

- In early August 2025, Judge McNeill signed an ex parte “emergency” order suspending all of my parenting time with my three-year-old son, Lincoln. The motion did not set out specific, immediate, irreparable harm as required for ex parte relief in domestic-relations matters. See MCR 3.207(B)(1) (ex parte orders require “specific facts” showing that “irreparable injury, loss, or damage will result from the delay required to effect notice, or that notice itself will precipitate adverse action”). (Michigan Courts)
- Despite my timely objection and repeated requests for a prompt evidentiary hearing, the suspension remained in place for roughly three months before a full hearing on October 29, 2025.

2. Lack of notice and ambush at a scheduled parenting-time exchange.

- I was not served with the ex parte motion or order before an August 8, 2025 exchange. I arrived expecting my regular parenting time, and only discovered after the missed exchange—by contacting the court—that my parenting time had been suspended.

3. Off-record, ex parte handling of evidence (USB recording and mental-health evaluation).

- A USB recording submitted by the opposing party was reviewed by staff outside my presence at the judge’s direction and then used against me.
- Chambers staff instructed me by email to submit my HealthWest evaluation directly to the judge’s chambers email instead of filing it with the clerk, keeping this central piece of evidence out of the official court file and out of the opposing party’s view.

4. Double standard in evaluating evidence and overt hostility to a pro se parent.

- The court refused to look at my photos from the last normal parenting-time exchange showing Lincoln safe and happy in my care, while accepting hearsay about alleged statements by my child to a neighbor, without that neighbor ever testifying.
- Across multiple hearings, I was muted, cut off, or told the judge would not look at further filings, effectively closing the courtroom door to a self-represented parent.
