

Defendant, a multi-billion-dollar corporate entity, with no demonstrable showing of hardship from a brief stay.

5. The Court finds that irreparable harm may result if the writ is executed prior to judicial review, and that no adequate remedy at law exists to reverse the loss of housing, stability, parental access, or due process if eviction is enforced beforehand.
6. The Court further finds that preservation of the status quo is necessary to safeguard Plaintiff's ability to be heard on the merits and avoid a moot or self-nullifying outcome.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED THAT:

A. Execution of the Writ of Eviction issued in 60th District Court Case No. 2025-25061626-LT is immediately STAYED pending further order of this Court.

B. This Stay shall remain in full force and effect through the scheduled hearing on August 12, 2025, or until further order by this Court.

C. This relief is granted ex parte pursuant to MCR 3.310(A)(1) and MCR 2.614(B), based on findings of irreparable harm, lack of adequate legal remedy, and the need to protect Plaintiff's judicial access, constitutional rights, and minor child's welfare.

D. Plaintiff shall promptly serve a copy of this Order on Defendant and/or its legal representative.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
