Custody/Parenting Time: 2024-0000001507-DC (Andrew J. Pigors v. Emily A. Watson)

I understand that the Commission does not function as an appellate court and does not change the result in individual cases. I am asking the Commission to review a pattern of conduct by Judge McNeill that, in my view, constitutes judicial misconduct, persistent failure to perform judicial duties, or conduct clearly prejudicial to the administration of justice under Const 1963, art 6, § 30 and MCR 9.205.

I respectfully request review this complaint; I am a self-represented litigant and not a lawyer.

I. SCOPE OF THIS COMPLAINT AND THE COMMISSION’S ROLE

This complaint focuses on how Judge Jenny L. McNeill has conducted herself in my PPO case (2023-5907-PP) and custody/parenting-time case (2024-001507-DC), specifically:

1. Ex parte handling of critical evidence and communications, including directions to submit materials directly to chambers instead of filing them, and review of a USB audio recording outside my presence.
2. Repeated continuation of an “emergency” ex parte parenting-time suspension without a timely evidentiary hearing or required findings under Michigan law.
3. Unequal and hostile treatment of me as a self-represented parent, including muting and silencing during hearings and discouraging me from filing pleadings.
4. Disregard of exculpatory evidence and selective reliance on disputed mental-health materials and untested hearsay.
5. Use of restrictive orders (including a filing bond) that function as financial barriers to court access, especially for a low-income pro se parent.
6. Refusal to recuse despite a documented record of one-sided rulings, comments, and procedures creating a strong appearance of bias.

I recognize that the Judicial Tenure Commission does not reweigh evidence or substitute its judgment for the trial court’s in individual rulings. Instead, I am asking the Commission to determine whether the above pattern violates the Michigan Code of Judicial Conduct, including:

- Canon 1 (integrity and independence of the judiciary),
 - Canon 2(A)–(B) (avoidance of impropriety and the appearance of impropriety; public confidence; equal treatment), and
 - Canon 3 (performance of duties impartially and diligently, prohibition on ex parte communications, fair opportunity to be heard). (Michigan Courts)

II. SUMMARY OF MISCONDUCT

Drawing on my compiled narrative, timeline, and my record, the core patterns I have derived are as follows:

1. Emergency ex parte parenting-time suspension without proper grounds and without timely hearing.

- In early August 2025, Judge McNeill signed an ex parte “emergency” order suspending all of my parenting time with my three-year-old son, Lincoln. The motion did not set out specific, immediate, irreparable harm as required for ex parte relief in domestic-relations matters. See MCR 3.207(B)(1) (ex parte orders require “specific facts” showing that “irreparable injury, loss, or damage will result from the delay required to effect notice, or that notice itself will precipitate adverse action”). (Michigan Courts)
- Despite my timely objection and repeated requests for a prompt evidentiary hearing, the suspension remained in place for roughly three months before a full hearing on October 29, 2025.

2. Lack of notice and ambush at a scheduled parenting-time exchange.

- I was not served with the ex parte motion or order before an August 8, 2025 exchange. I arrived expecting my regular parenting time, and only discovered after the missed exchange—by contacting the court—that my parenting time had been suspended.

3. Off-record, ex parte handling of evidence (USB recording and mental-health evaluation).

- A USB recording submitted by the opposing party was reviewed by staff outside my presence at the judge’s direction and then used against me.
- Chambers staff instructed me by email to submit my HealthWest evaluation directly to the judge’s chambers email instead of filing it with the clerk, keeping this central piece of evidence out of the official court file and out of the opposing party’s view.

4. Double standard in evaluating evidence and overt hostility to a pro se parent.

- The court refused to look at my photos from the last normal parenting-time exchange showing Lincoln safe and happy in my care, while accepting hearsay about alleged statements by my child to a neighbor, without that neighbor ever testifying.
- Across multiple hearings, I was muted, cut off, or told the judge would not look at further filings, effectively closing the courtroom door to a self-represented parent.

5. Punitive structural barriers to access the court.

- A May 16, 2025 order imposed a $250.00 filing bond in the custody case, that has functioned as a financial gate against my ability to bring forth necessary motions, especially after the same PPO/custody proceedings contributed to my job loss and housing instability and loss of my parenting time with my son.

6. Refusal to recuse despite a developed record of bias.

- On October 29, 2025, I orally motioned to Disqualify Judge McNeill live during the 3rd continued custody hearing in relation to the ex-parte suspension of my parenting time, detailing the pattern of one-sided rulings, remarks, and irregular handling of evidence. She refused to recuse and continues to preside over both the PPO and custody matters.

Taken together, this pattern erodes public confidence, treats me not only differently from the opposing party but criminally and disrespectfully, and—in my view—violates the canons requiring impartiality, avoidance of ex parte communications, and a fair opportunity to be heard, especially given that Ms. Watson is an employee of the Kent County Prosecutors office, Family Court Division as a caseworker.

III. DETAILED FACTUAL BACKGROUND AND TIMELINE

The complete chronology is set out in Appendix A – Master Timeline of PPO, Custody, and Related Proceedings in Pigors v. Watson, which consolidates events from the PPO docket, custody docket, police reports, and hearing dates. Below is a narrative summary of key episodes, with emphasis on the judge’s conduct.

A. Background: Origin and Use of the PPO

1. Initial PPO obtained in 2023 based on extreme and unproven allegations.

- In 2023, Emily Watson obtained a PPO against me in Case No. 2023-5907-PP, alleging poisoning and other serious conduct that did not result in any criminal charges or substantiated findings by emergency responders or law enforcement.
- Emergency responders, when called, did not find injuries, ongoing danger, or evidence supporting criminal prosecution. Despite the lack of corroborated danger, the PPO became the foundation for later contempt proceedings and was later used to influence custody outcomes.

2. Service and family involvement in building the PPO case.

- Service and preparation of the PPO involved members of Emily’s family, who also appear as actors in related housing and family-law events, further entangling family disputes with judicial proceedings.

3. PPO as leverage in custody and parenting-time disputes.

- Over time, the PPO became a tool to escalate benign or civil disputes into alleged “violations,” culminating in a series of show-cause hearings and jail time, which in turn caused job loss and housing instability that were later used against me in custody decisions.

B. Ex Parte Parenting-Time Suspension and Lack of Notice (August 2025)

4. August 6, 2025 – Ex parte order suspending all parenting time.

- On or about August 6, 2025, Judge McNeill signed an ex parte “emergency” order suspending all of my parenting time with my three-year-old son, Lincoln.
- The motion did not, in my view, satisfy the requirements of MCR 3.207(B)(1), which demands specific facts showing that immediate and irreparable injury will result if notice is given or delayed. (Michigan Courts)
- The last exchange on July 29, 2025, was peaceful and ordinary. I have timestamped photos from that exchange showing Lincoln smiling, safe, and unharmed in my care.

5. August 8, 2025 – Parenting-time exchange “ambush” with no prior notice of suspension.

- I was not served with the ex parte motion or order before the August 8 scheduled exchange.
- I arrived expecting my regular parenting time. Emily did not bring Lincoln to the exchange.
- Only after contacting the court and obtaining a copy of the order did I learn that my parenting time had been suspended. My follow-up email to Emily explicitly states that I had “just learned of the order” and had never been served with her motion.

C. Interim Hearing and Double Standard on Evidence

6. August 28, 2025 – Interim hearing; refusal to view exculpatory photos.

- At an interim hearing on or about August 28, 2025, the court considered whether to continue or modify the ex parte suspension.
- I attempted to present photographs from the July 29 exchange showing Lincoln comfortable and uninjured. Judge McNeill stated on the record that she would not look at my photographs.
- In contrast, the court accepted, at face value, untested hearsay that my son allegedly made concerning statements to a neighbor—without that neighbor testifying under oath or subject to cross-examination.
- The court expressed concern based on that hearsay, but refused to consider my first-hand, objective images. This unequal treatment of the parties’ evidence is consistent with the pattern documented in my Motion to Disqualify.

D. Off-Record Handling of HealthWest Evaluation (Ex Parte Communications)

7. Order to obtain HealthWest evaluation, followed by chambers-only instructions.

- After the August 28 hearing, Judge McNeill ordered me to obtain a psychological assessment from HealthWest.
- The judge’s secretary then emailed me, instructing that the completed HealthWest evaluation should be sent directly to chambers via email, rather than filed with the clerk.
- I complied and emailed the report around September 5, 2025, as directed.

8. Consequences of off-record submission.

Because of this instruction:

- The HealthWest evaluation was never entered on the official register of actions.

- The opposing party and the public could not obtain it as a normal court filing.
- The judge received and relied on a key piece of merits evidence off the record and ex parte, contrary to the prohibition on ex parte communications about pending matters in Canon 3(A)(5) and the requirement that judicial decisions be based on evidence properly in the record. (Michigan Courts)

9. September 9, 2025 – Order continuing suspension, referencing off-record evaluation.

- On or about September 9, 2025, Judge McNeill issued a written order continuing the suspension of my parenting time “until further order,” explicitly referencing the existence or content of the HealthWest evaluation.
- This order was entered without a full evidentiary hearing on the disputed allegations and without explicit findings that I posed a danger to Lincoln or that unsupervised parenting time was unsafe.
- The continuation relied, at least in part, on the off-record, chambers-only evaluation.

E. Extended Delay and Accumulated Harm

10. Multiple missed parenting-time blocks (August–September 2025).

By mid-September 2025, as detailed in my Master Timeline (Appendix A), the ex parte suspension and its extensions had caused me to miss:

- Two regular alternating weekends in August (August 8–12 and August 22–26);
- The full Labor Day week block (August 29–September 2);
- Additional alternating weekends in September (September 5–9 and September 19–23).

In total, more than a month of scheduled parenting time was denied, and I had no contact with my three-year-old son for roughly ninety days from July 29 onward. The result was profound emotional harm to both me and my child, who had been accustomed to frequent, loving contact with his father.

11. October 8, 2025 – Further delay; hearing pushed out to October 29.

- Despite my timely objection and repeated efforts to obtain a prompt evidentiary hearing, a conclusive hearing had still not been held by early October.
- On October 8, 2025, chambers finally scheduled a “continuation” of the matter for October 29, 2025—nearly two months after the ex parte suspension and far beyond the 21-day hearing expectation reflected in discussions of MCR 3.207(B)(6) in Michigan appellate practice. (FindLaw Case Law)

12. October 29, 2025 – Belated evidentiary hearing.

- The evidentiary hearing on the merits of the allegations and the parenting-time suspension finally concluded on October 29, 2025—approximately ninety days after the ex parte order.
- Only at this late stage did I receive a full opportunity for sworn testimony and cross-examination. By then, the damage from prolonged separation and uncertainty was already done.

F. PPO Contempt Proceedings and Their Collateral Harm

13. Earlier show-cause hearing – Jailing, job loss, and housing loss.

- At a prior PPO show-cause hearing (commonly referred to as Show Cause #4), I was jailed for alleged PPO contempt under contested circumstances, without a full opportunity to present exculpatory evidence.
- The resulting jail time caused me to lose my job and fall behind financially, which contributed to losing my housing.
- These job and housing losses were later used against me in custody and parenting-time analysis, even though they directly flowed from the court’s handling of PPO contempt, not from parental unfitness.

14. February 28, 2025 – PPO violation hearing (Counts #5 and #6).

- At the February 28, 2025 PPO violation hearing, the record reflects side-channel communication minimizing the immediate threat of jail, while in open court the judge extended the PPO term and lectured me harshly.
- Emily’s uncorroborated allegations again received more weight than objective records showing no criminal convictions or substantiated violence.

G. Structural Barriers and Hostile Treatment of a Pro Se Litigant

15. May 16, 2025 – Filing bond order.

- On May 16, 2025, the court issued an order imposing a filing bond requirement on me as a condition to bringing further motions.
- Given my financial situation (made worse by the court-ordered jail time and its consequences), this bond operated as a practical bar to seeking relief, chilling my ability to challenge ongoing violations or seek modification.

16. Muting, cutting off argument, and discouraging filings.

- Transcripts and my narrative show multiple hearings where Judge McNeill muted my microphone, cut me off mid-objection, or instructed me not to file further materials because she would not look at them.
- As a self-represented litigant facing an experienced opposing party and intertwined PPO/custody issues, these actions effectively denied me a reasonable opportunity to be heard.

17. Refusal to recuse despite specific motion and developed record.

- On March 4, 2025, I filed a Motion to Disqualify, setting out the pattern of ex parte handling, unequal treatment of evidence, and hostile commentary. Judge McNeill denied this motion and continues to preside over my case.
- The Motion to Disqualify and its supporting exhibits are attached to this complaint as part of Appendix B.

IV. WHY THIS PATTERN VIOLATES JUDICIAL STANDARDS

Based on my understanding of the Michigan Constitution, the Michigan Court Rules, and the Michigan Code of Judicial Conduct, the conduct described above appears to violate several core obligations.

1. Canon 1 – Integrity and independence of the judiciary. (Michigan Courts)

- Canon 1 emphasizes that “an independent and honorable judiciary is indispensable to justice,” and that a judge must personally observe high standards of conduct so that “the integrity and independence of the judiciary may be preserved.”

- Off-record receipt of evidence, one-sided ex parte communications, and a sustained pattern of favoring one party over another in family cases undermine public confidence in the neutrality of the court.

2. Canon 2(A) and 2(B) – Avoiding impropriety and the appearance of impropriety; equal treatment. (Revize)

- Canon 2(A) requires judges to avoid both impropriety and the appearance of impropriety. Canon 2(B) requires judges to conduct themselves in a manner that promotes public confidence in the integrity and impartiality of the judiciary and to treat every person “fairly, with courtesy and respect.”
- Here, the combination of (a) ex parte submissions, (b) refusal to review my exculpatory photos, (c) willingness to rely on hearsay from the other side, and (d) hostile statements toward me as a pro se parent creates a powerful appearance that I have not been treated with equal respect or neutrality.

3. Canon 3 – Impartial, diligent performance and prohibition on ex parte communications. (Michigan Courts)

- Canon 3 requires that a judge perform judicial duties impartially and diligently, and bars ex parte communications on the merits of pending matters except under narrow circumstances.
- Directing that a critical mental-health evaluation be emailed to chambers instead of filed, and reviewing a USB recording through staff outside my presence, are forms of ex parte evidence handling inconsistent with Canon 3 and with the requirement that decisions be based on the record.

4. MCR 3.207 and related authorities governing ex parte orders and hearings. (Michigan Courts)

- MCR 3.207(B)(1) and (B)(5)–(6) govern ex parte custody and parenting-time orders and require:
 - Specific facts in a verified pleading or affidavit showing that immediate and irreparable injury will result without ex parte relief;

- Notice provisions informing the other party how to object; and
 - A prompt hearing and resolution of the dispute within a defined timeframe if an objection is filed.
- Michigan appellate decisions emphasize that even when ex parte orders are initially justified, the court must hold a hearing and address the child's best interests within a reasonable time, and that failure to comply with MCR 3.207's notice and hearing requirements is error. (FindLaw Case Law)
 - In my case, an ex parte order completely suspending parenting time remained in effect for approximately three months before a full evidentiary hearing occurred, despite my objection and repeated requests, and without detailed best-interest findings during the extended suspension.
5. Canon 3(A)(3) – Patience, dignity, and courtesy; fair opportunity to be heard.
- Muting my microphone, cutting off objections, and telling me not to file additional materials because they would not be considered, particularly where the other side had counsel, contradicts the duty to treat litigants with patience, dignity, and courtesy, and to ensure a fair opportunity to be heard.
6. Canon 3(C) and MCR 2.003 – Duty to recuse when impartiality may reasonably be questioned. (vLex)
- Canon 3(C) and MCR 2.003 require disqualification where a judge's impartiality might reasonably be questioned, even if the judge believes they can be fair.
 - A reasonable observer, reviewing this record of one-sided evidentiary rulings, ex parte practices, punitive bond requirements, and dismissive treatment of a pro se parent, would in my view question whether Judge McNeill can remain impartial in my cases.

In short, this is not a complaint about a single ruling or isolated comment. It is about a systemic pattern over multiple years, across both PPO and custody cases, that appears to violate Canon 1, Canon 2, and Canon 3, and that has severely harmed my parental relationship and public confidence in the Muskegon family court.

V. HARM TO THE PARENT–CHILD RELATIONSHIP AND TO PUBLIC CONFIDENCE

The harm from this pattern is not abstract. Because of the ex parte suspension and the court’s decisions to continue it without timely hearing:

- My three-year-old son has been deprived of regular, loving contact with his father for months at a time.
- A genuine father–child bond, previously recognized by the court as an established custodial environment in earlier custody findings, has been disrupted without clear, on-the-record best-interest findings.
- Job loss and housing instability, directly traceable to PPO contempt proceedings and jail time, have themselves been used against me in later analysis, creating a self-reinforcing cycle of prejudice.

From a public standpoint, when a parent is repeatedly muted, their evidence is not reviewed, ex parte material is quietly funneled to chambers, and motions are effectively taxed via a bond requirement, it sends a message that access to justice depends on status and relationships rather than equal application of law. That is the opposite of what Canon 1 and Canon 2 envision.

VI. ATTACHMENT AND EXHIBIT INDEX

To support this complaint and allow the Commission to verify the pattern described, I am attaching or will obtain and attach the following materials.

Appendix A – Master Timeline of PPO, Custody, and Related Proceedings

- A color-coded, chronological timeline consolidating events from:
 - PPO Case No. 2023-5907-PP,
 - Custody Case No. 2024-001507-DC,
 - Police reports, FOIA responses, and parenting-time schedules.

Appendix B -Motion to Disqualify

- The filed Motion to Disqualify Judge McNeill in Pigors v. Watson, with its exhibits, documenting many of the same incidents described here.

Appendix C – PPO Docket and Register of Actions (Case No. 2023-5907-PP)

- Certified or official copies showing each show-cause, PPO extension, and related order, including the hearing where I was jailed and the February 28, 2025 hearing on Counts 5 and 6.

Appendix D – Custody/Parenting-Time Docket and Register of Actions (Case No. 2024-0000001507-DC)

- Certified or official copies reflecting entry of the August 2025 ex parte suspension order, subsequent continuation orders, and the scheduling of the October 29, 2025 evidentiary hearing.

Appendix E – Ex Parte and Post-Ex Parte Orders in August–October 2025

- The ex parte order suspending all parenting time (entered on or about August 6, 2025).
- Subsequent orders continuing the suspension (around September 9, 2025 and October 8, 2025), including any references to the HealthWest evaluation and to the timing of hearings.

Appendix F – May 2025 Orders Imposing Filing Bond and Denying Post-Judgment Relief

- The May 16, 2025 order imposing a filing bond requirement.
- The May 22, 2025 order denying my motions regarding parenting time, custody, and support, which I have already preserved and labeled in my records.

Appendix G – Transcripts from PPO Hearing

- Transcripts from the PPO contempt hearing in which I was jailed (Show Cause #4).

Appendix H – HealthWest Evaluation and Chambers Communications

- The HealthWest mental-health evaluation that I was instructed to email directly to chambers.

- The email or correspondence from chambers instructing me to send the evaluation directly to the judge instead of filing it.

Appendix I – Police Reports and Related Evidence

- Police reports referenced in the Master Timeline showing that numerous calls and allegations did not result in criminal charges or findings of abuse.
- Any corresponding FOIA responses, as applicable.

Each attachment is meant to allow the Commission to see that the issues raised here are not based on speculation, but on documented orders, dockets, transcripts, evaluations, and records already collected and organized in my case files.

VII. REQUEST TO THE COMMISSION

For the reasons above, I respectfully request that the Judicial Tenure Commission:

1. Open a formal investigation into Judge Jenny L. McNeill’s conduct in Case Nos. 2023-5907-PP and 2024-0000001507-DC, focusing on:
 - Her use and continuation of ex parte parenting-time suspensions;
 - Her ex parte handling of critical evidence, including the HealthWest evaluation and USB recording;
 - Her differential treatment of my evidence versus the opposing party’s allegations;
 - Her use of filing bonds and other structural barriers as applied to a low-income, self-represented parent; and
 - Her refusal to recuse in the face of a documented pattern of apparent bias.
2. Review the attached timeline, affidavits, dockets, orders, and transcripts to determine whether her conduct constitutes:
 - Misconduct in office;
 - Persistent failure to perform judicial duties; and/or

- Conduct clearly prejudicial to the administration of justice within the meaning of Const 1963, art 6, § 30 and MCR 9.205.
3. Consider appropriate discipline if warranted, up to and including recommending public discipline to the Michigan Supreme Court, to protect:
- The integrity and impartiality of the judiciary, and
 - The rights of parents and children appearing in the Muskegon County family courts.

VIII. VERIFICATION

I declare that the statements in this narrative attachment, and in the appendices I reference and provide, are true to the best of my knowledge, information, and belief.
