

corroborated danger, the PPO became the foundation for later contempt proceedings and was later used to influence custody outcomes.

2. Service and family involvement in building the PPO case.

- Service and preparation of the PPO involved members of Emily's family, who also appear as actors in related housing and family-law events, further entangling family disputes with judicial proceedings.

3. PPO as leverage in custody and parenting-time disputes.

- Over time, the PPO became a tool to escalate benign or civil disputes into alleged "violations," culminating in a series of show-cause hearings and jail time, which in turn caused job loss and housing instability that were later used against me in custody decisions.

B. Ex Parte Parenting-Time Suspension and Lack of Notice (August 2025)

4. August 6, 2025 – Ex parte order suspending all parenting time.

- On or about August 6, 2025, Judge McNeill signed an ex parte "emergency" order suspending all of my parenting time with my three-year-old son, Lincoln.
- The motion did not, in my view, satisfy the requirements of MCR 3.207(B)(1), which demands specific facts showing that immediate and irreparable injury will result if notice is given or delayed. (Michigan Courts)
- The last exchange on July 29, 2025, was peaceful and ordinary. I have timestamped photos from that exchange showing Lincoln smiling, safe, and unharmed in my care.

5. August 8, 2025 – Parenting-time exchange "ambush" with no prior notice of suspension.

- I was not served with the ex parte motion or order before the August 8 scheduled exchange.
- I arrived expecting my regular parenting time. Emily did not bring Lincoln to the exchange.
- Only after contacting the court and obtaining a copy of the order did I learn that my parenting time had been suspended. My follow-up email to
