

To file a motion for reconsideration regarding your custody case, you will need to prepare several documents to support your motion. Here is a list of the necessary documents:

1. Notice of Hearing and Motion for Reconsideration: This document informs the court and the opposing party of your intent to seek reconsideration of the court's previous decision. It includes the date, time, and place of the hearing.

2. Motion for Reconsideration: This is the main document that outlines your arguments for why the court should reconsider its previous decision. It should include:

- A statement of the previous court order.
- Specific reasons for reconsideration, citing new evidence, errors of law, or facts not previously considered.
- Any legal arguments or citations to relevant case law or statutes.

3. Brief in Support of Motion for Reconsideration: This document provides detailed legal arguments and supports your motion. It should include:

- A summary of the facts of the case.
- A detailed explanation of the legal basis for your motion.
- References to any new evidence or changes in circumstances that justify reconsideration.

4. Affidavit or Declaration: This is a sworn statement that supports the facts presented in your motion. It should include:

- Any new evidence, such as witness statements, photographs, videos, medical records, or other documentation.
- Personal statements detailing any changes in circumstances or new information that has come to light.

5. Proof of Service: This document proves that the other party has been properly served with the motion and all supporting documents. It includes:

- The method of service (e.g., personal service, mail).
- The date of service.
- The name of the person who served the documents.

6. Proposed Order: This is a draft of the order you are asking the court to enter if it grants your motion for reconsideration. It should include:

- The specific changes you are requesting to the existing order.
- Any additional relief you are seeking from the court.

7. New Evidence Documentation: Any new evidence that was not previously considered by the court. This may include:

- Witness statements.
- Photographs and videos.
- Medical records.
- Police reports.
- Any other relevant documents.

8. Cover Letter to the Court: A brief letter to the court clerk explaining the purpose of your filing and listing the enclosed documents.

9. Financial Information Form (if applicable): If financial matters are involved in the reconsideration, you may need to update and include this form.

10. Copy of the Original Order: A copy of the court's original order that you are seeking to have reconsidered.

Ensure all documents are signed, notarized if necessary, and include all required information as per Michigan Court Rules. Additionally, check with the court clerk to ensure you have all the correct forms and that there are no additional local requirements. Once prepared, file the motion and supporting documents with the court and serve the opposing party.
