during exchanges, poses a significant threat to LDW. This directly violates MCL 722.23(k), which mandates the court to consider domestic violence or harmful environments in custody decisions.
Failure to Ensure Supervised Care: Emily frequently leaves LDW under Cody's supervision despite his unfitness to provide safe, appropriate care. As held in Shade v. Wright, 291 Mich. App. 17 (2010), exposing a child to an unsafe caregiver is grounds for modifying custody to prioritize the child's safety.

REQUEST FOR RELIEF

In light of the Defendant's inappropriate involvement behaviors and their detrimental impact on LDW, I respectfully request the following:

Immediate Custody Modification: Transfer primary physical custody to me to protect LDW from the risks associated with Cody Watson's presence and Emily's ongoing alienation tactics.

Restrict Third-Party Involvement: Prohibit Cody Watson and Albert Watson from attending exchanges or providing care to LDW due to their history of aggression and safety concerns.

Appointment of a Guardian ad Litem: Assign a GAL to assess the risks posed by Emily's household and determine the impact on LDW's well-being.

Mandate Supervised Parenting Time for Emily: Require Emily's parenting time to be supervised until her household is deemed safe and free of harmful influences.

Parenting Counseling: Require Emily to participate in counseling focused on co-parenting and conflict resolution to address her alienating behaviors and inappropriate involvement of third parties.

CONCLUSION

Emily's actions, particularly her reliance on inappropriate third-party involvement, pose a significant threat to LDW's emotional and physical well-being. My home offers LDW a safe, stable, and nurturing environment, free from hostility and manipulation. I respectfully request the Court to prioritize LDW's best interests by granting the requested relief and ensuring he is protected from further harm.

GROUNDWORK FOR CUSTODY MODIFICATION UNDER MCL 722.27

1. Proper Cause or Change in Circumstances (MCL 722.27)

Michigan law requires a substantial change in circumstances or proper cause to modify custody. As held in Vodvarka v. Grasmeyer, 259 Mich. App. 499 (2003), these changes must significantly impact the child's well-being. The Defendant's consistent alienation, refusal to comply with parenting time orders, and misuse of legal processes create instability and emotional harm to LDW. These actions justify custody modification to protect LDW's long-term well-being.

ANALYSIS OF BEST INTEREST FACTORS UNDER MCL 722.23

Factor (a): Love, Affection, and Emotional Ties (MCL 722.23(a))

I have built a strong emotional bond with LDW through shared routines, enriching activities, and a supportive home environment. Conversely, Emily has obstructed my ability to maintain this bond by withholding parenting time and blocking communication. Shade v. Wright, 291 Mich. App. 17 (2010) recognizes that alienation efforts undermine the child's emotional ties with both parents, warranting intervention.

Factor (b): Capacity to Provide Guidance and Love (MCL 722.23(b))

I actively engage in LDW's development by providing emotional support, teaching values, and fostering creativity. Emily's refusal to share health updates and engage in cooperative parenting violates the standard set in Ireland v. Smith, 451 Mich. 457 (1996), which emphasizes the importance of co-parenting for the child's emotional health.

Factor (c): Capacity to Meet Material Needs (MCL 722.23(c))

I am financially stable, providing LDW with a well-maintained home, clothing, and nutritious meals. Defendant's failure to properly prepare LDW for exchanges and dismissiveness toward his medical needs contradicts the principles outlined in Baker v. Baker, 411 Mich. 567 (1981), where meeting the child's physical needs is paramount.

Factor (d): Stability of the Environment (MCL 722.23(d))

My home offers LDW a stable, nurturing environment. In contrast, Emily's frequent absences and reliance on third parties introduce instability. Brown v. Loveman, 260 Mich. App. 576 (2004) confirms that disruptions to a child's continuity are grounds for modifying custody.

Factor (j): Willingness to Foster the Parent-Child Relationship (MCL 722.23(j))

I have consistently encouraged LDW's relationship with Emily, while she has repeatedly alienated LDW from me, including withholding parenting time and failing to communicate. Pickering v. Pickering, 268 Mich. App. 1 (2005) establishes that such actions justify modifying custody to prioritize the child's relationship with both parents.

ADDITIONAL LEGAL SUPPORT FOR FINANCIAL CLAIMS

MCL 552.17 – Modification of Child Support

The Defendant has failed to disclose supplemental income sources, including rent from family members and support from her child's father, Austin Muratori. As held in Hogg v. Hogg, 50 Mich. App. 508 (1973), courts may impute income or recalculate support when a parent misrepresents financial circumstances.

MCR 3.208(C) – Income Disclosure Requirements

Under this rule, parties are required to provide complete and accurate financial information. Emily's failure to report these income sources skews the child support calculation, resulting in an unjust financial burden on me. Burba v. Burba, 461 Mich. 637 (2000) emphasizes that support must reflect both parents' actual financial contributions.

RELIEF REQUESTED

Modify Custody:

Restore 50/50 custody to ensure LDW has balanced, meaningful contact with both parents, protecting his emotional and developmental needs as outlined in MCL 722.23.

Enforce Parenting Time:

Penalize the Defendant for repeated violations under MCL 722.27a(11), ensuring compliance with court-ordered parenting schedules.

Recalculate Child Support:

Reevaluate support based on accurate income disclosure under MCL 552.17 and MCR 3.208(C), correcting prior miscalculations caused by the Defendant's omissions.

Address Parental Alienation:

Mandate counseling for both parties to mitigate the harmful effects of alienation, per Eldred v. Eldred, 246 Mich. App. 142 (2001).

Guardian ad Litem Appointment:

Appoint a GAL under MCL 722.24 to assess LDW's well-being and address the ongoing harm caused by alienation.

Immediate Temporary Relief:

Grant temporary custody modifications to stabilize LDW's emotional health during these proceedings, consistent with the principles in Vodvarka v. Grasmeyer.

CONCLUSION

The Defendant's repeated actions to alienate LDW, obstruct parenting time, and misrepresent financial information significantly impact his emotional and developmental well-being. The proposed modifications are necessary to safeguard LDW's best interests and restore stability in his life.

Respectfully submitted,

Date: November 19, 2024

Expanded Financial Claims

1. Employment and Income Stability

I am steadily employed with Shape Corporation, earning $19.86 per hour with full benefits, including health, dental, vision, and life insurance. My stable employment enables me to provide consistent financial support for LDW's needs, ensuring his upbringing is secure and free from financial stress. Consistent Employment Record: I have maintained a strong work ethic and stable income, despite the emotional toll of ongoing custody disputes, demonstrating my ability to provide a financially secure home for LDW.

Recent Career Growth: I have actively pursued opportunities for career advancement and am soon to receive a promotion, which will increase my income and further improve LDW's standard of living.

2. Child Support Contributions

I have consistently met all child support obligations, including arrears, while ensuring LDW's material needs are met.

Timely Payments: I have fulfilled every financial requirement outlined in the court orders, demonstrating my reliability and commitment to LDW's well-being.

Exceeding Expectations: Beyond mandated support payments, I have personally financed additional items and activities for LDW, including clothing, educational toys, and social outings, reflecting my dedication to his holistic development.

3. Comprehensive Health Insurance Coverage

My employment benefits provide full health insurance coverage for both LDW and myself, ensuring access to high-quality medical care without undue financial burden.

Coverage Details: My health plan covers routine checkups, vaccinations, dental care, and emergency services, offering LDW comprehensive protection.

Proactive Health Management: I have utilized this coverage to advocate for LDW's health, including suggesting allergy testing and consistent dental care. Emily's lack of cooperation in medical decision-making has obstructed LDW's access to these essential services.

4. Investments in LDW's Material Needs

I have gone above and beyond to ensure LDW's physical needs are met and exceeded, providing a safe and nurturing environment:

Clothing and Essentials: I have purchased a full wardrobe for LDW, ensuring he is equipped for all seasons, weather conditions, and activities. In contrast, Emily frequently sends LDW to parenting exchanges without proper clothing, shoes, or weather-appropriate items.

Educational and Recreational Expenses: I have consistently invested in LDW's educational and recreational needs, purchasing books, toys, and supplies that encourage his development and curiosity. These expenses are not reimbursed or shared by Emily, further highlighting my financial commitment to LDW's upbringing.

Home Renovations: I have invested over 300 days of labor and financial resources into improving my home to provide LDW with a safe and welcoming space, including:

Renovating his bedroom with furniture, educational materials, and toys.

Ensuring the house is equipped with child-safe features, such as secure storage and clean, maintained living spaces.

5. Financial Transparency vs. Emily's Misrepresentation

In contrast to my demonstrated financial stability and transparency, Emily has engaged in deceptive practices that manipulate child support calculations and obscure her true financial standing:

Exaggerated Insurance Costs: Emily has inflated her reported health insurance expenses, despite receiving employer-subsidized coverage that covers 85% of her premiums. This misrepresentation artificially increases her financial needs in child support calculations.

Undisclosed Rental Income: Emily has failed to report income from renting a portion of her home to her brother, Cody Watson. This unreported income creates an unfair financial burden on me, as child support calculations do not account for her additional resources.

Failure to Disclose Supplemental Support: Emily has not reported other sources of financial assistance, such as child support payments from Austin Muratori or contributions from family members, which further skews the child support calculations.

6. Misuse of Financial Resources

Emily's financial decisions demonstrate a prioritization of her personal interests over LDW's needs: Extravagant Vacations: Emily has financed extended vacations, such as the two-week trip in October 2024, during which she withheld LDW from me and disrupted his stability. These funds could have been allocated toward LDW's well-being.

Unnecessary Litigation Costs: Emily has refused to mediate custody disputes amicably, forcing prolonged litigation that strains both parties financially. Her preference for conflict over cooperation reflects a misuse of financial resources that negatively impacts LDW.

7. Disparities in Financial Contributions

The financial burden of Emily's actions disproportionately falls on me, despite my unwavering commitment to LDW's well-being:

Unreimbursed Expenses: I cover all costs associated with LDW during my parenting time, including clothing, food, activities, and medical expenses, without any support from Emily.

Missed Opportunities for Cost Sharing: Emily has repeatedly refused to collaborate on shared expenses, such as daycare fees and extracurricular activities, leaving me to shoulder these costs independently.

Impact on LDW's Stability: Emily's refusal to align on financial decisions, such as consistent daycare arrangements, creates unnecessary instability for LDW and undermines his sense of routine.

8. Request for Child Support Recalculation

In light of the above, I request a recalculation of child support to reflect the following:

Adjusted Income Disclosures: Emily's undisclosed rental income and employer-subsidized insurance costs should be factored into the calculations to ensure fairness.

Consideration of Shared Parenting Time: The recalculation should account for my substantial contributions to LDW's care and the expenses I incur during my parenting time.

Reduction in Arrears: Given the inaccuracies in Emily's financial disclosures and the significant financial investments I have made in LDW's well-being, I request a reduction or elimination of arrears to reflect the true financial dynamics of our arrangement.

9. Long-Term Financial Planning

I am committed to ensuring LDW's financial security and stability through:

Savings for LDW's Future: I have started setting aside funds for LDW's education and other future needs, prioritizing his long-term success and independence.

Responsible Budgeting: I carefully manage my finances to allocate resources toward LDW's needs, avoiding unnecessary expenditures and prioritizing his well-being.

Focus on Career Advancement: My pursuit of professional growth ensures a steady increase in income, enabling me to provide LDW with enhanced opportunities and experiences.

Conclusion

The financial disparities between Emily's conduct and my demonstrated commitment to LDW's well-being further emphasize the need for a custody modification and child support recalculation. My transparency, financial responsibility, and dedication to LDW's needs stand in stark contrast to Emily's pattern of misrepresentation, negligence, and prioritization of personal interests. I respectfully request that the Court considers these factors in determining an equitable arrangement that aligns with LDW's best interests and ensures his long-term stability.

Pattern of Behavior: Emily Watson

Emily Watson's conduct demonstrates a troubling and escalating pattern of manipulative, alienating, and negligent behavior. This behavior not only undermines the principles of co-parenting but also endangers LDW's emotional, physical, and psychological well-being. Below is a comprehensive analysis of her behavior, personal relationships that exacerbate the situation, and her repeated legal violations.

I. Parental Alienation

1. Encouraging LDW to Reject Me

Emily has engaged in calculated efforts to alienate LDW from me, including:

Undermining My Parental Role: Emily has instructed LDW to call her new partner "Daddy" while discouraging him from referring to me as "Daddy." This manipulation confuses LDW, damages his emotional security, and creates an artificial barrier in our relationship.

Defamation of My Character: Emily has repeatedly made unfounded and damaging allegations against me to portray me as an unfit parent, including claims of substance abuse, neglect, and criminal behavior. These accusations lack evidence but have contributed to her alienation campaign.

2. Blocking Communication

Emily's obstruction of communication demonstrates her unwillingness to co-parent or prioritize LDW's needs:

Denied Video Calls: On multiple occasions, Emily has denied scheduled video calls, claiming that LDW "doesn't want to talk." This includes incidents on June 1, 2024, and September 12, 2024, where no evidence was provided to justify these refusals.

Failure to Share Updates: Emily consistently withholds critical updates about LDW's health, education, and daily life. For example, I was not informed of LDW's doctor's appointment or his vaccinations on November 19, 2024.

3. Withholding Parenting Time

Emily's pattern of withholding parenting time has caused significant emotional distress for LDW:

March 26 – May 2, 2024: Emily withheld LDW for 37 consecutive days without justification, depriving me of meaningful interaction and disrupting our bond.

October 20 – November 12, 2024: Emily again withheld LDW, which included Halloween and his birthday both critical opportunities for bonding and creating positive memories.

II. Neglect of LDW's Basic Needs

1. Healthcare Neglect

Emily has demonstrated a consistent failure to address LDW's healthcare needs:

Missed Dental Appointments: LDW has been overdue for his first dental appointment since February 2024, as recommended by his physician. Emily has taken no action to schedule or prioritize this critical aspect of LDW's health.

Uninformed Medical Decisions: On November 19, 2024, LDW received multiple vaccinations without my prior knowledge or consultation, violating my parental rights and undermining the principles of co-parenting.

2. Unexplained Injuries

LDW frequently arrives at parenting exchanges with visible injuries and signs of neglect:

October 4, 2024: LDW arrived with a large, unexplained bruise on his leg. Emily dismissed concerns without providing a credible explanation.

June 15, 2024: LDW returned with severe rashes that Emily failed to address, raising questions about his care and supervision.

3. Inadequate Preparation for Exchanges

Emily routinely fails to provide LDW with basic necessities during exchanges:

LDW often arrives without proper clothing, shoes, or weather-appropriate items, reflecting a lack of attention to his basic needs.

III. Manipulative Legal and Financial Tactics

1. Misrepresentation of Financial Information

Emily has engaged in deceptive practices to manipulate child support calculations:

Exaggerated Insurance Costs: Emily claims inflated insurance expenses, despite benefiting from employer-subsidized coverage that covers 85% of her premiums.

Undisclosed Rental Income: Emily has failed to report income from renting a portion of her home to her brother, Cody Watson.

2. Misuse of PPOs

Emily has weaponized Personal Protection Orders (PPOs) to restrict my access to LDW:

October 20, 2024: Albert Watson served a PPO violation during an exchange, mocking me and creating unnecessary tension. This misuse of legal processes is designed to intimidate and alienate.

3. False Allegations

Emily has made numerous false allegations, including:

Substance Abuse Claims: Alleging cocaine use during exchanges without any evidence.

Poisoning Accusation: Claiming I poisoned her with arsenic, an allegation dismissed for lack of evidence.

IV. Hostile and Aggressive Behavior

1. Albert Watson's Aggression

Albert Watson has escalated conflicts during parenting exchanges, creating an unsafe environment for LDW:

November 2023: Albert physically assaulted me while I was living at 2160 Garland. This assault was unrelated to a parenting exchange but exemplifies his aggressive tendencies.

October 20, 2024: Albert forcibly removed LDW from my arms during an exchange, throwing a PPO violation into my vehicle and mocking me.

2. Cody Watson's Intimidation Tactics

Cody Watson has contributed to the hostile environment:

September 20, 2024: Cody engaged in road harassment, violating the PPO and endangering LDW during the incident.

3. Reliance on Family as Enforcers

Emily uses Albert and Cody Watson to intimidate and harass me during exchanges, shielding herself from direct accountability. This behavior creates a hostile environment that negatively impacts LDW's emotional well-being.

V. Violations of Court Orders

Emily has shown a pattern of willful noncompliance with court orders:

Parenting Time Violations: Emily has repeatedly failed to comply with the court-ordered parenting schedule, as evidenced during the periods of March 26 – May 2, 2024, and October 20 – November 12, 2024.

Refusal to Share Information: Emily's failure to inform me about LDW's medical appointments on November 19, 2024, directly violates co-parenting agreements.

Interference with Communication: Blocking video calls and withholding updates obstruct LDW's right to maintain a meaningful relationship with me.

VI. Psychological Impact on LDW

Dr. J. Michael Bone, a leading expert in parental alienation, has documented the psychological harm caused by Emily's actions:

Heightened Anxiety: LDW displays increased anxiety during transitions, a hallmark symptom of alienation.

Developmental Regression: LDW has shown delays in emotional and social milestones, attributed to the instability caused by Emily's behavior.

These findings align with established research and case law (Johnston v. Johnston), emphasizing the long-term risks of alienation if left unchecked.

VII. Summary of Legal Violations

Emily's actions violate multiple statutes and legal principles, including:

MCL 722.23: Failing to prioritize LDW's best interests through alienation and neglect.

MCL 722.27a: Interfering with parenting time and failing to foster a healthy parent-child relationship.

MCL 600.2950: Misusing PPOs for manipulative purposes rather than genuine safety concerns.

Conclusion

Emily Watson's behavior demonstrates a consistent pattern of alienation, neglect, and disregard for court orders. These actions jeopardize LDW's well-being and directly violate Michigan's best interest factors. Immediate court intervention is essential to restore fairness, protect LDW, and implement measures to prevent further harm.

Emily's Moral Fitness

Manipulative Behavior and Lack of Integrity:

Emily has repeatedly demonstrated manipulative behavior that undermines co-parenting and harms LDW's relationship with me. Her actions, including staging incidents, fabricating accusations, and withholding critical updates about LDW's well-being, reflect a lack of honesty and moral integrity. These behaviors not only damage our co-parenting dynamic but also introduce unnecessary conflict into LDW's life.

Parental Alienation:

Emily has engaged in actions that actively alienate LDW from me, including withholding parenting time, failing to facilitate communication, and excluding me from major milestones in LDW's life. These behaviors are deeply harmful to LDW's emotional health and contradict the moral standards required of a parent who is supposed to prioritize their child's best interests.

Failure to Shield LDW from Conflict:

Emily has allowed and facilitated confrontations during parenting exchanges, such as her father's aggressive behavior toward me in front of LDW. These actions expose LDW to hostility and create an emotionally volatile environment that undermines his sense of safety and stability.

Neglect of Co-Parenting Responsibilities:

Emily has consistently refused to engage in meaningful co-parenting, blocking communication and disregarding efforts to collaborate on important decisions regarding LDW's health, education, and development. Her unwillingness to cooperate not only hinders LDW's growth but also demonstrates a disregard for her moral responsibility to foster a healthy relationship between LDW and both parents.

Self-Serving Actions Over LDW's Best Interests:

Emily has prioritized her own interests over LDW's well-being on numerous occasions. For example, taking vacations during my scheduled parenting time and failing to provide LDW with basic necessities like shoes, socks, or toys demonstrate a lack of focus on his needs. Her actions reflect a pattern of self-centered decision-making that compromises LDW's stability and happiness.

Abuse of Professional Knowledge:

As a caseworker for the Family Division of the Kent County Prosecutor's Office, Emily possesses insider knowledge of family law and custody procedures. Rather than using this knowledge to foster a cooperative co-parenting relationship, she has weaponized it to manipulate legal processes, fabricate allegations, and obstruct my parental rights. This abuse of her professional position raises significant ethical concerns and reflects a serious lack of moral fitness.

Neglect of LDW's Safety and Well-Being:

Emily's continued involvement of her brother Cody Watson, who has a documented history of violence and substance abuse, in LDW's life raises significant concerns about her judgment and priorities. Allowing such a potentially harmful influence into LDW's environment demonstrates a disregard for his safety and well-being, further calling into question her moral fitness.

Conclusion

The contrast between my moral fitness and Emily's is stark. While I consistently prioritize LDW's well-being, demonstrate integrity, and act as a positive role model, Emily's actions reflect a pattern of manipulation, self-interest, and disregard for LDW's emotional and developmental needs. Her behaviors undermine the moral foundation necessary for effective parenting and create an environment of instability and conflict.

This comparison strongly supports the need for a custody modification in LDW's best interests. My consistent focus on fostering a stable, loving, and morally sound environment for LDW makes me the parent better equipped to meet his needs and ensure his long-term well-being.

Factor (a): The Love, Affection, and Other Emotional Ties Between the Parties and the Child (MCL 722.23(a))

I have a deeply loving and nurturing bond with LDW, evident in our daily routines, shared activities, and the consistent care I provide. Our relationship is rooted in trust and emotional security, which I reinforce through meaningful, child-focused interactions. Every moment I spend with LDW is an opportunity to foster his happiness and growth. We have developed cherished traditions, such as bedtime stories, snuggling before sleep, and shared meals, which strengthen his sense of stability and belonging.

LDW thrives in my care, as seen in his joyful demeanor and comfort during our time together. Activities like playing at Mullaly Park, swimming and rock hunting at Duck Lake, or exploring the art museum are not just fun; they are opportunities for bonding, learning, and emotional development. These moments are not sporadic but part of a consistent routine that prioritizes LDW's emotional well-being.

I take pride in being a patient, engaged, and emotionally available parent. I encourage LDW to express his feelings openly, teaching him to navigate emotions constructively. This nurturing approach lays the foundation for a secure attachment, essential for his long-term mental health and development.

Factor (b): The Capacity and Disposition of the Parties to Give Love, Affection, and Guidance (MCL 722.23(b))

I am deeply committed to guiding LDW with love, patience, and wisdom. I take every opportunity to instill positive values such as kindness, empathy, and responsibility. For example, I teach LDW the importance of cleaning up after himself, respecting others, and treating nature with care by encouraging recycling and avoiding littering.

I ensure LDW is surrounded by enriching activities that foster his cognitive and social growth. From providing educational toys and books to engaging him in creative activities like painting and music, I prioritize his development. I encourage curiosity and exploration, always answering his questions and supporting his interests.

My guidance extends to his daily routines, where I establish consistency and structure to help him feel secure. Whether it's maintaining a bedtime schedule, ensuring he eats nutritious meals, or teaching him basic life skills, I actively contribute to his growth and independence.

Factor (c): The Capacity to Provide the Child with Food, Clothing, Medical Care, and Other Material Needs (MCL 722.23(c))

I have always ensured that LDW's material needs are fully met, even during challenging times. I am steadily employed at Shape Corporation, earning a reliable income with full benefits, including health, dental, and vision coverage for both myself and LDW. My financial stability allows me to provide for LDW's needs without compromise.

I take pride in preparing nutritious meals for LDW, often involving him in grocery shopping and teaching him about healthy food choices. He always has seasonal clothing, multiple pairs of shoes, and everything he needs for his comfort and well-being. My home is equipped with everything a growing child requires, including a fully furnished room with a bed, toys, books, and space for creative play.

When it comes to medical care, I prioritize LDW's health and safety. I ensure that he sees a doctor promptly when needed and actively engage in his healthcare decisions. My focus is on preventive care and addressing any concerns promptly, ensuring that LDW's health and well-being are never compromised.

Factor (d): The Length of Time the Child Has Lived in a Stable, Satisfactory Environment (MCL 722.23(d))

My home provides a stable, loving, and child-focused environment that LDW knows and feels comfortable in. I have invested significant time and resources in creating a safe and nurturing space tailored to his needs. From renovating the house to ensuring LDW has a dedicated room filled with educational materials, I have made every effort to make my home a place where he can thrive. LDW's routines at my home provide him with the consistency and predictability that are crucial for his emotional stability. Our days are filled with structured activities, mealtime traditions, and bedtime routines that reinforce his sense of security.

In contrast to any instability he may experience elsewhere, my home remains a constant source of stability and love in LDW's life. I have worked tirelessly to ensure that his environment supports his physical, emotional, and developmental needs.

Moral Fitness

Integrity and Honesty in Co-Parenting:

I have consistently upheld honesty and integrity in all aspects of my parenting and co-parenting. Despite significant challenges, I have made every effort to communicate constructively with Emily and have refrained from speaking negatively about her in LDW's presence. I understand the importance of maintaining a cooperative relationship for LDW's well-being and have approached co-parenting with a willingness to work together, even when met with resistance.

Commitment to LDW's Well-Being:

My actions and decisions are guided by an unwavering focus on LDW's best interests. From renovating my home to provide him with a safe and nurturing environment to teaching him empathy, respect, and responsibility, I strive to be a role model he can look up to. I demonstrate patience, kindness, and consistency, ensuring that LDW feels loved, supported, and secure in my care.

Positive Role Modeling:

I embody the values I wish to instill in LDW, such as kindness, responsibility, and respect for others. I have taught him to care for his surroundings, encouraged his curiosity through educational activities, and provided him with a stable foundation for emotional and moral development. I actively avoid conflict in his presence and shield him from any unnecessary stress or negativity.

Responsibility and Accountability:

I have taken full responsibility for my parental obligations, including child support, medical care, and emotional support for LDW. Even during difficult times, I have ensured that his needs are met without compromise. My financial stability, steady employment, and proactive approach to parenting demonstrate my reliability and commitment as a father.

Dedication to Transparency:

I prioritize transparency in all matters concerning LDW, sharing information and updates whenever necessary. My focus is on fostering trust and open communication to ensure that LDW benefits from the involvement of both parents.

Emily's Moral Fitness

Manipulative Behavior and Lack of Integrity:

Emily has repeatedly demonstrated manipulative behavior that undermines co-parenting and harms LDW's relationship with me. Her actions, including staging incidents, fabricating accusations, and withholding critical updates about LDW's well-being, reflect a lack of honesty and moral integrity. These behaviors not only damage our co-parenting dynamic but also introduce unnecessary conflict into LDW's life.

Parental Alienation:

Emily has engaged in actions that actively alienate LDW from me, including withholding parenting time, failing to facilitate communication, and excluding me from major milestones in LDW's life. These behaviors are deeply harmful to LDW's emotional health and contradict the moral standards required of a parent who is supposed to prioritize their child's best interests.

Failure to Shield LDW from Conflict:

Emily has allowed and facilitated confrontations during parenting exchanges, such as her father's aggressive behavior toward me in front of LDW. These actions expose LDW to hostility and create an emotionally volatile environment that undermines his sense of safety and stability.

Neglect of Co-Parenting Responsibilities:

Emily has consistently refused to engage in meaningful co-parenting, blocking communication and disregarding efforts to collaborate on important decisions regarding LDW's health, education, and development. Her unwillingness to cooperate not only hinders LDW's growth but also demonstrates a disregard for her moral responsibility to foster a healthy relationship between LDW and both parents.

Self-Serving Actions Over LDW's Best Interests:

Emily has prioritized her own interests over LDW's well-being on numerous occasions. For example, taking vacations during my scheduled parenting time and failing to provide LDW with basic necessities like shoes, socks, or toys demonstrate a lack of focus on his needs. Her actions reflect a pattern of self-centered decision-making that compromises LDW's stability and happiness.

Abuse of Professional Knowledge:

As a caseworker for the Family Division of the Kent County Prosecutor's Office, Emily possesses insider knowledge of family law and custody procedures. Rather than using this knowledge to foster a cooperative co-parenting relationship, she has weaponized it to manipulate legal processes, fabricate allegations, and obstruct my parental rights. This abuse of her professional position raises significant ethical concerns and reflects a serious lack of moral fitness.

Neglect of LDW's Safety and Well-Being:

Emily's continued involvement of her brother Cody Watson, who has a documented history of violence and substance abuse, in LDW's life raises significant concerns about her judgment and priorities. Allowing such a potentially harmful influence into LDW's environment demonstrates a disregard for his safety and well-being, further calling into question her moral fitness.

Conclusion

The contrast between my moral fitness and Emily's is stark. While I consistently prioritize LDW's well-being, demonstrate integrity, and act as a positive role model, Emily's actions reflect a pattern of manipulation, self-interest, and disregard for LDW's emotional and developmental needs. Her behaviors undermine the moral foundation necessary for effective parenting and create an environment of instability and conflict.

This comparison strongly supports the need for a custody modification in LDW's best interests. My consistent focus on fostering a stable, loving, and morally sound environment for LDW makes me the parent better equipped to meet his needs and ensure his long-term well-being.

Detailed Financial and Emotional Contributions vs. Emily's Negligence

Emily's Negligence and Lack of Commitment to LDW's Best Interests

Failure to Provide Basic Necessities

Emily routinely sends LDW to parenting exchanges without essential items such as shoes, socks, jackets, or weather-appropriate clothing. On October 15, 2024, LDW arrived at an exchange without socks or shoes, despite the colder weather, forcing me to immediately purchase new items to ensure his comfort and safety.

On October 3, 2024, Emily failed to notify me about LDW's illness (hand, foot, and mouth disease) until just hours before the exchange, leaving me unprepared to manage his care properly. This negligence compromised LDW's well-being and placed unnecessary stress on me to scramble for medical solutions.

Neglect of Healthcare Needs

Emily has failed to schedule LDW's first dental appointment, despite it being overdue since February 2024, as recommended by his physician. Dental care is critical to a child's overall health, and Emily's inaction demonstrates a disregard for his well-being.

On October 4, 2024, LDW arrived at an exchange with a large unexplained bruise on his leg. When I raised concerns, Emily dismissed them without providing any credible explanation. This pattern of ignoring injuries raises serious questions about her supervision and attentiveness.

On June 15, 2024, LDW returned to me with severe rashes that Emily had failed to address, leaving me to manage his medical care and comfort.

Obstruction of Co-Parenting Communication

Emily has repeatedly refused to share vital health updates about LDW. For example, on November 19, 2024, she vaccinated LDW without consulting me or informing me beforehand, violating the principles of co-parenting and my parental rights.

She has denied video calls on multiple occasions, including June 1, 2024, and September 12, 2024, claiming LDW "doesn't want to talk" without providing any evidence to support these refusals. This pattern of obstructing communication creates unnecessary emotional barriers between LDW and me.

Pattern of Withholding Parenting Time

Emily has withheld LDW for extended periods without justification:

From March 26 to May 2, 2024, she withheld LDW for 37 consecutive days, depriving me of essential bonding time and causing emotional harm to LDW.

From October 20 to November 15, 2024, she withheld LDW again, including his birthday on November 9 and Halloween, critical opportunities for shared experiences that strengthen parent-child relationships.

Hostile Environment Involving Family Members

Emily allows her brother Cody Watson, who has a documented history of violence and substance abuse, to remain actively involved in LDW's life. This raises significant safety concerns, especially given Cody's known aggressive behavior. For example, on September 20, 2024, Cody engaged in road harassment in violation of the PPO, endangering LDW during the incident.

On October 20, 2024, her father, Albert Watson, forcibly removed LDW from my arms during a parenting exchange, creating a hostile and emotionally distressing environment for LDW.

My Financial and Emotional Sacrifices for LDW

Investments in LDW's Well-Being

Material Needs: I have gone above and beyond to ensure LDW's material needs are not only met but exceeded. I have provided:

A full wardrobe, including clothing for all seasons, multiple pairs of shoes, boots, and weather-appropriate gear.

Essential items like blankets, toys, books, and educational materials to support his development. Home Renovations: I have invested over 300 days of labor and significant financial resources to renovate my home to provide LDW with a safe, comfortable, and nurturing environment. This includes: Creating a dedicated bedroom for LDW, complete with a bed, drum set, piano, shelves of books, and educational toys.

Ensuring the home is equipped with child-safe features and clean, maintained living spaces.

Proactive Healthcare Management

While Emily neglects LDW's healthcare needs, I consistently take a proactive approach to his well-being:

I've addressed medical concerns immediately, including seeking advice for potential allergies, unexplained rashes, and injuries that Emily has ignored.

My health insurance provides comprehensive coverage for LDW, ensuring he has access to the best possible care.

Commitment to LDW's Emotional Security

I have prioritized LDW's emotional stability by maintaining consistent routines and engaging in activities that nurture his development and happiness. For example:

Weekly outings to Duck Lake for swimming, fishing, and skipping rocks to foster a love for nature and physical activity.

Reading books, playing educational games, and teaching him piano and drums to stimulate his creativity and cognitive growth.

Socializing with his friends Ethan and Jack to encourage his social development.

Despite Emily's attempts to alienate LDW from me, I have remained unwavering in my efforts to reassure him of my love and support, even during challenging times.

Meeting Financial Obligations

I have consistently met all child support obligations, including arrears, while bearing the full financial burden of LDW's needs during my parenting time. This includes:

Financing additional clothing, toys, and activities that Emily has failed to provide.

Covering the costs of medical care and other necessities without any reimbursement or support from Emily.

In contrast to Emily's exaggerated claims and undisclosed income, I have demonstrated full transparency in my financial contributions and continue to prioritize LDW's needs over personal expenses.

Career Advancement for LDW's Benefit

I have worked tirelessly to improve my financial stability and career prospects to provide LDW with greater opportunities and security:

My dedication has led to a recent promotion at Shape Corporation, resulting in a higher income and enhanced benefits for LDW.

I have carefully budgeted my finances to allocate resources for LDW's present and future needs, including setting aside funds for his education.

Emotional Sacrifices

The prolonged custody dispute and Emily's alienation tactics have placed immense emotional strain on me, but I have remained steadfast in my focus on LDW's best interests. My love for him motivates me to overcome these challenges and fight for a fair custody arrangement that ensures his happiness and well-being.

Conclusion: A Stark Contrast in Parental Commitment

While Emily's negligence, alienation tactics, and self-serving behavior consistently undermine LDW's best interests, my actions demonstrate an unwavering commitment to his physical, emotional, and financial well-being. I have made significant sacrifices and investments to ensure LDW thrives in a stable, nurturing environment. This stark contrast further supports the need for a custody modification, increased parenting time, and a recalculation of child support to reflect the true financial and emotional dynamics of our co-parenting arrangement.

Expanded Financial Claims

1. Employment and Income Stability

I am steadily employed with Shape Corporation, earning $19.86 per hour with full benefits, including health, dental, vision, and life insurance. My stable employment enables me to provide consistent financial support for LDW's needs, ensuring his upbringing is secure and free from financial stress. Consistent Employment Record: I have maintained a strong work ethic and stable income, despite the emotional toll of ongoing custody disputes, demonstrating my ability to provide a financially secure home for LDW.

Recent Career Growth: I have actively pursued opportunities for career advancement and am soon to receive a promotion, which will increase my income and further improve LDW's standard of living.

2. Child Support Contributions

I have consistently met all child support obligations, including arrears, while ensuring LDW's material needs are met.

Timely Payments: I have fulfilled every financial requirement outlined in the court orders, demonstrating my reliability and commitment to LDW's well-being.

Exceeding Expectations: Beyond mandated support payments, I have personally financed additional items and activities for LDW, including clothing, educational toys, and social outings, reflecting my dedication to his holistic development.

3. Comprehensive Health Insurance Coverage

My employment benefits provide full health insurance coverage for both LDW and myself, ensuring access to high-quality medical care without undue financial burden.

Coverage Details: My health plan covers routine checkups, vaccinations, dental care, and emergency services, offering LDW comprehensive protection.

Proactive Health Management: I have utilized this coverage to advocate for LDW's health, including suggesting allergy testing and consistent dental care. Emily's lack of cooperation in medical decision-making has obstructed LDW's access to these essential services.

4. Investments in LDW's Material Needs

I have gone above and beyond to ensure LDW's physical needs are met and exceeded, providing a safe and nurturing environment:

Clothing and Essentials: I have purchased a full wardrobe for LDW, ensuring he is equipped for all seasons, weather conditions, and activities. In contrast, Emily frequently sends LDW to parenting exchanges without proper clothing, shoes, or weather-appropriate items.

Educational and Recreational Expenses: I have consistently invested in LDW's educational and recreational needs, purchasing books, toys, and supplies that encourage his development and curiosity. These expenses are not reimbursed or shared by Emily, further highlighting my financial commitment to LDW's upbringing.

Home Renovations: I have invested over 300 days of labor and financial resources into improving my home to provide LDW with a safe and welcoming space, including:

Renovating his bedroom with furniture, educational materials, and toys.

Ensuring the house is equipped with child-safe features, such as secure storage and clean, maintained living spaces.

5. Financial Transparency vs. Emily's Misrepresentation

In contrast to my demonstrated financial stability and transparency, Emily has engaged in deceptive practices that manipulate child support calculations and obscure her true financial standing:

Exaggerated Insurance Costs: Emily has inflated her reported health insurance expenses, despite receiving employer-subsidized coverage that covers 85% of her premiums. This misrepresentation artificially increases her financial needs in child support calculations.

Undisclosed Rental Income: Emily has failed to report income from renting a portion of her home to her brother, Cody Watson. This unreported income creates an unfair financial burden on me, as child support calculations do not account for her additional resources.

Failure to Disclose Supplemental Support: Emily has not reported other sources of financial assistance, such as child support payments from Austin Muratori or contributions from family members, which further skews the child support calculations.

6. Misuse of Financial Resources

Emily's financial decisions demonstrate a prioritization of her personal interests over LDW's needs:

Extravagant Vacations: Emily has financed extended vacations, such as the two-week trip in October 2024, during which she withheld LDW from me and disrupted his stability. These funds could have been allocated toward LDW's well-being.

Unnecessary Litigation Costs: Emily has refused to mediate custody disputes amicably, forcing prolonged litigation that strains both parties financially. Her preference for conflict over cooperation reflects a misuse of financial resources that negatively impacts LDW.

7. Disparities in Financial Contributions

The financial burden of Emily's actions disproportionately falls on me, despite my unwavering commitment to LDW's well-being:

Unreimbursed Expenses: I cover all costs associated with LDW during my parenting time, including clothing, food, activities, and medical expenses, without any support from Emily.

Missed Opportunities for Cost Sharing: Emily has repeatedly refused to collaborate on shared expenses, such as daycare fees and extracurricular activities, leaving me to shoulder these costs independently.

Impact on LDW's Stability: Emily's refusal to align on financial decisions, such as consistent daycare arrangements, creates unnecessary instability for LDW and undermines his sense of routine.

8. Request for Child Support Recalculation

In light of the above, I request a recalculation of child support to reflect the following:

Adjusted Income Disclosures: Emily's undisclosed rental income and employer-subsidized insurance costs should be factored into the calculations to ensure fairness.

Consideration of Shared Parenting Time: The recalculation should account for my substantial contributions to LDW's care and the expenses I incur during my parenting time.

Reduction in Arrears: Given the inaccuracies in Emily's financial disclosures and the significant financial investments I have made in LDW's well-being, I request a reduction or elimination of arrears to reflect the true financial dynamics of our arrangement.

9. Long-Term Financial Planning

I am committed to ensuring LDW's financial security and stability through:

Savings for LDW's Future: I have started setting aside funds for LDW's education and other future needs, prioritizing his long-term success and independence.

Responsible Budgeting: I carefully manage my finances to allocate resources toward LDW's needs, avoiding unnecessary expenditures and prioritizing his well-being.

Focus on Career Advancement: My pursuit of professional growth ensures a steady increase in income, enabling me to provide LDW with enhanced opportunities and experiences.

Conclusion

The financial disparities between Emily's conduct and my demonstrated commitment to LDW's well-being further emphasize the need for a custody modification and child support recalculation. My transparency, financial responsibility, and dedication to LDW's needs stand in stark contrast to Emily's pattern of misrepresentation, negligence, and prioritization of personal interests. I respectfully request that the Court considers these factors in determining an equitable arrangement that aligns with LDW's best interests and ensures his long-term stability.

Custody Achievements Highlighted for the Affidavit

1. Consistent Emotional Bond with LDW

I have cultivated a nurturing and deep emotional connection with LDW, ensuring he feels loved, safe, and valued in my care.

I actively engage in daily routines, such as reading bedtime stories, educational activities, and creative play, which foster his cognitive and emotional development.

LDW thrives in my presence, showing joy, security, and attachment during our time together.

2. Stable and Supportive Home Environment

I own my home outright, ensuring a permanent and stable environment for LDW without financial strain.

I have invested significant time and resources into renovating my home specifically for LDW's comfort and well-being, including:

Creating a dedicated bedroom for LDW with a bed, shelves filled with books and toys, a drum set, and educational materials.

Ensuring the home is safe, clean, and child-friendly.

I provide LDW with consistency in routines that promote his sense of stability and security.

3. Financial Responsibility and Stability

I have demonstrated financial stability, earning a steady income through my employment at Shape Corporation.

I have provided LDW with all necessary material needs, including clothing for all seasons, weather-appropriate shoes, and nutritious meals.

I maintain full insurance coverage for both myself and LDW, ensuring his medical needs are fully supported.

I have consistently met all child support obligations, including arrears, while ensuring LDW's needs are prioritized.

4. Focus on LDW's Physical and Emotional Health

I have been proactive in addressing LDW's health concerns, including:

Monitoring and reporting any injuries, rashes, or signs of illness.

Advocating for regular medical and dental care, including scheduling doctor's appointments and vaccinations when informed.

Suggesting allergy testing to address health concerns, such as the rashes observed in May 2024.

I provide LDW with a calm, loving environment, free from the hostility and aggression he has been exposed to in Emily's care.

5. Positive Co-Parenting Efforts

Despite significant challenges, I have made every effort to collaborate with Emily on co-parenting decisions, including:

Proposing shared holiday plans to ensure LDW experiences meaningful family time with both parents.

Suggesting consistent daycare schedules across parenting weeks to provide LDW with continuity and stability.

Repeatedly offering to resolve custody issues amicably, outside of court, to minimize stress on LDW.

I encourage LDW's relationship with his mother, refraining from disparaging comments and prioritizing his emotional well-being above personal grievances.

6. Moral Fitness and Positive Role Model

I have consistently modeled integrity, respect, and responsibility for LDW, teaching him values such as empathy, kindness, and independence.

I avoid conflict and hostility during parenting exchanges, prioritizing LDW's sense of safety and security.

I lead by example, demonstrating hard work, perseverance, and dedication in my role as his father.

7. Active Contribution to LDW's Development

I engage LDW in enriching activities that support his learning and social skills, including:

Creative play with educational toys, painting, and reading.

Social outings to parks, museums, and playdates with friends to build his social confidence.

Frequent activities that stimulate his curiosity and physical activity, such as swimming, rock hunting, and exploring nature.

I have observed and encouraged LDW's milestones, ensuring he receives the guidance and support necessary for his growth.

8. Advocacy for LDW's Best Interests

I have tirelessly worked to ensure LDW's best interests are prioritized in all decisions, both in and out of court.

I consistently raise concerns about any factors that negatively impact LDW's well-being, including safety issues involving Emily's brother Cody Watson and her father's aggressive behavior.

I seek to protect LDW from the emotional harm caused by parental alienation and manipulation, advocating for a custody arrangement that supports his long-term development.

9. Demonstrated Commitment to LDW's Happiness

I dedicate my free time exclusively to LDW, ensuring he feels loved and supported.

Activities such as shopping together, visiting his favorite places, and celebrating milestones are tailored to his happiness and emotional needs.

My sole focus is on creating a positive, joyful, and stable environment for LDW to thrive.

10. Personal Growth and Self-Improvement

I have taken significant steps to improve my circumstances for LDW's benefit, including:

Securing stable housing and employment with growth opportunities.

Proactively learning about the legal system to advocate for LDW's rights and best interests.

Seeking counseling and self-improvement strategies to be the best possible parent for LDW.

These achievements highlight my unwavering commitment to LDW's well-being, emotional growth, and stability. In contrast, Emily's actions—documented in this affidavit—demonstrate repeated lapses in judgment, neglect of LDW's needs, and a pattern of behavior that prioritizes her interests over LDW's. This stark comparison underscores the necessity for a custody modification to ensure LDW's best interests are safeguarded.

Emotional Impact of Parental Alienation on LDW

Parental alienation is one of the most damaging behaviors a parent can exhibit, as it deeply disrupts a child's sense of security, emotional development, and long-term mental health. The emotional toll of Emily's actions on LDW has been profound, and the ongoing alienation continues to endanger his emotional well-being and developmental trajectory. Below, I outline the specific ways in which parental alienation is affecting LDW emotionally, with examples from documented incidents.

1. Heightened Anxiety and Emotional Insecurity

Confusion in Relationships: Emily's deliberate attempts to alienate LDW from me, such as encouraging him to call her new partner "Daddy" while discouraging him from using that term for me, create deep emotional confusion. LDW, at his young age, is forming critical attachments, and these conflicting messages undermine his ability to understand and maintain secure relationships with both parents. Example: On multiple occasions, LDW has expressed visible hesitation during parenting exchanges, clinging to me or showing reluctance to leave my care, signaling his distress and confusion about the parental roles Emily is attempting to manipulate.

Symptoms of Anxiety: LDW has displayed symptoms consistent with heightened anxiety, including crying during transitions, increased clinginess, and difficulty adjusting to changes in routine. Dr. Michael Bone, a leading expert in parental alienation, notes that such behaviors are hallmark signs of the stress caused by alienation.

2. Developmental Regression

Social and Emotional Milestones Delayed: The instability caused by Emily's actions has contributed to delays in LDW's emotional and social milestones. For example, his reluctance to engage in social activities with peers or his need for extra reassurance during new experiences reflects the psychological toll of a disrupted sense of security.

Example: After Emily withheld LDW for 37 days between March 26 and May 2, 2024, I observed clear behavioral changes, including increased emotional withdrawal and difficulty resuming our regular bonding activities. This prolonged separation disrupted his routine and sense of stability, leading to developmental backtracking.

Impact on Emotional Expression: LDW has shown signs of struggling to express emotions healthily, an issue exacerbated by Emily's discouragement of open communication with me. Her denial of video calls and refusal to facilitate consistent contact prevents LDW from forming healthy patterns of emotional expression and trust.

3. Loss of Emotional Stability

Inconsistent Parenting Environment: Emily's negligence in providing a consistent and nurturing environment, coupled with her alienating behaviors, creates emotional instability for LDW. Children thrive on routine and predictability, but Emily's withholding of parenting time and refusal to communicate about critical matters disrupts LDW's sense of safety and routine.

Example: On Halloween 2024, Emily denied my request to celebrate the holiday with LDW, depriving him of the opportunity to enjoy the event with both parents. This denial of shared experiences undermines LDW's ability to feel emotionally secure with both parents.

Disrupted Sense of Belonging: By excluding me from major milestones in LDW's life, such as his birthday and medical decisions, Emily alienates me from LDW's day-to-day experiences. This creates a false narrative for LDW, making him feel as though I am less involved or less important in his life, which erodes his sense of belonging and emotional security.

4. Emotional Damage from Hostile Exchanges

Exposure to Hostility: Emily's involvement of her family members, particularly Albert and Cody Watson, in parenting exchanges introduces LDW to hostile and aggressive behavior. Witnessing such behavior is deeply damaging to a child's emotional health, fostering fear and insecurity.

Example: On October 20, 2024, LDW witnessed Albert Watson forcibly remove him from my arms during parenting exchange while yelling and creating a hostile environment. This traumatic incident not only destabilized LDW but also created a lasting impression of conflict during what should be peaceful transitions.

Internalization of Conflict: LDW is at an age where he absorbs and internalizes the emotional dynamics around him. Exposure to conflict and hostility during exchanges teaches him that relationships are contentious and adversarial, harming his ability to form healthy emotional bonds in the future.

5. Long-Term Psychological Harm

Erosion of Parental Bond: Parental alienation creates a rift between a child and the alienated parent that can have lasting consequences. By actively undermining my relationship with LDW, Emily is jeopardizing the lifelong bond that is critical for his emotional development.

Research Insight: Studies on parental alienation show that children subjected to such behaviors are at higher risk for depression, anxiety, low self-esteem, and difficulty forming trusting relationships later in life. LDW is at risk of internalizing the conflict and alienation, which could impact his emotional health for years to come.

Identity Issues: A child's relationship with both parents contributes to their sense of identity and self-worth. By alienating LDW from me, Emily is denying him the opportunity to form a balanced sense of self, which could lead to identity confusion and emotional struggles as he grows older.

6. Loss of Trust and Emotional Security

Disrupted Communication: Emily's repeated refusals to facilitate communication, such as denying video calls or failing to inform me of LDW's medical appointments, erodes trust between LDW and both parents. When one parent is intentionally excluded, the child loses the opportunity to feel fully supported and secure in both homes.

Example: On June 1, 2024, and September 12, 2024, Emily denied my requests for scheduled video calls with LDW, claiming he "doesn't want to talk." These refusals create a gap in our relationship and prevent LDW from maintaining the continuity of our bond during her parenting weeks.

Emotional Burden on LDW: Emily's alienating behaviors place LDW in an emotionally vulnerable position where he feels torn between two parents. Children in this position often feel pressured to choose sides, causing internal conflict and emotional stress.

My Role in Mitigating Emotional Harm

While Emily's actions continue to undermine LDW's emotional well-being, I remain steadfast in my commitment to provide him with a stable, loving, and nurturing environment that prioritizes his emotional security:

Providing Stability and Routine

I have worked tirelessly to create a home environment where LDW feels safe, valued, and loved. My consistent routines, such as bedtime stories, educational activities, and outdoor adventures, reinforce his sense of stability and normalcy.

Encouraging Emotional Expression

I prioritize open communication with LDW, allowing him to express his feelings freely and reassuring him of my unwavering love and support. This helps counteract the emotional confusion caused by Emily's alienation.

Shielding LDW from Conflict

I have consistently refrained from engaging in hostile behavior during exchanges or speaking negatively about Emily in LDW's presence. My focus is on protecting him from unnecessary conflict and ensuring that his emotional needs come first.

Rebuilding Our Bond

Despite Emily's efforts to alienate LDW, I dedicate myself to rebuilding our bond through meaningful interactions and quality time together. Every moment spent with LDW is an opportunity to reinforce his sense of security and love.

Conclusion

Emily's actions have caused significant emotional harm to LDW, as evidenced by his heightened anxiety, developmental regression, and loss of emotional stability. The long-term psychological impact of parental alienation cannot be overstated, and immediate intervention is necessary to protect LDW from further harm. My unwavering commitment to LDW's well-being and my proactive efforts to counteract the damage caused by Emily's behavior demonstrate that a custody modification is essential to ensure his emotional, psychological, and developmental health.

Examples of Emily's Neglect

Emily's neglectful behaviors have directly jeopardized LDW's physical safety, emotional well-being, and developmental progress. These actions, or lack thereof, demonstrate a consistent failure to prioritize LDW's basic needs, safety, and best interests.

1. Failure to Provide Basic Necessities

Inadequate Clothing for Weather Conditions:

On multiple occasions, LDW has been sent to exchanges without proper clothing for the weather, including no shoes, socks, or coat during colder months.

Example: On October 15, 2024, LDW arrived without socks or shoes despite cold temperatures, leaving him visibly uncomfortable. Emily ignored my concerns when raised.

Lack of Personal Items for Emotional Comfort:

Emily has consistently failed to send LDW with personal or comfort items, such as a blanket, toy, or cup, despite his young age and reliance on such items for emotional security.

Example: Throughout 2024, LDW has never been sent to exchanges with a favorite toy or comfort item, leaving him distressed and unsettled during transitions.

2. Healthcare Neglect

Failure to Address Medical Concerns:

Emily has repeatedly neglected LDW's medical needs, ignoring signs of illness or injury and refusing to take appropriate action.

Example: On June 15, 2024, LDW returned from Emily's care with severe rashes on his face and body. Despite my repeated inquiries, Emily dismissed the condition as "minor" and refused to seek medical advice.

Example: On October 4, 2024, LDW arrived with a large, unexplained bruise on his leg. When asked for an explanation, Emily gave vague responses, refusing to acknowledge the need for follow-up care.

Missed Dental Appointments:

LDW has been overdue for his first dental appointment since February 2024, despite recommendations from his physician. Emily has taken no action to schedule or prioritize this critical aspect of LDW's health.

Unilateral Medical Decisions Without Consultation:

On May 15, 2024, Emily vaccinated LDW without informing or consulting me, despite the joint custody arrangement. This not only undermines co-parenting but also demonstrates her disregard for collaborative decision-making regarding LDW's health.

3. Emotional and Developmental Neglect

Inadequate Attention to Emotional Needs:

Emily has failed to address LDW's emotional well-being during transitions and parenting exchanges, causing him unnecessary distress.

Example: On October 20, 2024, during a parenting exchange, Emily allowed her father, Albert Watson, to forcibly remove LDW from my arms in a hostile manner. This aggressive behavior in LDW's presence created a traumatic experience for him.

Denial of Communication:

Emily frequently denies my attempts to maintain contact with LDW during her parenting weeks, depriving him of emotional support and continuity with both parents.

Example: On June 1, 2024, and September 12, 2024, Emily refused to allow scheduled video calls, claiming LDW "doesn't want to talk." These actions disrupt LDW's sense of connection and emotional stability.

Interruption of Routines:

Emily has shown little regard for maintaining consistent routines for LDW, which are critical for his development at a young age.

Example: Emily's decision to remove LDW from his daycare at Kids Fun Learning Center in March 2024 disrupted his established routine and social interactions, negatively impacting his emotional and cognitive development.

4. Neglect of Safety

Exposure to Unsafe Individuals:

Emily has allowed her brother, Cody Watson, who has a documented history of violence and substance abuse, to remain involved in LDW's life, despite my concerns for his safety.

Example: On May 28, 2024, I raised concerns about Cody Watson's behavior, including reports of substance use and aggression, yet Emily continued to allow him access to LDW without addressing these risks.

Hostile Exchanges:

Emily's father, Albert Watson, has been involved in multiple aggressive incidents during parenting exchanges, creating an unsafe and emotionally volatile environment for LDW.

Failure to Supervise:

LDW has returned from Emily's care with unexplained injuries on several occasions, raising questions about the adequacy of her supervision.

Example: On October 4, 2024, LDW had a visible bruise and a cut on his leg, yet Emily offered no credible explanation for how the injuries occurred.

5. Neglect of Co-Parenting Responsibilities

Withholding Parenting Time:

Emily has repeatedly withheld LDW from me without justification, violating court orders and depriving LDW of critical bonding time with his father.

Example: Between March 26 and May 2, 2024, Emily withheld LDW for 37 consecutive days, disrupting our bond and creating emotional distress for LDW.

Failure to Share Information:

Emily consistently withholds updates about LDW's health, education, and daily life, undermining my ability to participate fully in his upbringing.

Example: On November 19, 2024, I was not informed about LDW's doctor's appointment or his vaccinations, leaving me unable to provide input or support.

Refusal to Collaborate on Major Decisions:

Emily has dismissed or ignored my efforts to collaborate on decisions that affect LDW's well-being, such as daycare arrangements and holiday plans.

Example: On May 9, 2024, Emily rejected my proposal for consistent daycare across parenting weeks, prioritizing her preferences over LDW's stability.

Conclusion

Emily's ongoing neglect of LDW's basic needs, safety, and emotional well-being underscores her inability to prioritize his best interests. These examples highlight a troubling pattern of behavior that places LDW at risk and necessitates immediate intervention. My proactive efforts to address LDW's needs, coupled with my consistent advocacy for his safety and stability, further emphasize the necessity of a custody modification to ensure his long-term well-being.

AFFIDAVIT IN SUPPORT OF MOTION TO MODIFY CUSTODY, PARENTING TIME, AND CHILD SUPPORT

Plaintiff: Andrew J. Pigors

Defendant: Emily A. Watson

I, Andrew J. Pigors, affirm that the information contained in this affidavit is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

I. INTRODUCTION

This affidavit is submitted in support of my motion to modify custody, increase parenting time, and recalculate child support for my minor son, LDW (born November 9, 2022). Since May 2024, the Friend of the Court (FOC) recommended a 50/50 custody arrangement, which reflected the balanced parenting environment I have continuously provided. However, since that recommendation, the Defendant, Emily Watson, has escalated alienating behavior, failed to meet LDW's basic needs, and demonstrated moral lapses that jeopardize LDW's well-being and emotional development.

In contrast, I have remained steadfast in providing LDW with stability, emotional support, and a nurturing environment tailored to his growth. This affidavit details specific incidents of concern, aligned with the 12 Best Interest Factors under MCL 722.23, to demonstrate why a modification of the current custody arrangement is urgently required.

II. PATTERN OF BEHAVIOR: EMILY WATSON

1. Parental Alienation

Encouraging Rejection of Me as LDW's Father:

Emily has undermined my role as LDW's father by instructing him to refer to her new partner as "Daddy" while discouraging him from using the same term for me. This deliberate act confuses LDW and creates emotional barriers between us.

Defamation and False Allegations:

Emily has falsely accused me of substance abuse, poisoning her, and neglecting LDW without evidence. These allegations were intended to damage my reputation, alienate me from LDW, and manipulate court proceedings.

Blocking Communication:

Emily routinely denies scheduled video calls with LDW, including incidents on June 1, 2024, and September 12, 2024, claiming he "doesn't want to talk" without providing evidence. Additionally, she has failed to share updates on LDW's health and milestones, including withholding information about vaccinations on November 19, 2024.

Withholding Parenting Time:

Emily has withheld LDW during court-ordered parenting time, including:

March 26 – May 2, 2024 (37 consecutive days)

October 20 – November 12, 2024 (23 consecutive days)

2. Neglect of LDW's Basic Needs

Healthcare Neglect:

Emily has failed to schedule LDW's first dental appointment, despite it being overdue since February 2024, and has dismissed medical concerns such as rashes and unexplained bruises.

Unexplained Injuries:

LDW has frequently arrived at exchanges with visible injuries, including:

October 4, 2024: LDW had a large bruise on his leg. Emily dismissed concerns without explanation.

June 15, 2024: LDW had severe rashes that Emily failed to address.

Inadequate Preparation:

LDW often arrives at parenting exchanges without weather-appropriate clothing, shoes, or basic necessities. On only one occasion (October 17, 2024) did Emily provide proper clothing after I raised concerns in AppClose communications.

3. Manipulative Legal and Financial Tactics

Misrepresentation of Financial Information:

Emily has exaggerated insurance costs while failing to disclose rental income from her brother, Cody Watson, who resides in her home.

Misuse of PPOs:

Emily has weaponized PPOs to restrict my access to LDW, including an incident on October 20, 2024, where her father, Albert Watson, served a PPO violation during a parenting exchange in an aggressive and mocking manner.

False Allegations:

Emily accused me of substance abuse during exchanges, poisoning her with arsenic, and harassment, all of which were dismissed for lack of evidence.

4. Hostile and Aggressive Behavior

Albert Watson's Aggression:

Albert Watson has engaged in hostile behavior during exchanges, including:

November 2023: Physically assaulting me at 2160 Garland.

October 20, 2024: Forcibly removing LDW from my arms during an exchange.

Cody Watson's Intimidation:

Cody Watson has exhibited threatening behavior, including road harassment on September 20, 2024, violating the PPO and endangering LDW.

III. APPLICATION OF THE 12 BEST INTEREST FACTORS

The following is an analysis of the 12 Best Interest Factors under MCL 722.23, demonstrating why a custody modification is in LDW's best interests.

(a) Love, Affection, and Emotional Ties

I have fostered a deep, nurturing bond with LDW through daily routines, creative activities, and consistent emotional support. Emily's alienation tactics actively disrupt this bond, causing LDW confusion and emotional distress.

(b) Capacity to Provide Guidance and Love

I prioritize LDW's development through educational activities, instilling values of empathy and independence. Emily's refusal to collaborate on parenting decisions undermines these efforts.

(c) Capacity to Provide Material Needs

I maintain stable employment, have renovated my home for LDW's comfort, and provide for all his material needs. Emily has demonstrated negligence by failing to schedule dental visits, dismissing medical concerns, and sending LDW to exchanges unprepared.

(d) Stability and Continuity

My home offers LDW a permanent, stable environment. Emily's repeated withholding of LDW, coupled with hostile exchanges involving her father and brother, disrupts his sense of stability.

(e) Permanence of the Custodial Home

My home is a safe, nurturing environment specifically tailored to LDW's needs. Emily's home is compromised by the presence of Cody Watson, whose history of violence and substance abuse poses a safety risk.

(f) Moral Fitness

I consistently model integrity, respect, and responsibility for LDW. Emily's false accusations, alienation tactics, and allowance of unsafe influences like Cody Watson demonstrate a lack of moral fitness.

(g) Mental and Physical Health

I am in excellent mental and physical health, enabling me to provide a stable and supportive environment. Emily's erratic behavior, including her involvement in confrontational exchanges, raises concerns about her ability to prioritize LDW's well-being.

(h) Home, School, and Community Record

I actively engage LDW in positive social and community activities. Emily's refusal to collaborate on extracurricular activities hinders his social development.

(i) Reasonable Preference of the Child

While LDW is too young to express a preference, his behavior during exchanges—showing joy and comfort in my care—indicates a strong attachment to me.

(j) Willingness to Facilitate the Parent-Child Relationship

I have consistently encouraged LDW's relationship with Emily. In contrast, her alienation tactics obstruct my relationship with LDW, violating this factor.

(k) Domestic Violence

Albert Watson's aggression during exchanges and Cody Watson's intimidation raise significant safety concerns for LDW in Emily's home.

(l) Any Other Relevant Factor

Emily's abuse of her professional knowledge as a caseworker to manipulate legal proceedings demonstrates unethical behavior that undermines LDW's best interests.

IV. REQUEST FOR RELIEF

Based on the above, I respectfully request the Court:

Modify Custody to restore a 50/50 arrangement or grant me primary custody.

Increase Parenting Time to reestablish my bond with LDW.

Recalculate Child Support to reflect Emily's true financial situation.

Mandate Co-Parenting Counseling to address communication barriers and alienation.

Order a Guardian ad Litem to evaluate LDW's best interests and safety concerns in Emily's household.

Custody Achievements Highlighted for the Affidavit

1. Consistent Emotional Bond with LDW

I have cultivated a nurturing and deep emotional connection with LDW, ensuring he feels loved, safe, and valued in my care.

I actively engage in daily routines, such as reading bedtime stories, educational activities, and creative play, which foster his cognitive and emotional development.

LDW thrives in my presence, showing joy, security, and attachment during our time together.

2. Stable and Supportive Home Environment

I own my home outright, ensuring a permanent and stable environment for LDW without financial strain.

I have invested significant time and resources into renovating my home specifically for LDW's comfort and well-being, including:

Creating a dedicated bedroom for LDW with a bed, shelves filled with books and toys, a drum set, and educational materials.

Ensuring the home is safe, clean, and child-friendly.

I provide LDW with consistency in routines that promote his sense of stability and security.

3. Financial Responsibility and Stability

I have demonstrated financial stability, earning a steady income through my employment at Shape Corporation.

I have provided LDW with all necessary material needs, including clothing for all seasons, weather-appropriate shoes, and nutritious meals.

I maintain full insurance coverage for both myself and LDW, ensuring his medical needs are fully supported.

I have consistently met all child support obligations, including arrears, while ensuring LDW's needs are prioritized.

4. Focus on LDW's Physical and Emotional Health

I have been proactive in addressing LDW's health concerns, including:

Monitoring and reporting any injuries, rashes, or signs of illness.

Advocating for regular medical and dental care, including scheduling doctor's appointments and vaccinations when informed.

Suggesting allergy testing to address health concerns, such as the rashes observed in May 2024.

I provide LDW with a calm, loving environment, free from the hostility and aggression he has been exposed to in Emily's care.

5. Positive Co-Parenting Efforts

Despite significant challenges, I have made every effort to collaborate with Emily on co-parenting decisions, including:

Proposing shared holiday plans to ensure LDW experiences meaningful family time with both parents.

Suggesting consistent daycare schedules across parenting weeks to provide LDW with continuity and stability.

Repeatedly offering to resolve custody issues amicably, outside of court, to minimize stress on LDW.

I encourage LDW's relationship with his mother, refraining from disparaging comments and prioritizing his emotional well-being above personal grievances.

6. Moral Fitness and Positive Role Model

I have consistently modeled integrity, respect, and responsibility for LDW, teaching him values such as empathy, kindness, and independence.

I avoid conflict and hostility during parenting exchanges, prioritizing LDW's sense of safety and security.

I lead by example, demonstrating hard work, perseverance, and dedication in my role as his father.

7. Active Contribution to LDW's Development

I engage LDW in enriching activities that support his learning and social skills, including:

Creative play with educational toys, painting, and reading.

Social outings to parks, museums, and playdates with friends to build his social confidence.

Frequent activities that stimulate his curiosity and physical activity, such as swimming, rock hunting, and exploring nature.

I have observed and encouraged LDW's milestones, ensuring he receives the guidance and support necessary for his growth.

8. Advocacy for LDW's Best Interests

I have tirelessly worked to ensure LDW's best interests are prioritized in all decisions, both in and out of court.

I consistently raise concerns about any factors that negatively impact LDW's well-being, including safety issues involving Emily's brother Cody Watson and her father's aggressive behavior.

I seek to protect LDW from the emotional harm caused by parental alienation and manipulation, advocating for a custody arrangement that supports his long-term development.

9. Demonstrated Commitment to LDW's Happiness

I dedicate my free time exclusively to LDW, ensuring he feels loved and supported.

Activities such as shopping together, visiting his favorite places, and celebrating milestones are tailored to his happiness and emotional needs.

My sole focus is on creating a positive, joyful, and stable environment for LDW to thrive.

10. Personal Growth and Self-Improvement

I have taken significant steps to improve my circumstances for LDW's benefit, including:

Securing stable housing and employment with growth opportunities.

Proactively learning about the legal system to advocate for LDW's rights and best interests.

Seeking counseling and self-improvement strategies to be the best possible parent for LDW.

These achievements highlight my unwavering commitment to LDW's well-being, emotional growth, and stability. In contrast, Emily's actions—documented in this affidavit—demonstrate repeated lapses in judgment, neglect of LDW's needs, and a pattern of behavior that prioritizes her interests over LDW's. This stark comparison underscores the necessity for a custody modification to ensure LDW's best interests are safeguarded.

Certainly, here's an expanded section focusing on your financial claims, providing more detail and addressing their relevance to your custody, parenting time, and child support arguments:

Expanded Financial Claims

1. Employment and Income Stability

I am steadily employed with Shape Corporation, earning $19.86 per hour with full benefits, including health, dental, vision, and life insurance. My stable employment enables me to provide consistent financial support for LDW's needs, ensuring his upbringing is secure and free from financial stress.

Consistent Employment Record: I have maintained a strong work ethic and stable income, despite the emotional toll of ongoing custody disputes, demonstrating my ability to provide a financially secure home for LDW.

Recent Career Growth: I have actively pursued opportunities for career advancement and am soon to receive a promotion, which will increase my income and further improve LDW's standard of living.

2. Child Support Contributions

I have consistently met all child support obligations, including arrears, while ensuring LDW's material needs are met.

Timely Payments: I have fulfilled every financial requirement outlined in the court orders, demonstrating my reliability and commitment to LDW's well-being.

Exceeding Expectations: Beyond mandated support payments, I have personally financed additional items and activities for LDW, including clothing, educational toys, and social outings, reflecting my dedication to his holistic development.

3. Comprehensive Health Insurance Coverage

My employment benefits provide full health insurance coverage for both LDW and myself, ensuring access to high-quality medical care without undue financial burden.

Coverage Details: My health plan covers routine checkups, vaccinations, dental care, and emergency services, offering LDW comprehensive protection.

Proactive Health Management: I have utilized this coverage to advocate for LDW's health, including suggesting allergy testing and consistent dental care. Emily's lack of cooperation in medical decision-making has obstructed LDW's access to these essential services.

4. Investments in LDW's Material Needs

I have gone above and beyond to ensure LDW's physical needs are met and exceeded, providing a safe and nurturing environment:

Clothing and Essentials: I have purchased a full wardrobe for LDW, ensuring he is equipped for all seasons, weather conditions, and activities. In contrast, Emily frequently sends LDW to parenting exchanges without proper clothing, shoes, or weather-appropriate items.

Educational and Recreational Expenses: I have consistently invested in LDW's educational and recreational needs, purchasing books, toys, and supplies that encourage his development and curiosity. These expenses are not reimbursed or shared by Emily, further highlighting my financial commitment to LDW's upbringing.

Home Renovations: I have invested over 300 days of labor and financial resources into improving my home to provide LDW with a safe and welcoming space, including:

Renovating his bedroom with furniture, educational materials, and toys.

Ensuring the house is equipped with child-safe features, such as secure storage and clean, maintained living spaces.

5. Financial Transparency vs. Emily's Misrepresentation

In contrast to my demonstrated financial stability and transparency, Emily has engaged in deceptive practices that manipulate child support calculations and obscure her true financial standing:

Exaggerated Insurance Costs: Emily has inflated her reported health insurance expenses, despite receiving employer-subsidized coverage that covers 85% of her premiums. This misrepresentation artificially increases her financial needs in child support calculations.

Undisclosed Rental Income: Emily has failed to report income from renting a portion of her home to her brother, Cody Watson. This unreported income creates an unfair financial burden on me, as child support calculations do not account for her additional resources.

Failure to Disclose Supplemental Support: Emily has not reported other sources of financial assistance, such as child support payments from Austin Muratori or contributions from family members, which further skews the child support calculations.

6. Misuse of Financial Resources

Emily's financial decisions demonstrate a prioritization of her personal interests over LDW's needs:

Extravagant Vacations: Emily has financed extended vacations, such as the two-week trip in October 2024, during which she withheld LDW from me and disrupted his stability. These funds could have been allocated toward LDW's well-being.

Unnecessary Litigation Costs: Emily has refused to mediate custody disputes amicably, forcing prolonged litigation that strains both parties financially. Her preference for conflict over cooperation reflects a misuse of financial resources that negatively impacts LDW.

7. Disparities in Financial Contributions

The financial burden of Emily's actions disproportionately falls on me, despite my unwavering commitment to LDW's well-being:

Unreimbursed Expenses: I cover all costs associated with LDW during my parenting time, including clothing, food, activities, and medical expenses, without any support from Emily.

Missed Opportunities for Cost Sharing: Emily has repeatedly refused to collaborate on shared expenses, such as daycare fees and extracurricular activities, leaving me to shoulder these costs independently.

Impact on LDW's Stability: Emily's refusal to align on financial decisions, such as consistent daycare arrangements, creates unnecessary instability for LDW and undermines his sense of routine.

8. Request for Child Support Recalculation

In light of the above, I request a recalculation of child support to reflect the following:

Adjusted Income Disclosures: Emily's undisclosed rental income and employer-subsidized insurance costs should be factored into the calculations to ensure fairness.

Consideration of Shared Parenting Time: The recalculation should account for my substantial contributions to LDW's care and the expenses I incur during my parenting time.

Reduction in Arrears: Given the inaccuracies in Emily's financial disclosures and the significant financial investments I have made in LDW's well-being, I request a reduction or elimination of arrears to reflect the true financial dynamics of our arrangement.

9. Long-Term Financial Planning

I am committed to ensuring LDW's financial security and stability through:

Savings for LDW's Future: I have started setting aside funds for LDW's education and other future needs, prioritizing his long-term success and independence.

Responsible Budgeting: I carefully manage my finances to allocate resources toward LDW's needs, avoiding unnecessary expenditures and prioritizing his well-being.

Focus on Career Advancement: My pursuit of professional growth ensures a steady increase in income, enabling me to provide LDW with enhanced opportunities and experiences.

Conclusion

The financial disparities between Emily's conduct and my demonstrated commitment to LDW's well-being further emphasize the need for a custody modification and child support recalculation. My transparency, financial responsibility, and dedication to LDW's needs stand in stark contrast to Emily's pattern of misrepresentation, negligence, and prioritization of personal interests. I respectfully request that the Court considers these factors in determining an equitable arrangement that aligns with LDW's best interests and ensures his long-term stability.

add specific examples of her negligence and detail my financial and emotional sacrifices for Lincoln

ChatGPT

Here is an expanded section that integrates detailed examples of Emily's negligence with your financial and emotional sacrifices for Lincoln:

Detailed Financial and Emotional Contributions vs. Emily's Negligence

Emily's Negligence and Lack of Commitment to LDW's Best Interests

Failure to Provide Basic Necessities

Emily routinely sends LDW to parenting exchanges without essential items such as shoes, socks, jackets, or weather-appropriate clothing. On October 15, 2024, LDW arrived at an exchange without socks or shoes, despite the colder weather, forcing me to immediately purchase new items to ensure his comfort and safety.

On October 3, 2024, Emily failed to notify me about LDW's illness (hand, foot, and mouth disease) until just hours before the exchange, leaving me unprepared to manage his care properly. This negligence compromised LDW's well-being and placed unnecessary stress on me to scramble for medical solutions.

Neglect of Healthcare Needs

Emily has failed to schedule LDW's first dental appointment, despite it being overdue since February 2024, as recommended by his physician. Dental care is critical to a child's overall health, and Emily's inaction demonstrates a disregard for his well-being.

On October 4, 2024, LDW arrived at an exchange with a large unexplained bruise on his leg. When I raised concerns, Emily dismissed them without providing any credible explanation. This pattern of ignoring injuries raises serious questions about her supervision and attentiveness.

On June 15, 2024, LDW returned to me with severe rashes that Emily had failed to address, leaving me to manage his medical care and comfort.

Obstruction of Co-Parenting Communication

Emily has repeatedly refused to share vital health updates about LDW. For example, on November 19, 2024, she vaccinated LDW without consulting me or informing me beforehand, violating the principles of co-parenting and my parental rights.

She has denied video calls on multiple occasions, including June 1, 2024, and September 12, 2024, claiming LDW "doesn't want to talk" without providing any evidence to support these refusals. This pattern of obstructing communication creates unnecessary emotional barriers between LDW and me.

Pattern of Withholding Parenting Time

Emily has withheld LDW for extended periods without justification:

From March 26 to May 2, 2024, she withheld LDW for 37 consecutive days, depriving me of essential bonding time and causing emotional harm to LDW.

From October 20 to November 15, 2024, she withheld LDW again, including his birthday on November 9 and Halloween, critical opportunities for shared experiences that strengthen parent-child relationships.

Hostile Environment Involving Family Members

Emily allows her brother Cody Watson, who has a documented history of violence and substance abuse, to remain actively involved in LDW's life. This raises significant safety concerns, especially given Cody's known aggressive behavior. For example, on September 20, 2024, Cody engaged in road harassment in violation of the PPO, endangering LDW during the incident.

On October 20, 2024, her father, Albert Watson, forcibly removed LDW from my arms during a parenting exchange, creating a hostile and emotionally distressing environment for LDW.

My Financial and Emotional Sacrifices for LDW

Investments in LDW's Well-Being

Material Needs: I have gone above and beyond to ensure LDW's material needs are not only met but exceeded. I have provided:

A full wardrobe, including clothing for all seasons, multiple pairs of shoes, boots, and weather-appropriate gear.

Essential items like blankets, toys, books, and educational materials to support his development. Home Renovations: I have invested over 300 days of labor and significant financial resources to renovate my home to provide LDW with a safe, comfortable, and nurturing environment. This includes: Creating a dedicated bedroom for LDW, complete with a bed, drum set, piano, shelves of books, and educational toys.

Ensuring the home is equipped with child-safe features and clean, maintained living spaces.

Proactive Healthcare Management

While Emily neglects LDW's healthcare needs, I consistently take a proactive approach to his well-being:

I've addressed medical concerns immediately, including seeking advice for potential allergies, unexplained rashes, and injuries that Emily has ignored.

My health insurance provides comprehensive coverage for LDW, ensuring he has access to the best possible care.

Commitment to LDW's Emotional Security

I have prioritized LDW's emotional stability by maintaining consistent routines and engaging in activities that nurture his development and happiness. For example:

Weekly outings to Duck Lake for swimming, fishing, and skipping rocks to foster a love for nature and physical activity.

Reading books, playing educational games, and teaching him piano and drums to stimulate his creativity and cognitive growth.

Socializing with his friends Ethan and Jack to encourage his social development.

Despite Emily's attempts to alienate LDW from me, I have remained unwavering in my efforts to reassure him of my love and support, even during challenging times.

Meeting Financial Obligations

I have consistently met all child support obligations, including arrears, while bearing the full financial burden of LDW's needs during my parenting time. This includes:

Financing additional clothing, toys, and activities that Emily has failed to provide.

Covering the costs of medical care and other necessities without any reimbursement or support from Emily.

In contrast to Emily's exaggerated claims and undisclosed income, I have demonstrated full transparency in my financial contributions and continue to prioritize LDW's needs over personal expenses.

Career Advancement for LDW's Benefit

I have worked tirelessly to improve my financial stability and career prospects to provide LDW with greater opportunities and security:

My dedication has led to a recent promotion at Shape Corporation, resulting in a higher income and enhanced benefits for LDW.

I have carefully budgeted my finances to allocate resources for LDW's present and future needs, including setting aside funds for his education.

Emotional Sacrifices

The prolonged custody dispute and Emily's alienation tactics have placed immense emotional strain on me, but I have remained steadfast in my focus on LDW's best interests. My love for him motivates me to overcome these challenges and fight for a fair custody arrangement that ensures his happiness and well-being.

Conclusion: A Stark Contrast in Parental Commitment

While Emily's negligence, alienation tactics, and self-serving behavior consistently undermine LDW's best interests, my actions demonstrate an unwavering commitment to his physical, emotional, and financial well-being. I have made significant sacrifices and investments to ensure LDW thrives in a stable, nurturing environment. This stark contrast further supports the need for a custody modification, increased parenting time, and a recalculation of child support to reflect the true financial and emotional dynamics of our co-parenting arrangement.

Emotional Impact of Parental Alienation on LDW

Parental alienation is one of the most damaging behaviors a parent can exhibit, as it deeply disrupts a child's sense of security, emotional development, and long-term mental health. The emotional toll of Emily's actions on LDW has been profound, and the ongoing alienation continues to endanger his emotional well-being and developmental trajectory. Below, I outline the specific ways in which parental alienation is affecting LDW emotionally, with examples from documented incidents.

1. Heightened Anxiety and Emotional Insecurity

Confusion in Relationships: Emily's deliberate attempts to alienate LDW from me, such as encouraging him to call her new partner "Daddy" while discouraging him from using that term for me, create deep emotional confusion. LDW, at his young age, is forming critical attachments, and these conflicting messages undermine his ability to understand and maintain secure relationships with both parents. Example: On multiple occasions, LDW has expressed visible hesitation during parenting exchanges, clinging to me or showing reluctance to leave my care, signaling his distress and confusion about the parental roles Emily is attempting to manipulate.

Symptoms of Anxiety: LDW has displayed symptoms consistent with heightened anxiety, including crying during transitions, increased clinginess, and difficulty adjusting to changes in routine. Dr. Michael Bone, a leading expert in parental alienation, notes that such behaviors are hallmark signs of the stress caused by alienation.

2. Developmental Regression

Social and Emotional Milestones Delayed: The instability caused by Emily's actions has contributed to delays in LDW's emotional and social milestones. For example, his reluctance to engage in social activities with peers or his need for extra reassurance during new experiences reflects the psychological toll of a disrupted sense of security.

Example: After Emily withheld LDW for 37 days between March 26 and May 2, 2024, I observed clear behavioral changes, including increased emotional withdrawal and difficulty resuming our regular bonding activities. This prolonged separation disrupted his routine and sense of stability, leading to developmental backtracking.

Impact on Emotional Expression: LDW has shown signs of struggling to express emotions healthily, an issue exacerbated by Emily's discouragement of open communication with me. Her denial of video calls and refusal to facilitate consistent contact prevents LDW from forming healthy patterns of emotional expression and trust.

3. Loss of Emotional Stability

Inconsistent Parenting Environment: Emily's negligence in providing a consistent and nurturing environment, coupled with her alienating behaviors, creates emotional instability for LDW. Children thrive on routine and predictability, but Emily's withholding of parenting time and refusal to communicate about critical matters disrupts LDW's sense of safety and routine.

Example: On Halloween 2024, Emily denied my request to celebrate the holiday with LDW, depriving him of the opportunity to enjoy the event with both parents. This denial of shared experiences undermines LDW's ability to feel emotionally secure with both parents.

Disrupted Sense of Belonging: By excluding me from major milestones in LDW's life, such as his birthday and medical decisions, Emily alienates me from LDW's day-to-day experiences. This creates a false narrative for LDW, making him feel as though I am less involved or less important in his life, which erodes his sense of belonging and emotional security.

4. Emotional Damage from Hostile Exchanges

Exposure to Hostility: Emily's involvement of her family members, particularly Albert and Cody Watson, in parenting exchanges introduces LDW to hostile and aggressive behavior. Witnessing such behavior is deeply damaging to a child's emotional health, fostering fear and insecurity.

Example: On October 20, 2024, LDW witnessed Albert Watson forcibly remove him from my arms during parenting exchange while yelling and creating a hostile environment. This traumatic incident not only destabilized LDW but also created a lasting impression of conflict during what should be peaceful transitions.

Internalization of Conflict: LDW is at an age where he absorbs and internalizes the emotional dynamics around him. Exposure to conflict and hostility during exchanges teaches him that relationships are contentious and adversarial, harming his ability to form healthy emotional bonds.

5. Long-Term Psychological Harm

Erosion of Parental Bond: Parental alienation creates a rift between a child and the alienated parent that can have lasting consequences. By actively undermining my relationship with LDW, Emily is jeopardizing the lifelong bond that is critical for his emotional development.

Research Insight: Studies on parental alienation show that children subjected to such behaviors are at higher risk for depression, anxiety, low self-esteem, and difficulty forming trusting relationships later in life. LDW is at risk of internalizing the conflict and alienation, which could impact his emotional health for years to come.

Identity Issues: A child's relationship with both parents contributes to their sense of identity and self-worth. By alienating LDW from me, Emily is denying him the opportunity to form a balanced sense of self, which could lead to identity confusion and emotional struggles as he grows older.

6. Loss of Trust and Emotional Security

Disrupted Communication: Emily's repeated refusals to facilitate communication, such as denying video calls or failing to inform me of LDW's medical appointments, erodes trust between LDW and both parents. When one parent is intentionally excluded, the child loses the opportunity to feel fully supported and secure in both homes.

Example: On June 1, 2024, and September 12, 2024, Emily denied my requests for scheduled video calls with LDW, claiming he "doesn't want to talk." These refusals create a gap in our relationship and prevent LDW from maintaining the continuity of our bond during her parenting weeks.

Emotional Burden on LDW: Emily's alienating behaviors place LDW in an emotionally vulnerable position where he feels torn between two parents. Children in this position often feel pressured to choose sides, causing internal conflict and emotional stress.

My Role in Mitigating Emotional Harm

While Emily's actions continue to undermine LDW's emotional well-being, I remain steadfast in my commitment to provide him with a stable, loving, and nurturing environment that prioritizes his emotional security:

Providing Stability and Routine

I have worked tirelessly to create a home environment where LDW feels safe, valued, and loved. My consistent routines, such as bedtime stories, educational activities, and outdoor adventures, reinforce his sense of stability and normalcy.

Encouraging Emotional Expression

I prioritize open communication with LDW, allowing him to express his feelings freely and reassuring him of my unwavering love and support. This helps counteract the emotional confusion caused by Emily's alienation.

Shielding LDW from Conflict

I have consistently refrained from engaging in hostile behavior during exchanges or speaking negatively about Emily in LDW's presence. My focus is on protecting him from unnecessary conflict and ensuring that his emotional needs come first.

Rebuilding Our Bond

Despite Emily's efforts to alienate LDW, I dedicate myself to rebuilding our bond through meaningful interactions and quality time together. Every moment spent with LDW is an opportunity to reinforce his sense of security and love.

Conclusion

Emily's actions have caused significant emotional harm to LDW, as evidenced by his heightened anxiety, developmental regression, and loss of emotional stability. The long-term psychological impact of parental alienation cannot be overstated, and immediate intervention is necessary to protect LDW from further harm. My unwavering commitment to LDW's well-being and my proactive efforts to counteract the damage caused by Emily's behavior demonstrate that a custody modification is essential to ensure his emotional, psychological, and developmental health.

Examples of Emily's Neglect

Emily's neglectful behaviors have directly jeopardized LDW's physical safety, emotional well-being, and developmental progress. These actions, or lack thereof, demonstrate a consistent failure to prioritize LDW's basic needs, safety, and best interests.

1. Failure to Provide Basic Necessities

Inadequate Clothing for Weather Conditions:

On multiple occasions, LDW has been sent to exchanges without proper clothing for the weather, including no shoes, socks, or coat during colder months.

Example: On October 15, 2024, LDW arrived without socks or shoes despite cold temperatures, leaving him visibly uncomfortable. Emily ignored my concerns when raised.

Lack of Personal Items for Emotional Comfort:

Emily has consistently failed to send LDW with personal or comfort items, such as a blanket, toy, or cup, despite his young age and reliance on such items for emotional security.

Example: Throughout 2024, LDW has never been sent to exchanges with a favorite toy or comfort item, leaving him distressed and unsettled during transitions.

2. Healthcare Neglect

Failure to Address Medical Concerns:

Emily has repeatedly neglected LDW's medical needs, ignoring signs of illness or injury and refusing to take appropriate action.

Example: On June 15, 2024, LDW returned from Emily's care with severe rashes on his face and body. Despite my repeated inquiries, Emily dismissed the condition as "minor" and refused to seek medical advice.

Example: On October 4, 2024, LDW arrived with a large, unexplained bruise on his leg. When asked for an explanation, Emily gave vague responses, refusing to acknowledge the need for follow-up care.

Missed Dental Appointments:

LDW has been overdue for his first dental appointment since February 2024, despite recommendations from his physician. Emily has taken no action to schedule or prioritize this critical aspect of LDW's health.

Unilateral Medical Decisions Without Consultation:

On May 15, 2024, Emily vaccinated LDW without informing or consulting me, despite the joint custody arrangement. This not only undermines co-parenting but also demonstrates her disregard for collaborative decision-making regarding LDW's health.

3. Emotional and Developmental Neglect

Inadequate Attention to Emotional Needs:

Emily has failed to address LDW's emotional well-being during transitions and parenting exchanges, causing him unnecessary distress.

Example: On October 20, 2024, during a parenting exchange, Emily allowed her father, Albert Watson, to forcibly remove LDW from my arms in a hostile manner. This aggressive behavior in LDW's presence created a traumatic experience for him.

Denial of Communication:

Emily frequently denies my attempts to maintain contact with LDW during her parenting weeks, depriving him of emotional support and continuity with both parents.

Example: On June 1, 2024, and September 12, 2024, Emily refused to allow scheduled video calls, claiming LDW "doesn't want to talk." These actions disrupt LDW's sense of connection and emotional stability.

Interruption of Routines:

Emily has shown little regard for maintaining consistent routines for LDW, which are critical for his development at a young age.

Example: Emily's decision to remove LDW from his daycare at Kids Fun Learning Center in March 2024 disrupted his established routine and social interactions, negatively impacting his emotional and cognitive development.

4. Neglect of Safety

Exposure to Unsafe Individuals:

Emily has allowed her brother, Cody Watson, who has a documented history of violence and substance abuse, to remain involved in LDW's life, despite my concerns for his safety.

Example: On May 28, 2024, I raised concerns about Cody Watson's behavior, including reports of substance use and aggression, yet Emily continued to allow him access to LDW without addressing these risks.

Hostile Exchanges:

Emily's father, Albert Watson, has been involved in multiple aggressive incidents during parenting exchanges, creating an unsafe and emotionally volatile environment for LDW.

Example: On October 20, 2024, Albert Watson forcibly removed LDW from my arms during an exchange, shouting and throwing a PPO violation into my vehicle. This hostile behavior exposed LDW to unnecessary emotional trauma.

Failure to Supervise:

LDW has returned from Emily's care with unexplained injuries on several occasions, raising questions about the adequacy of her supervision.

Example: On October 4, 2024, LDW had a visible bruise and a cut on his leg, yet Emily offered no credible explanation for how the injuries occurred.

5. Neglect of Co-Parenting Responsibilities

Withholding Parenting Time:

Emily has repeatedly withheld LDW from me without justification, violating court orders and depriving LDW of critical bonding time with his father.

Example: Between March 26 and May 2, 2024, Emily withheld LDW for 37 consecutive days, disrupting our bond and creating emotional distress for LDW.

Failure to Share Information:

Emily consistently withholds updates about LDW's health, education, and daily life, undermining my ability to participate fully in his upbringing.

Example: On November 19, 2024, I was not informed about LDW's doctor's appointment or his vaccinations, leaving me unable to provide input or support.

Refusal to Collaborate on Major Decisions:

Emily has dismissed or ignored my efforts to collaborate on decisions that affect LDW's well-being, such as daycare arrangements and holiday plans.

Example: On May 9, 2024, Emily rejected my proposal for consistent daycare across parenting weeks, prioritizing her preferences over LDW's stability.

Conclusion

Emily's ongoing neglect of LDW's basic needs, safety, and emotional well-being underscores her inability to prioritize his best interests. These examples highlight a troubling pattern of behavior that places LDW at risk and necessitates immediate intervention. My proactive efforts to address LDW's needs, coupled with my consistent advocacy for his safety and stability, further emphasize the necessity of a custody modification to ensure his long-term well-being.

Examples of Emily's Alienating Behaviors

Emily Watson's actions demonstrate a calculated effort to alienate LDW from me, his father. These behaviors are harmful to LDW's emotional well-being, create unnecessary conflict, and undermine the co-parenting relationship. Below are specific examples of Emily's alienating behaviors:

1. Undermining My Parental Role

Encouraging LDW to Call Another Man "Daddy":

Emily has encouraged LDW to refer to her new partner as "Daddy," confusing him and diminishing my role as his father. This behavior creates an emotional barrier between me and LDW, disrupting our bond.

Example: On October 20, 2024, during a parenting exchange, LDW referred to Emily's partner as "Daddy," despite my consistent presence and active role in his life. Emily refused to address the confusion this causes.

False Claims of Neglect and Substance Abuse:

Emily has made unfounded accusations against me, alleging substance abuse, neglect, and unfit parenting. These claims, made without evidence, are intended to damage my reputation and cast doubt on my fitness as a parent.

Example: Emily falsely accused me of cocaine use in March 2024 and attempted to use this baseless claim to justify withholding LDW.

2. Blocking Communication

Refusing Video Calls:

Emily has repeatedly denied scheduled video calls with LDW, claiming that he “doesn’t want to talk.” These refusals disrupt LDW’s sense of connection and continuity with me.

Example: On June 1, 2024, and September 12, 2024, Emily refused to allow scheduled video calls, citing vague excuses such as LDW “being too tired” or “not wanting to talk.”

Failure to Share Updates:

Emily withholds critical updates about LDW’s health, education, and milestones, leaving me uninformed and excluded from important aspects of his life.

Example: On November 19, 2024, Emily failed to inform me about LDW’s doctor’s appointment and vaccinations, preventing me from participating in decisions about his healthcare.

3. Withholding Parenting Time

Extended Withholding of LDW:

Emily has withheld LDW for prolonged periods without justification, depriving me of meaningful time with my son and disrupting our bond.

Example: Between March 26 and May 2, 2024, Emily withheld LDW for 37 consecutive days, ignoring the court-ordered parenting schedule.

Example: From October 20 to November 12, 2024, Emily withheld LDW again, including during critical bonding opportunities such as Halloween and his birthday.

Refusing Makeup Parenting Time:

Emily has refused to accommodate requests for makeup time when parenting exchanges were missed or disrupted.

Example: On October 5, 2024, I requested an additional day with LDW to make up for missed time during her vacation. Emily refused, showing no willingness to cooperate.

4. Interference During Parenting Exchanges

Allowing Hostile Behavior by Family Members:

Emily has allowed her father, Albert Watson, to create a hostile and intimidating environment during parenting exchanges. His aggressive actions negatively impact LDW’s emotional security and comfort.

Example: On October 20, 2024, Albert forcibly removed LDW from my arms during a parenting exchange throwing a PPO violation into my car and mocking me in front of LDW.

Failure to Prepare LDW for Exchanges:

Emily frequently sends LDW to parenting exchanges without proper clothing, personal items, or emotional preparation, causing unnecessary distress.

Example: On October 15, 2024, LDW arrived at the exchange without shoes or socks, despite the cold weather. Emily ignored my concerns about his discomfort.

5. Denying Participation in Key Milestones

Excluding Me from Important Events:

Emily has denied me the opportunity to participate in significant milestones and holidays with LDW, alienating me from important moments in his life.

Example: On November 9, 2024, LDW’s birthday, Emily refused to allow me any time with him, depriving us of the chance to celebrate together.

Example: On October 31, 2024, Emily denied my request to take LDW trick-or-treating, citing her vacation plans.

Unilateral Decisions About LDW’s Activities:

Emily has excluded me from decisions about LDW’s extracurricular activities and recreational plans, disregarding my role as a co-parent.

Example: On July 9, 2024, Emily refused to involve me in discussions about extracurricular activities or sports for LDW, limiting my ability to support his interests.

6. Fabricating Allegations

False Accusations of Harm:

Emily has fabricated incidents to portray me as a danger to LDW, despite a lack of evidence to support her claims.

Example: On October 15, 2024, Emily alleged that LDW returned from my care with bruises, falsely suggesting neglect or harm without any supporting evidence.

Weaponizing PPOs:

Emily has used Personal Protection Orders (PPOs) to restrict my contact with LDW and disrupt parenting time.

Example: On October 20, 2024, Albert Watson served a PPO violation during an exchange, an action clearly intended to intimidate me rather than protect LDW.

7. Fostering Negative Perceptions of Me

Encouraging Negative Language:

Emily has made disparaging comments about me in LDW's presence, fostering negative perceptions of me as his father.

Example: During exchanges in September 2024, LDW repeated comments suggesting I "don't love him," which appeared to be influenced by Emily's negative language.

Defamation of Character:

Emily has spread false rumors to friends, family, and even law enforcement, suggesting that I am unfit to parent due to alleged substance abuse and financial instability.

Example: In March 2024, Emily alleged cocaine use during exchanges, despite no evidence or history of substance abuse.

8. Limiting Bonding Opportunities

Refusal to Allow Additional Contact:

Emily has denied my reasonable requests for additional bonding opportunities, even when they would benefit LDW.

Example: On June 1, 2024, I requested a weekly video chat during off-weeks to maintain LDW's sense of connection and security. Emily refused without offering an alternative.

Disrupting Routine Activities:

Emily's actions have disrupted LDW's ability to engage in routine and meaningful activities with me.

Example: On October 3, 2024, Emily informed me only hours before drop-off that LDW had hand, foot, and mouth disease, preventing me from adequately preparing for his care and limiting our time together.

Conclusion

Emily's alienating behaviors have created significant barriers to my relationship with LDW. These actions disrupt LDW's emotional stability, interfere with his ability to maintain a healthy bond with both parents, and demonstrate Emily's unwillingness to prioritize his best interests. Immediate court intervention is necessary to address this pattern of alienation and protect LDW's right to a balanced, loving relationship with both parents.

Expanded Examples of Emotional Harm to LDW

Emily Watson's repeated actions of parental alienation, negligence, and hostile behavior have caused significant emotional harm to LDW. These behaviors have disrupted his sense of security, stability, and attachment, which are critical to his development and emotional well-being. Below is an expanded analysis of specific examples illustrating the emotional harm inflicted upon LDW as a result of Emily's actions.

1. Heightened Anxiety During Parenting Exchanges

Behavioral Signs of Anxiety:

LDW frequently displays visible anxiety and distress during parenting exchanges, especially when transitioning from Emily's care to mine.

Example: On October 20, 2024, during a parenting exchange, LDW clung to me tightly, crying and visibly upset as Emily and her father, Albert Watson, created a hostile and aggressive atmosphere. This behavior demonstrates LDW's fear and discomfort during these exchanges, which are supposed to be neutral and calm.

Example: After extended withholding periods, such as March 26 to May 2, 2024, LDW displayed reluctance to leave my care, suggesting emotional harm caused by the instability of prolonged separations.

Repeated Exposure to Hostility:

Emily has allowed aggressive confrontations, often involving her father, during exchanges, exposing LDW to tension and hostility.

Example: On October 20, 2024, Albert forcibly removed LDW from my arms, an incident that visibly distressed LDW, who cried uncontrollably during the encounter. Exposure to such aggression contributes to emotional instability and fear.

2. Developmental Regression

Emotional Withdrawal:

LDW has shown signs of emotional withdrawal following periods of extended withholding by Emily. He becomes unusually quiet, shy, and reluctant to engage, indicating distress and confusion.

Example: After being withheld from me for 37 consecutive days (March 26 to May 2, 2024), LDW returned displaying signs of withdrawal, avoiding eye contact and appearing detached. It took several days of patient reassurance for him to reestablish a sense of safety and comfort.

Behavioral Regression:

LDW has exhibited developmental setbacks, including disrupted sleeping patterns, clinginess, and difficulty adjusting to routines, particularly after periods of alienation or hostility.

Example: On November 15, 2024, after being withheld for 25 days, LDW demonstrated regression in toilet training, a skill he had previously mastered while in my care.

3. Confusion in Parental Roles

Encouraging LDW to Call Another Man "Daddy":

Emily's efforts to encourage LDW to call her new partner "Daddy" while discouraging him from referring to me as "Daddy" have caused significant confusion and emotional conflict for LDW.

Example: On October 20, 2024, LDW referred to Emily's partner as "Daddy" during an exchange, expressing confusion about his parental roles. This manipulation undermines LDW's emotional security and erodes his sense of identity.

Diminished Sense of Belonging:

Emily's alienation tactics, including making disparaging remarks about me and limiting LDW's time with me, have disrupted his understanding of family unity and stability.

Example: In September 2024, LDW repeated negative statements about me, such as "Daddy doesn't love me," which appeared to have been influenced by Emily. Such statements indicate emotional manipulation that damages LDW's self-esteem and bond with me.

4. Loss of Emotional Stability

Interrupted Bonding Opportunities:

Emily's refusal to allow me to participate in critical milestones, such as birthdays and holidays, deprives LDW of meaningful bonding moments and creates feelings of loss and instability.

Example: On November 9, 2024, LDW's second birthday, Emily denied my request to see him, depriving us both of an opportunity to celebrate together. Such actions disrupt LDW's emotional attachment and sense of security in our relationship.

Disrupted Routine and Predictability:

By withholding LDW for extended periods and failing to provide consistent updates, Emily creates an unpredictable environment that undermines LDW's sense of routine and stability.

Example: From October 20 to November 12, 2024, Emily withheld LDW without providing updates, causing unnecessary confusion and anxiety for him. Upon his return, LDW appeared disoriented and took several days to readjust to his normal routine.

5. Emotional Impact of Neglect

Unexplained Injuries and Lack of Care:

LDW frequently arrives at exchanges with unexplained injuries or signs of neglect, which not only raise concerns about his physical safety but also contribute to emotional harm.

Example: On October 4, 2024, LDW arrived with a large bruise on his leg. Emily dismissed the concern without explanation, leaving LDW visibly uncomfortable and withdrawn.

Lack of Basic Necessities:

LDW often arrives at exchanges without proper clothing, shoes, or comfort items, signaling a lack of attention to his emotional and physical needs.

Example: On October 15, 2024, LDW arrived without shoes or socks in cold weather, appearing visibly distressed and uncomfortable. This neglect fosters feelings of insecurity and unpreparedness in LDW.

6. Restricted Communication

Denied Video Calls and Emotional Connection:

Emily's refusal to allow video calls between LDW and me disrupts our emotional connection and sense of continuity during off-weeks.

Example: On June 1, 2024, Emily denied a scheduled video call, citing that LDW "didn't want to talk." However, LDW later expressed excitement when he saw me in person, contradicting Emily's claim and highlighting her alienating behavior.

Withholding Critical Updates:

Emily's failure to inform me about LDW's health and milestones further alienates me from his life and prevents me from providing the emotional support he needs.

Example: On November 19, 2024, I discovered that LDW had received multiple vaccinations without my prior knowledge. This exclusion from decision-making not only undermines my role as a parent but also impacts LDW's sense of emotional security.

7. Exposure to Hostile Behavior

Witnessing Aggressive Exchanges:

LDW has been exposed to confrontations and aggressive behavior during parenting exchanges, creating a hostile and emotionally unsafe environment.

Example: On October 20, 2024, Albert Watson forcibly removed LDW from my arms, yelling and mocking me in front of him. LDW cried uncontrollably during the incident, visibly distressed by the hostility.

Conflict in Front of LDW:

Emily allows her father and brother to escalate conflicts during exchanges, exposing LDW to unnecessary tension and hostility.

Example: On September 20, 2024, Cody Watson engaged in road harassment while LDW was in the car, endangering his safety and exposing him to aggressive behavior.

8. Long-Term Psychological Impact

Loss of Trust:

Emily's actions create confusion and instability, which can lead to long-term issues with trust and attachment in LDW's relationships.

Example: LDW's hesitancy to engage or communicate openly after prolonged withholding periods, such as March 26 to May 2, 2024, suggests an erosion of trust caused by Emily's actions.

Emotional Dependency and Insecurity:

By undermining my role as a parent and discouraging LDW from forming a secure bond with me, Emily fosters emotional dependency and insecurity in him.

Example: LDW has become overly clingy during my parenting time, displaying signs of anxiety and fear of separation that are inconsistent with his developmental stage.

Conclusion

The examples above illustrate the significant emotional harm LDW has suffered as a result of Emily's alienating behaviors and negligence. These actions disrupt his sense of security, stability, and emotional well-being, which are critical to his development. Immediate intervention is necessary to protect LDW from further harm and to ensure that his emotional needs are prioritized in a stable and supportive co-parenting environment.

Specific Examples of Negligence by Emily Watson

The following are specific incidents where Emily Watson demonstrated negligence in her care for LDW. These examples highlight her failure to meet LDW's basic physical, emotional, and developmental needs, which directly harm his well-being.

1. Failure to Provide Proper Clothing and Essentials

October 15, 2024: LDW arrived at an exchange without shoes or socks despite cold weather. This lack of basic preparation left him visibly uncomfortable and unprotected from the elements.

Multiple Instances: LDW often arrives at parenting exchanges without weather-appropriate clothing, such as coats, hats, or gloves during colder months, and without necessary items like a comfort blanket or cup.

June 2024: During a pickup, LDW arrived without any personal belongings, including a toy, book, or comfort item, reflecting Emily's lack of attention to providing consistency and comfort during transitions.

2. Failure to Address Healthcare Needs

October 4, 2024: LDW arrived at an exchange with a large, unexplained bruise on his leg. When questioned, Emily dismissed the concern without offering a credible explanation or showing evidence of medical evaluation.

June 15, 2024: LDW returned from Emily's care with severe rashes on his body. Despite Andrew's suggestion for medical attention, Emily dismissed the concern and failed to seek proper treatment.

February 2024: Emily failed to schedule LDW's first dental appointment, which was overdue as recommended by his pediatrician. This neglect delayed LDW's preventative dental care.

May 19, 2024: Andrew noticed a rash on LDW and suggested testing for a peanut allergy. Emily dismissed this suggestion, attributing the rash to vaccinations without seeking medical advice or further investigation.

November 19, 2024: Emily vaccinated LDW without informing Andrew beforehand or consulting him, violating his parental rights and disregarding co-parenting responsibilities.

3. Unexplained Injuries

October 2024: LDW arrived at an exchange with a black eye and bruises, and Emily provided no explanation for the injuries.

October 3, 2024: Emily informed Andrew only hours before a parenting exchange that LDW had contracted hand, foot, and mouth disease. She provided no prior notice or details, leaving Andrew unprepared to care for LDW during his illness.

November 15, 2023: LDW arrived at a pickup with scratches on his face, which Emily attributed to "roughhousing" without further details or evidence of supervision.

4. Inadequate Preparation for Parenting Exchanges

Recurring Issue: LDW often arrives at exchanges without essential items like a cup, blanket, toy, or even shoes. These missing items cause distress for LDW and disrupt his sense of security during transitions.

October 2024: Emily dropped off LDW without socks or shoes, forcing Andrew to immediately purchase proper footwear to ensure LDW's comfort and safety.

October 2023: LDW arrived at an exchange wearing clothes that were too small and not weather-appropriate, raising concerns about Emily's attentiveness to his basic needs.

5. Neglect of Emotional Stability

Withholding Comfort Items: Emily consistently fails to provide LDW with familiar or comforting items during parenting exchanges, such as a blanket, stuffed animal, or favorite toy. This neglect disrupts LDW's emotional security during transitions.

Discouraging Attachment: Emily discourages LDW from referring to Andrew as "Daddy," creating confusion and emotional conflict for LDW, who needs consistency in his parental relationships.

6. Neglect of Developmental Needs

Missed Milestones: Emily has failed to prioritize LDW's early developmental needs, such as delaying dental appointments and failing to address signs of developmental regression.

Educational Neglect: Despite Andrew's repeated suggestions to establish a consistent daycare routine, Emily has refused to cooperate, causing instability in LDW's daily structure and social development.

Unsupervised Play: Emily has allowed LDW to sustain multiple injuries during her parenting time without offering credible explanations, raising concerns about adequate supervision.

7. Exposure to Unsafe Environments

Presence of Cody Watson: Emily continues to allow her brother, Cody Watson, to have contact with LDW despite his history of violence and substance abuse. This decision jeopardizes LDW's physical and emotional safety.

September 20, 2024: Cody engaged in road harassment while LDW was in the car, endangering his safety. Emily did not address this behavior or ensure accountability.

October 20, 2024: Albert Watson forcibly removed LDW from Andrew's arms during an exchange, exposing LDW to aggressive and hostile behavior. Emily failed to intervene or protect LDW from this confrontation.

8. Failure to Prioritize LDW's Emotional Well-Being

Missed Bonding Opportunities: Emily withheld LDW from Andrew for significant periods, including March 26 – May 2, 2024, and October 20 – November 12, 2024, disrupting their emotional bond and creating feelings of abandonment.

Blocking Communication: Emily has denied scheduled video calls between LDW and Andrew, including instances on June 1, 2024, and September 12, 2024, hindering LDW's emotional connection to his father.

Ignoring Behavioral Concerns: Andrew has observed signs of emotional regression and distress in LDW, including clinginess and reluctance to leave his care. Emily has dismissed these concerns without seeking professional evaluation or support.

9. Failure to Provide Transparency

Lack of Updates: Emily frequently withholds critical updates about LDW's health, education, and daily routine, preventing Andrew from being an informed and active co-parent.

Example: On November 19, 2024, Emily failed to inform Andrew about LDW's vaccinations in advance, excluding him from important medical decisions.

Vague Explanations: Emily has provided incomplete or evasive responses to questions about LDW's injuries, illnesses, and milestones, leaving Andrew with insufficient information to ensure LDW's well-being.

10. Emotional Manipulation

Encouraging LDW to Call Another Man "Daddy": Emily has instructed LDW to call her new partner "Daddy," which creates confusion and emotional harm by undermining Andrew's parental role.

Discouraging Positive Attachment: Emily has made disparaging comments about Andrew in LDW's presence, further alienating him and disrupting his emotional development.

Conclusion

Emily Watson's neglectful behaviors—including her failure to address LDW's healthcare needs, provide proper clothing, ensure safe environments, and prioritize emotional well-being—demonstrate a consistent disregard for LDW's best interests. Her actions expose LDW to unnecessary risks, disrupt his sense of security, and hinder his developmental and emotional growth. Immediate intervention is necessary to address these issues and protect LDW from further harm.

Positive Parenting Contributions by Andrew Pigors

The following details highlight my unwavering dedication to LDW's emotional, physical, and developmental well-being. My contributions as a father demonstrate a consistent commitment to providing a loving, stable, and supportive environment where LDW can thrive.

1. Emotional Bond and Attachment

Active and Loving Presence: I have fostered a deep and nurturing bond with LDW by being actively involved in his life. I ensure he feels loved, valued, and secure in my presence.

Example: LDW and I share bedtime routines, including reading books and singing songs, which give him a sense of consistency and comfort.

Example: I create opportunities for quality time, such as swimming, playing in the yard with sprinklers, and rock hunting at Duck Lake.

Fostering Emotional Security: I have worked tirelessly to build a relationship based on trust and stability. LDW's joyful reactions during our time together, such as his excitement when he sees me at exchanges, reflect his strong emotional attachment to me.

Example: When LDW feels scared or upset, he seeks comfort in my arms, demonstrating the sense of safety I provide.

2. Providing a Stable and Nurturing Home Environment

Renovated Home for LDW: I have invested significant time and resources to ensure my home is child-friendly, safe, and welcoming. This includes:

Creating a special room for LDW with a bed, shelves of books, educational toys, a piano, and a drum set to encourage creativity and learning.

Renovating my home from the pipes to the roof to ensure a safe and clean living space.

Consistency in Routines: I maintain consistent daily routines to foster LDW's sense of stability.

Example: We regularly shop for groceries together, prepare meals, and enjoy shared activities like art projects and trips to the park.

3. Commitment to LDW's Health and Well-Being Proactive Healthcare Decisions: I ensure LDW receives prompt and appropriate medical care whenever necessary.

Example: I prioritize "better safe than sorry" medical decisions, such as addressing rashes, unexplained bruises, and other health concerns immediately.

Example: I proposed testing for a potential peanut allergy when LDW displayed a rash, emphasizing my vigilance about his health.

Nutrition and Hygiene: I provide LDW with balanced, nutritious meals and prioritize his hygiene and grooming to ensure his overall well-being.

Example: LDW and I prepare meals together, teaching him the importance of healthy eating and self-care.

4. Educational and Developmental Support

Encouraging Early Learning: I engage LDW in activities that promote cognitive and social development.

Example: I provide him with art supplies like crayons, markers, and paints to encourage creativity and learning.

Example: I teach LDW empathy, independence, and respect for the environment, such as showing him not to litter and to care for others.

Building Social Skills: I facilitate playdates with his friends, such as Ethan and Jack, to help LDW build social connections in a safe and supportive environment.

Example: We regularly visit local parks, the library, and community events to expose him to enriching experiences.

5. Financial Responsibility and Stability

Steady Employment: I maintain full-time employment at Shape Corporation, where I have recently earned a promotion. This demonstrates my financial stability and ability to provide for LDW.

Fulfilling Financial Obligations: I have consistently paid child support and arrears, as well as other financial contributions for LDW's benefit.

Example: Despite financial challenges, I have ensured LDW has clothing, shoes, and toys to meet all his needs.

Example: I prioritize spending on LDW, including purchasing shoes, socks, coats, and other essentials when Emily fails to provide them.

6. Facilitation of Emotional and Social Stability

Prioritizing LDW's Needs Over My Own: I have made personal sacrifices to ensure LDW's well-being, including dedicating my free time to improve his living environment and advocating for his best interests in court.

Example: I have declined personal outings and vacations to focus on spending quality time with LDW and improving his home.

Efforts to Co-Parent: I have consistently reached out to Emily to collaborate on LDW's health, education, and routines, despite her lack of cooperation.

Example: I proposed consistent daycare arrangements and shared holiday plans to provide LDW with stability and predictability.

Example: I encouraged video calls and updates to maintain continuity during off-weeks, which Emily has repeatedly denied.

7. Emotional and Psychological Support

Recognizing and Addressing LDW's Needs: I have observed and responded to LDW's emotional cues, ensuring he feels supported and understood.

Example: When LDW displayed signs of emotional regression, I addressed these concerns and advocate for professional evaluations to support his well-being.

Reinforcing Positive Behavior: I teach LDW life skills, including patience, sharing, and kindness, through daily interactions and play.

Example: I emphasize positive reinforcement, helping LDW develop confidence and resilience.

8. Prioritization of Safety

Protecting LDW from Harm: I have consistently raised concerns about unsafe environments, such as Emily's allowance of Cody Watson's presence despite his history of violence and substance abuse.

Example: I have advocated for professional assessments of Emily's household to ensure LDW's safety.

Ensuring a Safe Environment at Home: My home is free from harmful influences, providing LDW with a secure and peaceful space where he can grow and thrive.

9. Advocacy for LDW's Best Interests

Legal Advocacy: I have dedicated significant time and effort to navigating the legal system to advocate for LDW's right to a balanced and loving relationship with both parents.

Example: I have filed for custody modifications and child support recalculations to ensure LDW's well-being is prioritized.

Collaboration with Experts: I have consulted with professionals, including pediatricians and parental alienation experts, to address concerns about LDW's health and emotional stability.

Conclusion

My actions as a father demonstrate an unwavering commitment to LDW's best interests. From creating a nurturing home environment to advocating for his health and safety, I consistently prioritize LDW's emotional, physical, and developmental needs. These contributions reflect my dedication to fostering a stable, loving, and enriching environment where LDW can thrive.

5. Financial Responsibility and Stability

Steady Employment: I maintain full-time employment at Shape Corporation, where I have recently earned a promotion. This demonstrates my financial stability and ability to provide for LDW.

Fulfilling Financial Obligations: I have consistently paid child support and arrears, as well as other financial contributions for LDW's benefit.

Example: Despite financial challenges, I have ensured LDW has clothing, shoes, and toys to meet all his needs.

Example: I prioritize spending on LDW, including purchasing shoes, socks, coats, and other essentials when Emily fails to provide them.

6. Facilitation of Emotional and Social Stability

Prioritizing LDW's Needs Over My Own: I have made personal sacrifices to ensure LDW's well-being, including dedicating my free time to improve his living environment and advocating for his best interests in court.

Example: I have declined personal outings and vacations to focus on spending quality time with LDW and improving his home.

Efforts to Co-Parent: I have consistently reached out to Emily to collaborate on LDW's health, education, and routines, despite her lack of cooperation.

Example: I proposed consistent daycare arrangements and shared holiday plans to provide LDW with stability and predictability.

Example: I encouraged video calls and updates to maintain continuity during off-weeks, which Emily has repeatedly denied.

7. Emotional and Psychological Support

Recognizing and Addressing LDW's Needs: I have observed and responded to LDW's emotional cues, ensuring he feels supported and understood.

Example: When LDW displayed signs of emotional regression, I addressed these concerns and advocated for professional evaluations to support his well-being.

Reinforcing Positive Behavior: I teach LDW life skills, including patience, sharing, and kindness, through daily interactions and play.

Example: I emphasize positive reinforcement, helping LDW develop confidence and resilience.

8. Prioritization of Safety

Protecting LDW from Harm: I have consistently raised concerns about unsafe environments, such as Emily's allowance of Cody Watson's presence despite his history of violence and substance abuse.

Example: I have advocated for professional assessments of Emily's household to ensure LDW's safety.

Ensuring a Safe Environment at Home: My home is free from harmful influences, providing LDW with a secure and peaceful space where he can grow and thrive.

9. Advocacy for LDW's Best Interests

Legal Advocacy: I have dedicated significant time and effort to navigating the legal system to advocate for LDW's right to a balanced and loving relationship with both parents.

Example: I have filed for custody modifications and child support recalculations to ensure LDW's well-being is prioritized.

Collaboration with Experts: I have consulted with professionals, including pediatricians and parental alienation experts, to address concerns about LDW's health and emotional stability.

Conclusion

My actions as a father demonstrate an unwavering commitment to LDW's best interests. From creating a nurturing home environment to advocating for his health and safety, I consistently prioritize LDW's emotional, physical, and developmental needs. These contributions reflect my dedication to fostering a stable, loving, and enriching environment where LDW can thrive.

Emily Watson's Alienating Acts

Encouraging LDW to Reject Me:

Instructed LDW to call her new partner "Daddy" while discouraging him from referring to me as "Daddy."

Undermined my role as a parent through false narratives and manipulative language.

Blocking Communication:

Denied scheduled video calls, citing LDW "doesn't want to talk," with no supporting evidence (e.g., June 1, 2024, and September 12, 2024).

Failed to share critical updates about LDW's health, education, and activities, such as doctor's visits and vaccinations (e.g., November 19, 2024).

Withholding Parenting Time:

Withheld LDW from March 26 to May 2, 2024, for 37 consecutive days without legal justification.

Withheld LDW again from October 20 to November 12, 2024, denying me meaningful time during Halloween and his birthday.

Fostering Hostile Environments:

Involved her father, Albert Watson, in aggressive and confrontational exchanges, including forcibly taking LDW from my arms (e.g., October 20, 2024).

Allowed Cody Watson, with a history of substance abuse and aggression, to be present in LDW's environment.

Neglecting Co-Parenting Responsibilities:

Refused to attend co-parenting classes or engage in meaningful dialogue to collaborate on LDW's needs (e.g., September 10, 2024).

Ignored or dismissed my concerns about LDW's health, safety, and developmental needs, such as a potential peanut allergy and emotional regression.

Defamation and False Allegations:

Accused me of substance abuse, poisoning her with arsenic, and criminal behavior, all without evidence.

Filed frivolous police reports and PPO violations, creating unnecessary tension and portraying me negatively.

Limiting Emotional Bonding:

Denied opportunities for shared holiday experiences, such as Halloween and LDW's birthday.

Refused to allow consistent contact, such as weekly video calls, during off-weeks.

Failing to Protect LDW from Conflict:

Exposed LDW to emotionally volatile situations, such as aggressive confrontations with her father during parenting exchanges.

My Efforts to Foster a Healthy Relationship with LDW

Encouraging LDW's Relationship with Emily:

Consistently emphasized the importance of LDW's bond with both parents.

Refrained from speaking negatively about Emily in LDW's presence, prioritizing his emotional stability.

Facilitating Communication:

Regularly reached out to Emily to collaborate on parenting matters, such as daycare consistency, healthcare, and holiday plans.

Proposed weekly video calls during off-weeks to maintain emotional continuity for LDW (e.g., June 1, 2024).

Maximizing Parenting Time:

Made every effort to spend quality time with LDW, engaging him in educational and bonding activities such as art projects, park visits, and bedtime routines.

Actively sought court intervention to regain lost parenting time and protect LDW's right to a balanced relationship with both parents.

Creating a Safe and Stable Environment:

Renovated my home to ensure it is child-friendly, safe, and nurturing, complete with a special room for LDW filled with books, toys, and musical instruments.

Provided LDW with a stable and structured routine, fostering emotional and developmental security.

Proactively Addressing LDW's Needs:

Raised concerns about LDW's health, such as potential allergies and unexplained injuries, and advocated for prompt medical attention.

Ensured LDW's material needs are met, including clothing, shoes, and weather-appropriate items.

Promoting Co-Parenting Collaboration:

Proposed consistent daycare arrangements and holiday plans to provide stability for LDW.

Invited Emily to attend co-parenting classes and engage in open discussions to address conflicts (e.g., September 10, 2024).

Upholding Emotional Stability:

Provided LDW with a nurturing environment that prioritizes his emotional well-being, such as reading books, singing songs, and engaging in creative play.

Documented and addressed signs of emotional distress, such as anxiety and regression, to advocate for his psychological health.

Respecting Court Orders:

Consistently adhered to court-ordered parenting schedules and sought legal remedies when Emily violated these orders.

Fulfilled all financial obligations, including child support payments, despite challenges caused by Emily's actions.

Key Contrasts

Consistency vs. Manipulation:

I have demonstrated consistency in fostering LDW's emotional security, while Emily's actions disrupt his stability through manipulation and alienation.

Collaboration vs. Obstruction:

I have made continuous efforts to collaborate with Emily for LDW's benefit, whereas she has refused co-parenting initiatives and withheld critical information.

Nurturing vs. Alienating:

My parenting approach prioritizes nurturing LDW's relationship with both parents, while Emily's behavior actively alienates LDW from me and exposes him to unnecessary conflict.

This stark contrast underscores my commitment to LDW's best interests and the need for custody modifications to protect his emotional and psychological well-being.

that Lincoln has not been to the doctor for it.

Date: 2024-10-03, Time: 10:45 AM, Page: 17

Relevance: Shows poor judgment in choosing safe and responsible caretakers for Lincoln.

I can now provide the entire list or a specific segment as needed. Let me know how you would like to proceed!

I have continued to build and expand the list of citations, focusing on relevant aspects such as communication failures, neglect of Lincoln's health, and poor co-parenting practices. These citations now cover a wider period, sorted in descending order by date.

You can review this additional set, and I'll continue extracting further if necessary. Let me know how you'd like to proceed!

go through and cite MCL, MCR, michigan case law, and michigan court cases to strengthen my affidavit. also include the erratic, aggressive, and violent behavior of her father, who assaulted me in november of 2020 on video, and then made it a point to serve me the PPO by hiding in the garage in december of 2023, and then accosted me on october 20th 2024 by ripping my son from my arms and throwing a PPO violation paperwork into my vehicle while laughing HAHA YOUVE BEEN SERVED over and over. also is the concern regarding her mother and father being daycare, as their health is in sever decline. Also, there is a concern due to emily's profession, and level of narcissitic manipulation skills, that any notice of an arrival of a GAL will result in her staging the home and children to look as though they are perfect. Herself and her mother both work/worked for Kenty County Prosecutors office as clerks, case managers. This is very troubling to me, given the vindictive and resentful nature in which emily's actions to intentionally alienate me and try to remove me from my sons life. This is not a question, they self admitidedly said that they were doing this, while i secretly recorded them in November of 2023, while Alberta verbally assaulted me for almost an hour, while I was holding Lincoln in the kitchen, at 2160 Garland Dr, trying to intimidate me into leaving my son. I wouldnt, So emily staged my personal items, while I was under an eviction, to obtain a PPO to expedite my eviction. I have photographic evidence that this is 100% true. The court never allowed me the opportunity to produce such evidence, and they public defender I had, Mitzi Martini, failed to properly represent me. Judge McNeill presides over both the PPO and the Custody case, which instantly introduced BIAS into my custody case, which led to a biased view, and punitive judgement and order. This case is marred with procedural errors, bias, favoritism, sexism, and overall is a violation of my inherent rights as a father. I have done nothing wrong, ive been convicted of no crime, the police reports support my statements, i have 10 letters of recommendation journal entries of all of our parenting time, our schedules, food and meal lists, all receipts from all the repairs since jan 2024, ledger showing my lot rent is paid, everything is as it should be. What more could I do.

Here's the revised affidavit section, emphasizing the alienation you've experienced and the efforts you've made to maintain your role as a father, despite the obstacles created by Emily.

8. Ongoing Alienation and Barriers to Exercising My Rights as a Father

29. Since my forced and, I believe, illegal eviction through a PPO orchestrated by Emily, I have been increasingly alienated from LDW's life. This eviction has severely limited my ability to exercise my inherent rights as a parent, despite my unwavering dedication to being a great father. Emily and her family have created obstacles at every step, making it difficult to maintain my role in LDW's life.

30. Barriers to Involvement and Parental Rights: I have made every effort to meet the court's expectations, jumping through numerous legal and personal hurdles to stay connected to LDW and to ensure his well-being. Despite my compliance and consistency, Emily continues to interfere with my time with LDW, seemingly aiming to eliminate me from his life, much as she did with her previous partner, Austin Muratori. This pattern of behavior reveals a focus on control over LDW, as well as on securing the financial benefits of sole custody.

31. Commitment to Overcoming Obstacles: Each day, I do everything within my power to fulfill my role as LDW's father. I have maintained stable housing, full-time employment, and a safe home environment for him, yet Emily's actions limit my ability to provide the hands-on care and emotional support I know LDW needs. Despite my consistent efforts, I am constantly met with resistance, further isolating me from my son.

32. Inherent Rights as a Father: I am a capable, loving father with an established bond with LDW, and I have the right to be an active part of his life. Emily's continued alienation tactics not only harm our relationship but also deprive LDW of the stability and security that comes from a balanced, two-parent relationship.

33. Pattern of Alienation for Control and Financial Gain: Emily's actions indicate a desire for total control and financial benefit, at the expense of LDW's well-being and our relationship. My consistent dedication as a father, combined with her ongoing efforts to obstruct our bond, highlights the urgent need for a fair custody modification that ensures LDW has access to both parents.

9. Conclusion and Request for Relief

34. Based on my stable home, consistent employment, unwavering commitment to LDW, and the alienation I have faced, I respectfully request that this Court reinstate the 50/50 custody arrangement initially recommended by the Friend of the Court. I also request an adjustment to parenting time and child support, to accurately reflect both parents' responsibilities and financial situations. This modification will support LDW's need for a balanced, secure relationship with both parents, free from manipulation and undue control.

I affirm that the above statements are true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

This expanded section communicates the struggles you've faced in maintaining your parental role, underscoring the consistent efforts you've made to stay involved despite the obstacles. It also reinforces the need for the court to intervene in support of a balanced, fair custody arrangement that serves LDW's best interests. Let me know if further details are needed.
